9 INJURED, TWO HOUSES WRECKED IN EXPLOSION

Gas Detonation Destroys Whole Side of Flat at 4247 Blaine — Windows Are Broken for Block Around.

FIREMEN SEARCH RUINS FOR VICTIMS

Man and Wife Thrown to Basement by Force of Blast Which Is Heard Over the Entire South Side.

A terrific explosion, believed to have been caused by illuminating gas, wrecked the four-family flat building at 4245-47 Blaine avenue, and the frame dwelling at 4249, at 11:15 o'clock last night.

Nine persons injured by the explosion were taken to hospitals, while firemen searched the wreckage for others believed to be there.

The west part of the flat building, No. 4247, occupied downstairs by Vito Viviano, his wife and nine children, and with the upstairs flat vacant, was destroyed, while No. 4245 was less completely shattered. The family of George M. Schweyer occupied the frame house at 4249.

The blast was heard throughout the South Side and the central West End. Windows were broken for more than a block in all directions from the explosion scene.

Neighbors reported that the family living in No. 4245 was seen after the explosion, and that its members did not seem to be seriously injured.

The buildings at 4243 and 4253 Blaine avenue, to the east and west of the destroyed houses, were left standing, with their windows broken.

Viviano had owned No. 4247 for six years, according to Mrs. C. J. Wright of No. 4239, who said she sold him the house. He is an employe of the Viviano Grocery and Manufacturing Co., 829 Wash street.

Mrs. Frank Graber, living in No. 4245, who was taken to City Hospital suffering from bruises and cuts, said she believed the Viviano family was away from home at the time of the explosion. She and her husband said the Vivianos had gone downtown, and, they believed, had not returned.

However, Mrs. Graber said, she heard a door slam at the Viviano house, and saw a light in the basement there, shortly before the explosion.

Walter Thiel, 4243 Blaine avenue, suffered shock and cuts on the right foot when windows on the west side of his home were blown in by the force of the explosion.

He was asleep, he said, when he was awakened suddenly by a loud report and found himself showered with glass. With him in the house were his two children, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Scates, and her child.

Mrs. Louise Schweyer, 4249 Blaine, was taken to City Hospital, also suffering from shock as well as cuts and bruises of the right foot, right wrist and forehead.

"I was reading a paper in the kitchen in the basement," she related, "when I heard a loud report. The lights went out and I called to my husband, George, and my daughter, Lillie. Then all of a sudden everything was ablaze and things began to fall around me. I don't know how I got out of the house."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, 4245 Blaine, were treated at City Hospital for minor cuts. "I was in our front bedroom reading," Mrs. Allen said, and my husband was asleep, getting ready to go on his job—he's a cab driver—when our house seemed to collapse and we found ourselves in the basement.

"We managed to crawl out a basement window, but I think our house was almost entirely destroyed by fire." She and her husband were cut on the feet and legs in crawling from their home.

The daughter, Lillie, was taken to Missouri Pacific Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Others taken to City Hospital were B. J. Doerr, a city fireman; Miss Leona Kitchen and William Krewson, both of 4245A Blaine; Leo Fitzgerald, 4321 Hunt avenue.

Fitzgerald was cut and bruised in helping Mrs. Schweyer and her daughter from the wreckage of their home. "I left my home about two blocks away when I heard the

MILITARY DICTATORSHIP IS SET UP IN BULGARIA AND CONFIRMED BY KING

Army Strikes Suddenly, Gains Complete Control; Even Village Mayors Ousted; Program of "Authority Regime" Includes Budget and Social Reform.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 19.—Striking swiftly just before sun up, the Bulgarian army today junked the constitutional Government and took control of the nation under a military dictatorship which was confirmed at once by royal decree.

Whether King Boris, the 40-year-old monarch, who has the reputation of being a fighter, was sponsor of the coup d'etat, or whether it was thrust upon him by the army, was not immediately apparent, even to the populace of Sofia.

Whatever his original position, the King aquiesced promptly to the new state of affairs, and signed decrees which dissolved Parliament and put the new government, with Kimon Gueroguieff as Premier, in power.

Members of the former cabinet were arrested and placed under guard as the soldiers seized the government. Reports that several hundred persons had been arrested were heard. Soldiers were in absolute control of the situation, not only here but in other cities throughout the country. Heavy guards were on duty at all public buildings and in the streets, and most of the populace remained indoors. No disturbances were reported from any section of the nation.

Evidence of Long Planning.

The blow was struck swiftly and effectively before dawn, and in the manner of its execution showed evidence of weeks of planning. Troops moved speedily from their barracks to all public buildings in Sofia, and took possession of every strategic point without hindrance. At the same time, garrisons in provincial cities were executing similar movements.

In the time required for a brief military march through the streets to previously designated posts of duty the army was in control of the whole nation, from the premiership down to the mayors of villages.

Soldiers went also to the Royal Palace, and soon King Boris was signing decree after decree setting up the new form of government. Some 30 documents had received his approval by noon.

One report was that the first information the King had of the movement was when soldiers surrounded his residence. Even if that was the case, the monarch did not hesitate long about giving his approval.

In fact, the decrees, followed by a lengthy manifesto setting forth the objective of the new government as the creation of a disciplined, orderly state, came so rapidly that one theory was that they had been in the King's hands long before the army struck.

Party Rule Called Failure.

The manifesto described the new government as an "authority" regime, "independent of political passions." There will not even be municipal elections, which have been a source of embarrassment to the government recently, because of the huge Communist vote piled up in them.

Complete failure of the system of party government, the manifesto declared, sowed the seeds of trouble, demoralized the people, and hampered the normal functioning of the state.

The "co-operation of the army" came as a result, the declaration explained, of "the general collapse of the democratic regime and consciousness of the necessity for ending a dangerous situation."

The Mayor of Sofia was dismissed from office as promptly as the national government was thrown out, and the view was held that an entirely new set of local officers likely would be named throughout the country.

The program of the dictatorship as outlined in the manifesto involves the following points:

Organization of a disciplined state, with fusion of some ministries and a reduction in the number of political divisions in the public services.

Creation of a stable local administration, with the Mayors named by the central government.

Re-establishment of the credit and authority of the state by balancing the budget and creating new sources of revenue.

Provisions to make credit more accessible, especially to farmers and artisans.

Raising of the cultural level in villages.

Regulation of industrial production with respect to the real needs of the country and the lowering of prices of industrial goods.

Reduction of unemployment through measures to provide work by strict application of social legislation.

Creation of new markets.

A fundamental reorganization

WOMAN ARRESTED YEAR LATE BECAUSE MOTHER WAS SICK

Federal Agents Wait Till After Invalid's Death to Take Bookkeeper Into Custody.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—After Federal agents waited a year to save her dying mother from shock, they arrested Margaret C. Ehringer, 32 years old, former assistant head bookkeeper of the Tradesmen's National Bank, on charges of embezzlement today.

The $1600 theft the young bookkeeper is accused of during 1930 and 1931 was reported by National Bank examiners more than a year ago to the U. S. Division of Investigation Bureau here.

Investigation disclosed that the bookkeeper's mother was a bedridden invalid who might be killed by the shock of her daughter's arrest; an agent told U. S. Commissioner William S. Wacker today. So the Government waited until the mother died last Tuesday.

The daughter today was held in $2000 bail for court.

THREE KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS INTO CHESAPEAKE BAY

Body of One Man Recovered from Wrecked Ship Quarter Mile Off Bay Ridge, Md.

By the Associated Press

BAY RIDGE, Md., May 19.—The body of William C. Power, Washington, D. C., was recovered from a submerged airplane which crashed into Chesapeake Bay late today. The United States Naval Academy was asked to send boats to search for the bodies of two other Washington men, Ralph Bangs and Malcolm Zahn, believed to have been in the plane also.

The plane was identified, by numbers, as the property of Bangs. Officials communicated with Mrs. Bangs by telephone and were told that he, Power and Zahn took off from an airport in Alexandria, Va., during the afternoon.

The ship, witnesses said, apparently went into a spin when the pilot made a turn. It plunged into 13 feet of water, a quarter of a mile off shore. All but the tail and a part of one wing were submerged.

DEALERS ARRESTED AS VIOLATORS OF STATE LIQUOR LAW

SCULLIN BLOCKS PROPOSED CHANGE

Gets Aldermen's Committee to Hold Up Bill Designed to Permit Basement Bars.

Arrests under the State and city liquor laws began here yesterday, when the State Liquor Supervisor's office brought a charge of violation of the State law against Arno E. Stielberg and Jules Ross, wholesale liquor dealers, in room 1019 Ambassador Building.

The two men were summoned to the State Supervisor's office in the Mart Building. Deputy Supervisor Quellmalz questioned them, and called policemen, who took them in custody. They were released on bonds of $500 each, to appear June 14 in the Court of Criminal Correction, before Judge Butler.

The charge is that the dealers, operating under the firm name of Brennan, Stielberg & Ross, have not paid the required State taxes on liquor sold by them. These taxes, on a gallonage basis, are estimated as amounting to $3600.

At the instance of Excise Commissioner Scullin, who urged them to leave the local liquor ordinance unchanged "until we see how it will work," members of the Public Safety Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday decided to defer action on a bill to repeal a section of the ordinance requiring that hotel bars, except when operated in connection with a dining room, be on the ground floor.

The bill was introduced last week by Alderman Lietchen of the Third Ward, Democrat, after it became known that Scullin had held up the license of the Coronado Hotel, because of the "Coal Hole," a bar, in its basement. Scullin suggested to Preston J. Bradshaw, one of the owners of the hotel, that the place be converted into a restaurant which would enable drinks to be served with food in connection with the bar. After the committee's action yesterday, Scullin said three weeks had been given the hotel to make the changes if it desired to continue the "Coal Hole" in operation.

Police Enforcing Law.

Enforcement of the city liquor ordinance was begun by the police at 7 a. m. yesterday. Scullin asked police to arrest persons operating liquor establishments who had not applied for licenses, as well as those who fail to observe the regulations requiring closing at midnight and on Sunday.

Chief of Police McCarthy assigned two groups of three detectives each to assist in making a round of the saloons. In addition, three detectives have been assigned to Scullin's offices, which has four inspectors.

Although the liquor ordinance requires all places selling liquor to have licenses, Scullin said yesterday he intended to be lenient toward those who had shown their intent to comply with the law by filing applications for licenses. Of the 1012 applications issued, about 775 have been filled out and returned to his office.

At the committee meeting yesterday, Scullin made a vehement protest against the bill to change the regulations regarding hotel bars.

Scullin on Basement Bars.

"I see no reason to cut the bill to pieces for one indicidual," he declared. "Every hotel in town is complying in the law and I can't see why we should make an exception in just one case. That is special privilege and as long as I am Excise Commissioner, there are going to be no special privileges to anyone, I don't care who he is.

"The little fellow has just as much right to request a change in the law as the big fellow. You've passed a liquor bill and you should leave it alone, until we see how it is going to work."

"If we approve this bill," said Alderman Eilers of the Twenty-sixth Ward, Republican, "it means that every Tom, Dick and Harry can take out a restaurant license and operate a bar in the basement or any place else, doesn't it, Mr. Scullin?"

"That is just what it means," replied Scullin.

Midnight Closing Under State Law.

Alderman Scott of the Twenty first Ward, Democrat, said: "Some of the members feel, Mr. Scullin, that we should defer action on any proposed changes in the liquor law until there is a considerable number

DYNAMITE CHECKS ITS SPREAD AFTER 4 1-2 HOURS

Three Missing, Many Hurt — Section Destroyed Includes 13 Large Buildings and 75 Residences—1200 Homeless.

CIGARETTE STARTED BLAZE IT IS THOUGHT

110 Telephone Girls Stay at Posts Till Driven Out —Low Water Pressure, Wind and Sightseers Hamper Firemen.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 19. — A disastrous fire today wiped out 42 blocks in the Stock Yards and adjacent territory. The loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

Three persons are reported missing, and at least 500 persons were treated for injuries, a few of them serious. Among the injured are 36 firemen. About 1200 persons were made homeless by the fire.

Dynamite used by firemen destroyed several buildings in the path of the fire and was effective in checking it. At 7:30 p. m., four and a half hours after the fire started, Fire Marshal Corrigan declared the fire was under control.

Big Packing Houses Escape.

Starting apparently from a carelessly tossed cigarette near the western end of the stockyards the fire was carried by a strong southwest wind across Halsted street into a residential and commercial neighborhood. It spread with such rapidity that, within an hour after the first alarm, it raged uncontrolled over an area a mile square. The large packing houses, which are situated west of the point at which the fire started, were not damaged. About 13 major buildings and between 75 and 100 rooming houses, bungalows, stores and apartment houses were damaged or destroyed.

Virtually all of the city's fire equipment was sent to the area. Fire departments from suburbs were called as building after building caught fire. More than 2500 persons were pressed into service to assist the 2000 firemen. Even bucket brigades were formed.

Territory Burned Over

The fire swept over a vastly greater area than the 42 blocks destroyed, but was checked outside the total damage region, with only the loss of an occasional building. The winds carried sparks and flaming ember. far to the northeast, but the eastern line of building totally destroyed fronted on Emerald avenue, seven blocks from Morgan street, the western boundary. The northern limit was Thirty-ninth street and the southern between 45th and 46th street.

Police lines were thrown around a three-mile square—from Thirty-first to Fifty-first and from Ashland to Wentworth avenues—and 300 policemen perspiring in the record-breaking heat of 92 degrees, in addition to the suffocating heat of the conflagration, fought to preserve some semblance of order.

The huge hay barn of the Union Stockyards & Transit Co., in the heart of the mile-square packing area, caught fire about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Authorities think the cause was a carelessly discarded cigarette.

The fire leaped to other nearby

PARK PAROLES SLAYER OF STANLEY KETCHEL

Walter Dipley Sent to Missouri Prison 23 Years Ago for Killing Boxer.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19.—Walter Dipley, slayer of Stanley Ketchel, middleweight boxing champion and one of the outstanding light heavyweights of his time, was paroled today by Gov. Guy B. Park, after serving more than 23 years in the State penitentiary.

Ketchel was shot to death Oct. 15, 1910, at the ranch of Col, R. P. Dickerson near Conway, Mo., as a result of a quarrel over a woman, Goldie Smith, who represented herself as Dipley's wife. Dipley, now 46 years old, was foreman at the Dickerson ranch, where Ketchel came to fish and hunt. Dipley testified the fighter made improper advances to the woman, who was housekeeper at the ranch.

Ketchel was fatally wounded in the back as he was eating breakfast. Dipley, who pleaded self-defense, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Dipley was paroled to B. Ward Mackey, former Webster County Sheriff, of Springfield, Mo. Dipley told prison officials he planned to go to East St. Louis, Ill., to visit friends, and hoped to find employment as a shoe factory machinist, the trade he learned during his incarceration.

Col. R. P. Dickerson to Seek Revocation of Parole.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 19.—Col. R. P. Dickerson, Springfield business man, at whose ranch Stanley Ketchel was murdered 24 years ago, this afternoon retained two Springfield attorneys to seek revocation of the parole granted earlier today to Ketchel's slayer, Walter Dipley. Dickerson and former Senator James A. Reed had blocked previous parole efforts.

"We didn't know anything was pending," Dickerson said. Linn Ketchel, a brother in New York, where he is an offiical of a steamship line, also would have fought the parole, Dickerson added.

"Action is being withheld, pending word from Ketchel's brother," said Jerry B. Fenton, who was retained with Robert Durst, former Assistant United States Attorney-General, by Dickerson.

BRITON SENDS U. S. HALF CENT AS HIS PART OF WAR DEBT

Martin Finn Says That's All He Can Spare; Advises America to Wipe the Slate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Half a cent was paid today on Great Britain's $4,000,000,000 war debt and at the same time a piece of advice given the United States about "this war debt business."

Martin Finn, a Briton, sent it to the Standing Committee of Congressional correspondents in a letter. He said:

"Congress says Great Britain must pay, so as a humble Briton I am sending my bit—a farthing (half a cent)—that's all I can spare, although I am ina job.

"But it was not so long ago that I was 'on the rocks,' broke to the wide, and for a long time, job has been touch and go." . . .

The farthing was promptly delivered to the Treasury, but Finn remarked that Britain's depression had begun in 1920 and that American income taxes are "nothing like ours."

"We have knocked off thousands of millions of pounds owing to us from other nations simply because it was a millstone around their neck," he said, "and it was no use bullying them or trying any other way to get it.

"The sooner you realize this the better; E. G., wipe the slate. It only hinders recovery, this war debt business, and high taxation."

Wealthy Toledo Man Attacks Pair in Detroit With "Longest Knife He Could Buy."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich, May 19.—Alvin Meyer, 48 years old, wealthy former manager of a large Toledo department store, today wounded his estranged wife and stabbed her admirer, Norman Beerbohm, 28, to death in a downtown parking lot. Meyer surrendered to police. Beerbohm died in the arms of Meyer's wife, Elda, 30, in the front seat of her 16-cylinder limousine.

"I'm glad I did it," Meyer told police. "I don't care whether I die in prison or somewhere else. I bought the longest knife I could find and stabbed him when I saw him getting into my wife's car."

Mrs. Meyer, the daughter of a Cambria (Wis.) minister, suffered severe but not dangerous cuts as she attempted to shield Beerbohm.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 19.—Dr. Herman A. Hanser, chief surgeon at Lutheran Hospital, St. Louis, is in a serious condition at Campbell Clinic Hospital here as a result of an automobile accident near Tallulah, La., Wednesday night.

Dr. Hanser suffered a fracture of the left arm and a serious infection has developed. Physicians said it might be necessary to amputate the arm.

Dr. Hanser, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Frinke of Portsmouth, O., cousins, were touring the South on vacation when the accident happened. All were brought to the hospital here, but the condition of the other patients was not regarded as serious.

The four were en route to Biloxi, Miss., when their automobile was sideswiped by another car on the road between Tallulah and Lake Providence, La. Their car was thrown over an embankment.

Dr. Hanser, 56 years old, has his residence and office at 3651 Grand-Del Square. His nephew, Dr. T. H. Hanser, who has offices with him, went to Memphis yesterday.

COLLEGE YOUTH IS KILLED IN ROW AT HOUSE PARTY

Classmate, Who Is Said to Have "Crashed" Affair, Is Held at Philadelphia.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Daniel Quinn, 19-year-old college student, was mysteriously killed early today following a purported quarrel during a house party. Police arrested Clifford Keane, 23, his classmate, who lives in Valley Falls, R. I.

Edward McKernan, 21, of Bridgeport, Pa., student at the same college, was held as a material witness.

Police said the quarrel began after Keane, McKernan and three girls "crashed" the party, which was in progress in a North Philadelphi aresidence. They remained but a short time, authorities said, and when they started to leave Quinn, who lives in Philadelphia, accompanied them outside. Police said they learned from other members of the party that a short argument over a girl ensued. Quinn failed to return to the party and a search was made for him. He was found lying on the curb, with a wound in his head.

Dr Herbert Rovno said he believed death was caused by a fractured skull.

LA FOLLETTE MEN QUIT REPUBLICAN, FORM NEW PARTY IN WISCONSIN

Group Adopts the Name "Progressive" and Will Contest the State With the G. O. P. and Democrats.

ROOSEVELT POLICIES ARE INDORSED

Senator Indicates Campaign Will Be Made on Support Given President by Liberals in Both Old Organizations.

By the Associated Press.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., May 19.—Wisconsin Progressive Republicans today formed a new political party to be led in battle this year by Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., who is up for re-election.

The organization will be known as "the Progressive party," retaining the label which the late Senator Robert M. La Follette put on that branch of the Republican party which he headed many years.

With the creation of the Progressive party, the La Follette following in Wisconsin will officially abandon the Republican column, where many primary elections for years past have found them contesting with regular Republicans for State and national offices.

Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. will campaign under the new party label as a supporter of President Roosevelt. He so indicated in a speech which he made to the new party conference late today, after delegates had gone on record overwhelmingly in favor of breaking away from the Republican party.

New Political Alignment.

In the State campaign, however, the new political alignment, which will select its candidates for State offices at a later date, will turn its guns on the Democratic Schmedeman administration, and Senator La Follette gave his audience the cue when he said:

"The same reactionary interests that dominated the Republican party are now reaching out for control of the Democratic party through the State and congressional elections of 1934.

"They will have their candidates in the primaries, masquerading as supporters of President Roosevelt and hiding under the cloak of his popularity. They have already crept into the machinery of the party in many states. In Wisconsin as elsewhere Democratic officeholders have made common cause with utility corporations and other interests which progressives of both parties have fought at Washington."

Flays Republican Party.

Senator LaFollette flayed the Republican party, under whose banner he succeeded his late father in the United States Senate as preserver of the "Wisconsin idea" in politics. He espoused the Roosevelt policies with this statement:

"Let us look the facts in the face and take a realistic view of the political conditions that confront us. The leading Progressives of this country in 1932 openly advocated the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as a Progressive Democrat. With the support of millions of Progressives and Independent voters, he carried Wisconsin and other States where the Democratic organization was a discredited and feeble minority.

"President Roosevelt was nominated and elected because the people believed him to be a man who could not be controlled by reactionaries in his own party nor by selfish and corrupt groups that have always sought to manipulate party machinery in their own interests.

Roosevelt Achievements.

"No one can deny that the principal achievements of the present administration had their origin in years of effort by progressives of both parties and have been accomplished since March 4, 1933, by active co-operation between the president and Progressive Senators and Representatives within and without the Democratic party."

Senator La Follette said that the Democratic Congress recently passed a revenue bill which would have allowed wealthy taxpayers to escape the burdens of this depression "had not the progressives forced action to increase taxes upon those best able to pay."

He credited Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska with leadership of the fight which progressives waged to prevent "the lease of Muscle Shoals years ago to private power interests."

Pig Prices Decline Despite Federal Relief Buying Program

Price was $4.60 in August, 1933, when Government Began Buying Hogs—Top Last Week Was $3.80.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The newest phase of the Federal Government's huge buying operations in the nation's hog markets by which in nine months more than 7,000,000 animals have been absorbed was started this week at prices 75 to 90 cents below quotations prevailing at the beginning of the "relief-stabilization" program last summer.

Stockyards price averages for the week ending today ranged well below $4. Last Aug. 26, when the relief buying started, the top was $4.60. On Aug. 19, when the slaughter of pigs began as prescribed in the corn-hog program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the top was $4.65.

The peak price a year ago was around $5.45. This week it hovered at $3.70 to $3.80, not including the processing tax which since its inception gradually has been increased to $2.25 a hundredweight, paid by packers for the indirect bnefit of producers.

Relief Buying Tripled.

This week the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation buying was tripled. An average of 15,000 head are being removed from regular channels by Government bidders daily. June 4, when the new purchasing program is scheduled to end, 225,000 will have been slaughtered for the needy.

Until this week the rate of buying has been only 3200 to 4800 head a day, taken at only two other points besides Chicago. Now the Government is buying at 24 points from San Diego to Newark.

Since Jan. 1 it is estimated 975,000 head of hogs have been purchased by the Government for the needy. Besides this, 40,000 were bought here last fall during the "sellers' strike" and the yard workers' strike. Including pigs and sows removed from the market the Government in about nine months had purchased well over 7,000,000 head before the enlarged buying of this week was inaugurated.

Buyers competing with Government bidders interpreted the program as a new attempt to drive the market higher. Prices have been declining at the rate of 5 to 15 cents weekly since March 1 and are now almost $1 under March quotations.

Hogs sold to the Relief Corporation are tax free.

Weight Below Normal.

The number of hogs dressed in April was 3,411,000, 12 per cent greater than that during March but smaller than in any previous April since 1927. An even greater reduction in the amount of pork and lard produced was caused by the fact that the average live weight of hogs was under normal, probably the lightest for any April in at least 15 years, packers' figures show.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has estimated 240,000,000 pounds of pork have been eliminated from commerce.

Lard stocks in cold storage May 1, however, totaled 149 per cent more than May 1 a year ago and 57 per cent more than the five-year average for the first of the month.

Maintenance of peace and good relations with all Powers, particularly neighboring countries, and establishing of relations with Soviet Russia.

Cabinet of Seven Members.

The manifesto expressed confidence that the entire nation would support the Government.

In line with the policy for a smaller ministry, a Cabinet of seven members was named. With the Premier, who will temporarily hold the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, the following members will serve: Peter Midileff, Interior and Temporary Justice; Peter Todoroff, Finance; Gen. Petko Zlateff, War; Prof. Yanki Moloff, Education; Kosta Noyadieff, former national bank president, Commerce and, temporarily, Agriculture; Nicholas Zacharieff, Public Works and, temporarily, Railways.

Expansion of the Cabinet later by naming permanent holders for some of the temporarily-held portfolios is planned, the Government announced.

The new Cabinet was still in session late tonight, and there were indications a decree dissolving all political parties would be among its first official acts. Political rallies scheduled for tomorrow were forbidden. It was stated semi-officially the press censorship would be lifted by morning. The streets were crowded tonight and the cafes and clubs were well patronized.

Communist Activity Had Kept Bulgaria Stirred Recently

Communist activity has kept Bulgaria in a stir during recent months. In February 12 former sailors were sentenced to death by a military court for alleged Red agitation in the Navy. On March 19 many students were injured in fighting between Communists and Nationalist students of the University of Sofia.

The March fighting extended to various sections of the capital and was halted only after repeated police charges.

In one instance Communist workers attempted to free imprisoned comrades from police headquarters but were finally overpowered by the officers.

Even as the King dissolved Parliament, rumors were circulating outside the country that he had been assassinated.

Citizens Dazed on Finding Military in Control in Streets.

Bulgarians, who retired last night expecting a quick solution of an ordinary Cabinet crisis, awoke this morning to find their country in a state of siege. Military patrols moved through the streets, ordering civilians back into their houses. Airplanes cruised low over the capital and machine guns were mounted in strategic positions.

The dazed citizenry did not know what had happened until the state of siege was raised at noon and the establishment of a military dictatorship was announced.

Officers of the Sofia garrison assembled in their quarters for final orders at 1 a. m. Troops were led out at 2:30 a. m. to occupy the city, while similar action was being taken in the provincial centers. Telephone and telegraph offices were taken over immediately and placed under heavy guards. All communication by wire was stopped.

After the state of siege was raised most of the soldiers disappeared from the streets and local telephone and telegraph service was restored. A censorship on telegrams remained tonight, however, and telephone calls to foreign countries were forbidden.

Ever since he ascended the throne of the Bugars 16 years ago, King Boris III has had to cope with revolutionary outbreaks and has been the target of would-be assassins' bullets.

Once the automobile in which he was riding fell into an ambush and two of his attendants were killed. One bullet grazed the King's mustache, but he took his wounded chauffeur's place and drove out of danger. He thereafter organized a search party that ran the assailants to earth.

Known for courage and ability, he has won popularity because of his common, man-of-the-street attitude. On numerous occasions he has laid aside his kingly robes to mix with the people.

He is a locomotive engineer and an automobile mechanic and knows enough of several other trades to earn his bread and butter.

"It would not frighten me if I were to lose my throne," he is reported once to have said. "If that were to happen I would go right to America and get a job. I know lots of trades and even if I were to fail at those there is no reason why I shouldn't get a job as a university professor. There ought to be a job somewhere in America for an ex-King."

In recent moths he has had to deal with one disturbance after another. When Communist activities were alleged to have been discovered in the navy early this year, he rushed back to Sofia from Bucharest, where he had been visiting King Carol of Rumania. The agitation was put down with an iron fist and a month later the King sat stubbornly on his throne while mobs declared at the time to have been composed of Reds rioted in the streets of Sofia.

Called Mussolini's Puppet.

In some other Balkan states Boris has been called a puppet for Premier Mussolini of Italy. His marriage in 1930 to Princess Giovanna of Italy is said to have formally sealed a political understanding with Rome. This is declared in Italy and Bulgaria to be an exaggerated account, but no effort is made to disguise the strong bonds that have united the two countries under Boris' reign.

Boris succeeded to the throne on the abdication of his father, King Ferdinand, on Oct. 3, 1918. Ferdinand fled from the country on the defeat of Bulgaria's allies, Austria and Germany. He had cast his lot with the losing side in the World War.

explosion," he said. "About half a dozen other men joined me. We heard the screams of women in the house at 4249 and helped an elderly woman and a younger woman, both covered with debris, from a first floor window."

Krewson was injured in getting out of his home. He said he helped Miss Kitchen out of a second-story window. They were able to descend to safety on piled-up wreckage, he said.

OGDEN MILLS SAYS NEW DEAL MEANS FEDERAL CONTROL

Ex-Secretary Declares Individual Liberty Cannot Long Survive Loss of Economic Freedom.

By the Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 19.—Declaring that the Republican party was "born to save the Union," Ogden L. Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, said today that it "must now go forth to battle to save the principles upon which the Union was founded."

Mills, denouncing the "New Deal," said he saw disguised in it "definite steps in a major program looking to the ultimate setting up of a system of economic planning by the Government on a nation-wide scale, accompanied by control of industry and the regimentation of the American people."

Addressing the Association of New York State Young Republican Clubs, which cheered predictions of the return to power of the party in state and nation, Mills said:

"The time has come to present the issue fairly and squarely to the American people, and let them decide whether they desire to sanction a program which inevitably means revolutionary changes in our Government, institutions and civilization. The people are entitled to have the issue sharply drawn. They are entitled to complete candor from both sides.

"There must be no repetition of the 1932 campaign, when the Democratic party made certain specific pledges, practically all of which have since been repudiated, while the true purposes of the present administration were concealed in obscure and equivocal language."

He said that the "revolutionary process" of the New Deal "must end in the destruction of individual liberty, for individual liberty cannot long survive the death of economic freedom."

Saying he appropriated the language of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Mills invited his audience to "take a look at the record."

"The surest way to understand the Government program and all its implications," he said, "is to turn to the writings of the man who undoubtedly furnished its underlying philosophy—Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell."

Cites Tugwell's Views.

He said that Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, advocated complete Government control.

"The professor foresees that legal and administrative difficulties are likely to prove embarrassing, but he is equal to the task of overcoming these obstacles," said Mills.

"'We must set up, therefore,' he says, 'devices of a sort to which business men will at first voluntarily agree, and which at the same time contain no threat to the public.'

"The amazing thing is that by setting up the bait of the temporary suspension of the Sherman act, our business men fell for the code device just as he had foreseen. A resourceful man, Mr. Tugwell."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., president of the National Republican Club, told the clubs that what the party needed was "new blood."

"Without new blood a political party dies of dry rot," he said. "This is what has been happening to the Republican party.

"No party can hold the younger men and women unless it gives them two things: Clear-cut policies based on common sense and idealism and the opportunity to take an active part in party affairs. We need bold action. This is no time for timid evasion."

DOCTOR TESTIFIES AT HIS TRIAL FOR AIDING DILLINGER

Physician Says He Treated Desperado After He Was Threatened With Machine Gun.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 19.—A description of a wounded, cursing John Dillinger, who, he said, threatened him with death, was given today by Dr. Clayton May testifying in his own defense at his Federal court trial on charges of conspiracy to harbor the fugitive.

Dr. May took the stand after Judge Gunnar Nordbye denied a motion for dismissal on completion of the government's case. Thomas McMeekin, St. Paul, counsel for May and Mrs. Augusta Salt, a nurse, argued the government had failed to prove conspiracy.

Dr. May's version of how he treated the desperado after Dillinger had shot his way out of a St. Paul apartment last March 31, included how Eugene Green drove him in Green's automobile to a friend hurt in "a still explosion." Green, referred to by the physician as "Eddie," was killed April 3 by Federal agents.

Says Patient Was Very Pale.

"I asked Eddie," said Dr. May, "if his friend was wanted by the authorities and he said no. We went to an apartment on Thirty-third and Fremont and stopped. Eddie and I went to a black sedan parked across the street. There was a man in the back seat with his leg propped up. He was very pale.

"Eddie told him I wanted to take him to a hospital but he said 'to —— with that, you take me to the place you said you were, a private place.' He uncovered a machine gun as he talked 'I'll blow your brains out if you don't do what I tell you,' the man said."

They drove to Mrs. Salt's apartment and the physician went in, he testified, telling Mrs. Salt, "There's a man out here that's been hurt and he has threatened me and I have to take care of him. I saw a rifle on the floor of the automobile."

Patient Refused to Tell Name.

The patient the Government contends was Dillinger, was taken into the apartment and put to bed, where, Dr. May continued, he took "an automatic from his belt and put it under the quilts."

"Did you ask him his name?" questioned McMeekin.

"Yes, but he said, 'the —— with that. You go ahead and take care of me or the same thing will happen to you that happened to the doctor in Kansas.' He threatened me with the gun. He asked me for 'a shot in the arm so I won't get lockjaw' and I left in a taxicab."

Dr. May said he had no idea then who the patient was, though he saw a dark-haired woman there. He identified her as Evelyn Frechette, friend of the outlaw, also on trial for conspiracy to harbor him.

wooden sheds and inclosures. The cattle runs and sheep sheds were consumed and the fire swept across densely populated Halsted street. Brick edifices along the street caught fire and shops, theaters, business establishments, recreation centers and stores were emptied by their patrons. Rows of ramshackle homes east of Halsted caught fire.

The flames shot high into the air as ammonia tanks and oil reservoirs exploded. Aviators reported they could see the smoke from the fire at a distance of 75 miles.

Patrolmen ran through the streets and warned residents of nearby houses—most of them employes of the meat firms or of manufacturing companies—to leave. The people poured from their small dwellings, carrying as many of their possessions as they could load on their backs. Locomotives were kept busy hauling refrigerator and cattle cars to safety, but much rolling stock was destroyed, along with automobiles and other equipment.

At 6:15 p. m., the elevated structure, which makes a loop of the stock yards, was partly destroyed and a car standing near one of the terminals plunged down into the station.

Rescuer Apparently Killed.

Firemen performed many deeds of bravery. Four young men appeared on the roof of the blazing Exchange building. A fireman named Handon dashed up an extension ladder to the roof while his comrades poured streams of water on the building.

He balanced himself on the top rung of the extension ladder, hooked another ladder to the roof and went to the top of the building. The four were saved but before the fireman could get back on his ladder the roof collapsed and apparently he fell with the wreckage.

One of the men rescued leaped 15 stories into a net.

The 110 girl telephone operators and the linemen of the Stockyards Telephone Exchange remained at their posts until smoke drove them, gasping, from their burning office.

Two fire engines were abandoned by their crews in the path of the blaze and were destroyed.

Crowds Hamper Firemen.

The firemen were hampered by low water pressure. Police ordered all sprinkling of lawns stopped to improve the pressure. One of the cribs out in the lake announced it was pumping more than 20 million gallons of water above the normal hourly amount.

The firemen were hampered also by the milling crowds of sightseers from all sections of the city that formed a shoving, eddying mass for miles around. Traffic was so badly congested that patrolmen were needed to force a passageway for suburban fire companies summoned after most of the city's forces had been sent to the scene. Spectators swarmed everywhere, stumbling over the vast network of hose.

Large Buildings Destroyed.

Among the major buildings damaged or destroyed were: the Livestock Exchange building, housing many administrative offices; the hall of the Percheron Society of America; the huge Stock Yards amphitheater and Dexter Pavilion, scene of many blue-ribbon horse shows and livestock expositions; the Drovers' National Bank, the Stock Yards Inn, the Stock Yards National Bank, the P. Brennan railroad offices, the Agar Packing Co., an American Express branch, an elevated train station, the Omaha Packing Co.'s wholesale market, the block square plant of the Equipment Corporation of America.

The district, famous over the world for its thriving industry, was a spectacle of ruin tonight. Thousands of people thronged railroad embankments, bridges, tops of nearby buildings, and even stood in the streams of water to watch the finale of the struggle of the firemen.

Embers Reach Fairgrounds.

The stockyards area is in the heart of the South Side. It lies between Halsted street and Ashland avenue, five miles south of the loop, extending from Thirty-ninth to Forty-seventh street. It is virtually a separate urban entity. Almost four miles to the east are the grounds of the Century of Progress exposition on the lake front.

Caring for Homeless.

The Red Cross set up headquarters in the stricken zone to care for the 1200 homeless and the Illinois National Guard turned over its armories to be used as dormitories. The War Department was asked to release cots for the homeless.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, head of the Chicago Board of Health, sent subordinates to co-operate with Red Cross officials.

Gov. Horner proffered the aid of the National Guard, but Mayor Edward J. Kelly said he did not believe it necessary to call out the Militia. The Mayor, however, ordered 500 patrolmen to the area. Four men were arrested by police seeking looters.

By lights of electric and gas torches searchers tramped the ruins late at night and into the early hours in hopes of finding those reported missing.

Burning embers fell on the roof of the Administration Building of the world's fair, at the north end of the grounds. Firemen and attaches of the world's fair hurried through the ground extinguishing falling embers.

Livestock Destroyed.

It was estimated that about half the livestock in the yards had perished in the fire. Today's receipts, as officially estimated earlier, were: Cattle, 700 head; hogs, 10,000; sheep, 2000, and calves, 200. Shipments out during the day were 200 head of cattle and 500 hogs. Most of these were cleared before the fire started.

Homer Theiman, a caretaker at the Dexter pavilion inside the yards, and his helper, Charles Gillmartin, 12 years old, saved three bulls and eight cows, one bull being in the grand championship class at the last international livestock show and valued at $3000.

Executives feared the destruction of the Livestock Exchange would hamper the packing business for the next few weeks as loss of records and drafts would throw it out of normal operation.

J. L. Brown of the Burlington Railroad, said: "A survey will be made early in the morning to determine the exact amount of damage in the yards and what the remaining facilities are. Early reports would indicate that stock can be cared for in normal amounts."

Mayor Kelly said: "While the lamentable aspects of the fire can not be overestimated Chicagoans can take some heart in the fact that the necessary and immediate reconstruction will give speedy employment to many of those who are homeless tonight."

Under orders from Springfield, Maj. James U. Sammis, Provost Marshal of the Illinois National Guard, surveyed the stricken territory to determine what steps will be necessary for protection.

The Chicago Stockyards was the scene on Dec. 20, 1910, of a fi that cost the lives of Fire Chi James Horan and 21 of his men.

SAYS SILVER PURCHASE WON'T RAISE PRICES

Associate of Prof. Warren Urges Remonetizing Metal to Balance Values.

By the Associated Press.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 19. — An "equilibrium in our price structure can be established," Prof. Frank A. Pearson of Cornell said in an address prepared for delivery here tonight, "by remonetizing silver; that is, making it a part of our yardstick of value."

But the "purchase of silver, while gold remains the sole yardstick of value," in the opinion of the professor, right hand man of Dr. George F. Warren, fiscal adviser to President Roosevelt, "can have little effect on commodity prices."

In the "persistent agitation for silver legislation by Congress," he saw "an expression of the public's dissatisfaction with the present disequilibrium in the price structure," which he warned "should not be confused with the gold policy."

An equilibrium in the price structure also could be established, h said, by either of two other conditions: by raising the price of gold or by a worldwide rise in prices expressed in gold.

He saw "remarkable progress" made in re-establishing equilibrium. The address was for delivery before the Cornell club of Elmira.

PORTRAITS SHOW TWO LOOK ALIKE IN SIKO MURDER

INVESTIGATION BY GRAND JURY GOES ON

Louis de More Says He Pleaded Guilty and Took Life Sentence Because He Feared Hanging.

Rogues' gallery photographs of George Couch, ex-convict now charged with the murder of Patrolman Albert Siko, for which Louis De More is serving a life term in prison, were given to the press yesterday by the police department.

Police officers pointed to marked similarities in the facial appearance of Couch and De More, and certain resemblances in their general features.

De More, since the arrest of Couch last Wednesday and the subsequent recovery of the slain policeman's missing revolver, has maintained that he confessed the killing only because he had been identified, and feared that he would hang if he stood trial. He made his confession after receiving a promise from Assistant Circuit Attorney McLaughlin that if he did so he would not hang.

Points of Resemblance.

Both De More and Couch, police pointed out, are listed in the Bertillon records as having brown eyes, large and prominent; the complexion of both is listed as sallow; Couch's hair is down as "meduim chestnut," and De More's as "dark chestnut"; both are entered as of slender build.

Couch is 5 feet 10¼ inches tall, and De More 5 feet 8¼ inches. Couch, 27 years old, weighs 145 pounds, and De More, 42, weighs 123.

The hair of both men recedes at the temples, police pointed out. Their heads are shaped similarly, and both have large ears, placed in about the same relative positions. Each has a wide mouth, and an angular jawbone, emphasized in the case of De More by sunken cheeks.

De More, a Chicago taxicab driver never before in serious conflict with the law, was arrested early on the morning of April 30, two hours after Patrolman Siko was shot by a street car robber. He had been eating in a restaurant near the Rector Hotel, 608 Walnut street, and chatting with policemen who were discussing the murder.

Victim Identifies De More.

Overhearing a description of the man sought, De More volunteered the information: "That just about fits me. I guess I'd better go home before I get pinched." He left the restaurant with the policemen, and at the door of his hotel they arrested him.

Taken to City Hospital, where Patrolman Siko lay mortally wounded, he was identified as the robber. Thomas E. Fisher, operator of a one-man street car, also identified him as the man who had sought to hold him up and whom Siko pursued.

Two Negro women, passengers on the street car, said De More was not the robber. One of them said the robber was a younger, heavier man.

Says He Found Pistol.

All these witnesses have appeared before the grand jury in its new investigation of the murder. Other witnesses before the grand jury have been persons, including Couch's brother, who, police said, quoted him as having told them, in explanation of his possession of Siko's revolver, "I had to shoot it out with a policeman." Couch admits having had the revolver the day after Siko was shot, but says he found it behind some barrels near the scene of the shooting when he went there, out of curiosity, to "look the ground over."

Couch was arrested early Wednesday on suspicion, and routine investigation of his activities led to the unexpected recovery of Patrolman Siko's revolver in a house on Cass avenue where Couch sometimes stayed. Continuing their inquiry, police found that Couch's brother, Russell, had borrowed another revolver from a newsdealer about the time Siko was slain, and had given it to the ex-convict.

It had been returned to the newsdealer, but police got it from him, and believe it is the weapon with which Siko was killed. They have compared test cartridges fired through it with five empty .38-caliber cartridges found on the roof of a shed near where Siko was murdered, but have not announced the result.

With the empty cartridges on the shed was found a felt hat. Police say it fits Couch. Some of his associates, police say, have quoted Couch as saying he hid on the roof of a nearby shed after shooting the policeman.

Charles U. Becker Sinking

ST. JOSEPH, May 19.—Charles U. Becker, former Secretary of State, who has been seriously ill here the last three weeks, suffered a sinking spell late tonight and the hospital reported his condition as critical, if not hopeless."

Resemblance That Puzzles Police

Couch, whose pictures are on the left, is charged in a warrant with the murder of Patrolman Albert Siko, a crime for which De More (at right) is serving a life term in prison. De More now says he confessed a crime of which he was innocent to avoid the possibility of being convicted and hanged. The photographs are from the files at Police Headquarters.

of complaints against a certain provision. Then we can investigate and if we find that there are hardships in connection with the observance of this provision, we can then amend the law."

"That is my idea exactly," said Scullin.

The committee then held an executive session and voted to defer action.

Commenting yesterday on the midnight closing law, Scullin said he realized that it was working a hardship on many of the larger hotels, whose taverns and grill rooms were losing business because customers could not buy drinks after midnight, but that he could do nothing to change this regulation, which was part of the state liquor law, enacted by the Legislature, and therefore had to be incorporated into the local law.

SOLUTION IN KIDNAPING OF GIRL THOUGHT NEAR

Articles Found in Pit With June Robles Understood to Have Been Traced.

By the Associated Press.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 19. — The kidnaping of 6-year-old June Robles was said by authorities here today to be near solution. The statement was made after it became known articles found in the desert prison pit in which the girl was found last Monday, 19 days after her disappearance, had directed suspicion toward two unnamed persons.

Several articles found with June were understood to have been traced, and the identity of persons in whose possession they were believed to have been at the time of the kidnaping tentatively established.

Authorities have spent several days in fruitless attempts to find the person June would recognize as the man who took her away from in front of Roskruge School last April 25, or as one of two other men she said she saw while she was in the prison hole nine and one-half miles from Tucson. She has led authorities to believe she would know one of her abductors, although she said they generally made her turn her back to them.

Clifton Mathews, United States Attorney for Arizona, in Phoenix where the Chicago letter that led searchers to June's hiding place was received, said the kidnaping case may be presented to a Federal grand jury here next Wednesday.

ALDERMEN PASS $27,830,000 CITY BUDGET MEASURE

Mayor Dickmann Will Sign the Bill as Soon as It Reaches Him, Probably Tomorrow.

Passed unanimously by the Board of Aldermen yesterday, the municipal budget bill for the fiscal year which started last month will be signed by Mayor Dickmann as soon as it is presented to him, probably tomorrow. It will become effective when signed.

The bill appropriates a total of $27,830,558, compared with $24,742,941 in the annual budget a year ago, an increase of $3,087,619. For so-called municipal, or general governmental, purposes, the appropriation is $19,126,657, or $55,157 less than last year.

Budget Director Meyers estimates the deficit at the end of the fiscal year next April, on the basis of the present expectation of income, will be $1,842,000, much greater than ever before. The deficit when the fiscal year began last month was about $142,000. However, Mayor Dickmann believes a campaign for payment of taxes will result in much larger receipts than now looked for, offsetting the deficit partially at least.

No Pay Days Missed.

City employes have not missed a pay day while the budget bill was pending. The Aldermen made an arrangement with Comptroller Nolte providing for the semi-monthly pay day last week. The Democratic majority of the Board of Aldermen, as was told last week, decided to give up the effort to eliminate Republican "holdover" employes from the city payroll by weeding their positions out of the budget. Instead the Democrats asked the Mayor to have department heads substitute followers of their party for Republicans.

The Mayor said he would consider this recommendation carefully. "Where it is found," he declared, "that an adjustment can be made without crippling the city's service, I shall be inclined to accede to their request. However, I intend to check the whole thing carefully with the department heads before making a final decision."

Appropriations in addition to the large one for general municipal purposes include: Water Division, expenses to be borne by water revenue, $2,316,508; interest on waterworks bonds, to be borne by water revenue, $836,025; interest on relief bonds, to be paid from Municipal Bridge tolls, $859,050; interest on 1923 improvement bonds, to be borne by the sinking fund, $4,232,572; interest on 1928 airport bonds, to be paid from the sinking fund, $169,750; interest on 1933 hospital bonds, sinking fund, $83,550; expenses arising in connection with the bonded debt, $10,000; interest on the purchase of a 200-foot strip surrounding Tower Grove Park, made some years ago, $2500.

Indications are that the sinking fund will have a deficit of about $2,500,000 at the end of the fiscal year, but new taxes have been proposed to offset this.

Additions to the Bill.

Appropriation for general purposes is $48,657 larger than sought in the original draft of the bill. The principal additions are: $25,000 for the Park Division, to provide a longer working week for laborers; $20,000 for alterations of the Sixth street and Lucas avenue sides of Union Market, to install show windows and otherwise make the place more attractive to customers; $14,748 for 15 or 20 more City Sanitarium employes to care for the large number of patients. Principal decreases are: $50,000 for billing machines for the Assessor's office, which would have eliminated 25 employes; $3000 for the salary of Miss Elizabeth L. Breze, vital statistician. Aldermen have objected because she was brought from Albany, N. Y., for this work.

The Board of Aldermen also passed unanimously the tax rate bill for 1934, making the rate $2.74 on the $100 valuation, the same as last year. This includes the following: Municipal, $1.35; city sinking fund, 39 cents; general school purposes 84 cents; school sinking fund, 1 cent; State, 15 cents. The annual standardization bill, fixing pay scales for city employes, is pending in the aldermanic Ways and Means Committee.

DOUBTS KILLERS GOT AUTO TAGS AT PRISON

Deputy Warden Says Kelley Kidnaping Defendant Never Worked in Plant.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19.—T. J. Reardon, Deputy Warden of the State penitentiary, said today that a thorough investigation revealed no evidence to support a theory advanced yesterday in St. Louis that the automobile license plates used a week ago by the killers of John C. Johnson, Negro State's witness in the Kelley kidnaping case, had been stolen from the prison, where convicts make the tags.

W. E. Dexter, Deputy Commissioner of Motor Vehicles in charge of the St. Louis branch of the Motor Vehicle License Department, expressed the belief that the plates had been stolen directly from the prison.

"If Dexter has any evidence whatsoever to support his supposition or theory that the plates were stolen prior to leaving the prison, we would be very glad to obtain it," Reardon said.

Felix McDonald, serving a 10-year term in the prison and under indictment in the Kelley kidnaping case, "never has worked at or near the auto tag plant," he asserted.

The investigation, he continued, revealed that the license plate in question, 512-955, was manufactured March 8 and was part of a shipment of 300 cartons. The plates were packed in the tag plant and sent to the warehouse for storage for shipment with no marks for destination shown, he said. The cartons were shipped to St. Louis March 19 by truck.

"There is absolutely no way for an inmate or any other person employed in the tag plant to know the destination of tags until orders are received from the Secretary of State's office," he said. "When these orders are received, the tags are stored in the warehouse at the prison, where they are stenciled as to their destination.

BURT KAEMMERER PAYS UP REST OF HIS FINE

Attorney Allowed Still More Time to Raise $47 Court Costs.

Burt A. Kaemmerer, attorney, paid $1400 in Federal Court yesterday, representing the balance on a $2000 fine assessed against him by Judge Faris last October for failing to make a Federal income tax return for 1929.

A request by Kaemmerer's attorney, Robert J. Schroeder, for remission of $47 court costs, was denied by the Court, but 30 days more were allowed for payment.

Kaemmerer had paid $400 on the fine in December, obtaining a 60-day extension to pay the rest. At that time Judge Faris said he was extending leniency "in view of the condition of the national budget." On Feb. 20 Kaemmerer paid $200 more and the Court allowed him 90 more days, but warned the attorney there would be no more extensions.

Kaemmerer had been fined on his plea of "no contest" to a Government indictment charging that he made no return for 1929, although his gross income was $39,012 and his net income $15,899. The tax would have been $266.84.

He is under indictment in Circuit Court, with two other persons, on a charge of attempting to obtain money by false pretenses on a claim growing out of a fake automobile accident. Arnold Hart, former employe of Kaemmerer's law firm, was convicted last December by a jury which fixed his penalty at two years in prison.

INVALID SHOT TO DEATH, POLICE SEEKING CALLER

Family Returns to Find Man Slain; Elevator Operator Tells of Visitor.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 19.—Elmer Reichheimer, 34 years old, for 14 years a victim of a "sleeping sickness" malady, was found shot to death in his home tonight. Detectives started a search for a stranger reported to have visited him earlier.

When Reichheimer's wife, mother and a daughter returned home, they found him dead on the bedroom floor. He had been shot twice in the abdomen with a shotgun. Several empty shells were found scattered about and bullet holes were in the walls of two bedrooms.

The elevator operator said he had directed a "heavy set" man to the Reichheimer apartment this afternoon. Reichheimer's daughter reported a man answering the description of the visitor had called on her father a month ago and the two had quarreled.

WHISKY SAMPLES POISONOUS

Received by Six Persons in Oakland Cal., All Friends.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 19.—Sample bottles of whisky containing a deadly poison have been received through the mails by at least six prominent Oakland residents, all friends, police announced today.

Authorities said the plot was discovered when a resident noted the peculiar odor of the sample he received, took it to Assistant District Attorney Charles Wehr and had the contents analyzed. That was on May 16, but not until last night did it become known that five friends of the man also had received the whisky samples. All had been "too busy," however, to open the bottles. Labels on the bottles bore the name of a San Francisco distributer.

KNAPP-MONARCH CO. SEEKS INJUNCTION AGAINST PICKETS

Federal Judge Wham of East St. Louis yesterday took under advisement an application of the Knapp-Monarch Co. of Belleville, for an injunction against 60 strike pickets.

Judge Wham previously had dismissed an application for an injunction against Local Union 18274. The men involved in the present action refused to return to work with other employes, who recently settled a strike at the plant, which manufactures electrical appliances. The company, in its plea far a court order, sought to show that the pickets had been guilty of violence.

KENNETT (MO.) DEFENDS BONDS

Seeks to Force Registering of Issue in Fight With Utility.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19.—An application for a writ of mandamus to compel Auditor Forrest Smith to register a $140,000 bond issue voted Aug. 9, 1933, by the city of Kennett for the purchase or construction of an electric light plant was filed in the Missouri Supreme Court today.

The city of Kennett filed the action in the Supreme Court after the Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. had filed an injunction suit in the Cole County Circuit Court seeking to keep the State Auditor from registering the bonds. The bond proposal was carried by a vote of 1333 to 58. On May 1, 1934, the Kennett City Council adopted a resolution directing the Mayor and City Clerk to prepare, execute and register the bonds. The utility company contends the election was illegal in that it submitted a "dual proposal," and obliged voters to approve or reject the bonds for either construction of a new plant or purchase of the existing plant.

PERU, COLOMBIA, IN AGREEMENT OVER LETICIA

They Settle Differences Over Village Near Jungle —War Threat Is Dissipated.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 19.—Representatives of Peru and Colombia today reached a peaceful settlement of the differences between their nations over the jungle border village of Leticia and dissipated a war cloud which has hung over South America for 20 months. The settlement, drafted by Afranio de Mello Franco, Foreign Minister of Brazil, pledges both nations to observe all existing treaties; provides for arbitration and appeal tribunals and lays the groundwork for accords on all disputed questions.

Quick ratification of the agreement by his Government was predicted by Luis Cano, Colombian representative in the negotiations, and former Premier Jorge Prado Ugarteche said that his nation already has given its approval through the creation of the consultative commission which met Colombian representatives. One of the first steps in carrying out the formula will be the establishment of a mixed commission to demilitarize Leticia and handle any differences that arise.

"Leticia, instead of being a battlefield," said Roberto Urbaneta Arbelaez of Colombia, "is changing into a field of human co-operation which will set an example for the entire world."

"Peruvians feel that the accord is most honorable," said a spokesman for Peru. "It assures present and future peace because it provides for a judicial solution of all disputes."

The strife over Leticia began late in 1932 when a Peruvian expedition seized the village, charging that Colombia, to whom it passed by treaty in 1922, had not taken enough interest in it to care properly for the inhabitants. The League of Nations, the United States and other American republics worked together to bring about a peaceful solution. Last June Peru surrendered Leticia to the League of Nations under a one-year mandate, and present negotiations were undertaken several weeks ago in an effort to reach an accord before the expiration date.

ARMS EMBARGO IN CHACO WAR UP TO 31 COUNTRIES

League Cables Asking if They Will Halt Munition Shipments to Paraguay and Bolivia.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, May 19. — The League of Nations today dispatched cables to 31 Governments, asking if they are ready to put an arms embargo on warring Paraguay and Bolivia.

The cables were sent by the council's Chaco committee immediately after the Council unanimously had adopted a resolution to take steps designed to put an embargo into effect at the earliest possible moment. Delegates of the warring republics sat in silence while the action was taken.

The cables suggest the countries withhold materials of war of every kind from the two South American nations and thereby force them to stop their jungle conflict.

Cables were sent to all the countries that were members of the 1933 council, which first discussed the embargo. These are Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Norway, Spain, China, Mexico, Panama, Guatemala and Ireland.

U. S. Is on List.

In addition, queries went forth to nations elected to the council of 1934 and countries mentioned by other states as nations whose co-operation is necessary for an effective embargo. These are Denmark, Australia, Belgium, Canada, the United States, Finland, Lithuania, Luxemburg, Holland, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Jugo-Slavia and Uruguay.

A third group to which cables were sent takes in countries bordering on the warring nations. It consists of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru. Their help is considered necessary to prevent the transit of arms.

An official communique issued tonight said the cablegrams asked the countries concerned if they were prepared to prevent exportation or re-exportation from their territories of arms, planes or plane motors or parts, ammunition or any other war instruments and materials.

The exportation barrier would apply only to shipments intended for Paraguay or Bolivia. It would affect both Government and private shipments and would include enterprises by either nationals or foreigners.

Influenced by Roosevelt's Move.

President Roosevelt's action in asking the United States Senate to ratify the Geneva arms convention was said by Francisco Castello Najera of Mexico, chairman of the Chaco committee, to have influenced the proposal.

"I am convinced that with the help of the American nations, including the United States," he declared, "that this lamentable war can be ended."

The Council's resolution asked the committee to continue its efforts with the belligerents and urged Paraguay and Bolivia to reexamine the League's proposal for arbitration, which both countries previously had rejected.

The Council acted in open session, and the adoption of the resolution was recorded as by unanimous vote, since representatives of the two nations affected did not voice objections.

The embargo was suggested two days ago by Capt. Anthony Eden, British delegate, and the Council moved quickly, referring the matter to jurists yesterday.

The jurists immediately drew up the resolution, which was adopted a few minutes after it was presented.

Bolivian Minister Says Paraguay Has Munitions Factory.

WASHINGTON, May 19. — Charges of partiality in the proposed restriction on the sale of munitions to Bolivia and Paraguay were made today by Dr. Enrique Finot, Bolivian Minister, who said it was to be "regretted that the nations producing war materials should have waited two years to adopt this saving measure."

At about the same time as Dr. Finot was making his statement to reporters, President Roosevelt was seeking through diplomacy to check munition shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay.

To this end, the State Department pursued conversations with Peru, Chile, Brazil and Argentina, without whose co-operation, administration advisers said, the President's plans for ending the fighting would be nullified. In his comment, Finot said:

"From the Bolivian point of view, an embargo implied hastily, without taking into consideration the special situation of the countries at war, would involve a great injustice against Bolivia, for while Paraguay has a munitions factory and enjoys free communication with the outside world through an international river, Bolivia does not produce any war materials and is landlocked by her neighbor through whose territory she has to carry on her commerce. To decree an embargo without bearing in mind this circumstance would be equal to the decreeing of an easy victory for Paraguay over her defenseless adversary."

In addition, the Geneva convention for supervision of international trade in arms, cast aside in the files of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee since 1925, was revived at the President's instance. Ratification was expected in a week or so.

But these measures were not considered sufficient, in the opinion of the State Department's experts. Even after they have been made effective, there would be nothing to prevent individuals in adjacent nations from buying arms for reshipment to the warring countries.

MRS. PUHSE'S DEATH SENTENCE CAUSES ILLINOIS PROBLEM

Electric Chairs Only in Prisons for Men; No Provision for Purchase of New One.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 19.—Electrocution of Mrs. Gertrude Puhse of Granite City, sentenced to death by a Madison County jury at Edwardsville, may present practical difficulties, if not legal problems.

The case of Thomas J. Lehne, found guilty with Mrs. Puhse of the murder of her husband, and sentenced also to death, appears not to differ from that of other men who have died in the electric chair since that method of execution was substituted for hanging in 1927.

The act passed by the Legislature in 1927 directed that chairs be placed in the Joliet and Menard penitentiaries, both of which are for men only. A chair in the Cook County Jail in Chicago was authorized, but it is for persons sentenced in Cook County only. No provision was made for a chair in the women's penitentiary at Dwight, and it is believed that a chair could not be placed there without legislative action.

So it appears that Mrs. Puhse's electrocution, if it takes place, will have to be in one of the men's prisons, where no provision now exists for keeping a woman in the "death house." Prison officials would not welcome such an idea. They have a hard time keeping order among the other prisoners when a man is electrocuted, and they do not know exactly how far the spirit of disorder might go if a woman were being executed.

Yes, it's Greenfield's again! And we have a feeling that all St. Louis will be glad to know that this change has taken place, and that Greenfield's are ready to carry-on . . . just as though no consolidation or partnership had ever taken place. And, if you'll pardon us, we'd like to say that we do not believe a more popular store than Greenfield's has ever existed in the middle west.

And Greenfield's are not unmindful of the part that St. Louis men and women played in building their business . . . from a modest, small store in 1908 to the large proportions and outstanding success that it attained as the years passed by. Greenfield's have never lost sight of the loyalty and friendliness that was so important then . . . and is so important today.

Now . . . it's Greenfield's again! You'll find it the same friendly store, you'll find an able organization of familiar faces, a store that stands, as always, for quality . . . and policies that were typically Greenfield's again dominating the business.

Come in and see us . . . we have so many new things to show you. But you don't have to buy anything . . . just drop in and say "Hello and Good Luck."

RATE OF ADVANCE IN OUTPUT AND TRADE SLACKENS

Declines in Some Basic Fields in April, Industrial Conference Board Reports.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Slackening in the rate of advance in production and trade was registered in April and the first half of May, with some basic fields of activity showing declines, according to the monthly report of the Conference of Statisticians in Industry of the National Industrial Conference Board, made public today. Commodity prices weakened in April, but a moderate upturn was recorded in the first half of May.

The report states that productive activity in general showed a net gain during the six weeks' period, but declines of a more than seasonal nature in some lines were recorded.

Automobile production continued to increase in April and there is some indication that output in May will equal the April total. Building and engineering contracts awarded fell off sharply after a steep rise during March. Iron and steel production continued to expand contrary to the seasonal trend. Bituminous coal production underwent a serious setback, much greater than the normal seasonal decline.

Production of passenger cars and trucks in April in the United States and Canada was estimated at 365,000 units. This total was an increase of 4 per cent over March and 93 per cent over April, a year ago. During the first four months of this year 1,127,110 units were produced as compared with 557,235 during the same period last year, an increase of 102 per cent.

Steel production continued to expand in April, making the fifth consecutive monthly increase. Total output in April was 2,935,600 gross tons, and averaged 117,426 gross tons per day of operations. The increase in average daily output of 13.3 per cent over that in March brought the April level 115.4 per cent above that of April, 1933 and only 8.4 per cent below the recent peak in July, 1933.

Building and engineering construction fell off sharply in all classes this month. The April total of contract awards in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains amounted to $131,414,000 as against $178,346,000 for March. The April total was 26.3 per cent below the total for March but was 132.3 per cent above the level of April, 1933.

Residential building also declined considerably though not as much as construction as a whole. The April total of $22,770,000 was 19.0 per cent under the March level and 18.9 per cent above the level of April, 1933. The decline during the month followed an increase in March of nearly 100 per cent.

Production of bituminous coal declined sharply in April, and was estimated at 24,977,000 net tons.

800 ENTRIES IN SHOW BY HOME GARDENERS

Variety of Blooms at Horticultural Society's Exhibit at Shaw's Garden.

Spare-time gardeners, growing flowers for pleasure, are displaying about 800 entries of their floral productions at the St. Louis Horticultural Society's annual spring flower show at the display house in Shaw's Garden.

The exhibition, a study in variety, which opened yesterday, will be on display from 9 a. m. to sunset today.

Special awards were won by Signal Hill residents of the East Side, Dr. C. R. Conroy and Joseph Whitnel, attorney. Both have received first honors before, Whitnel with tree peonies and Dr. Conroy with rhododendrons.

An exhibit by Dr. Conroy of rhododendrons, grown from seed, and the evolution of grafted stock, received the highest award in the show. It included a pot of plants barely a half-inch high, grown from seeds sown in September, 1933, which he predicted would bloom in four years.

Another line of development displayed the grafted plant, using native rhododendron as an under stock. It showed the plant in the process of growth at various stages from six months to two and one-half years. The end of the process was demonstrated with seven cut blooms, pale pink, lavender and deep red, from his own grafted stock.

Whitnel won seven firsts, 10 seconds and three thirds in different varieties of iris. An unnamed seedling of the beared variety with deep purple falls and lighter shaded standards, which he pollinated and raised from a seed, took second honors in the show. Another of his seedlings of lavender color with a gold-dust sheen, was awarded third in the iris class. A new iris, with bronze standards and purple falls, developed by F. W. Keene, was second in the iris class.

Mrs. James F. Williams of Osage Hills, who had 75 entries in the show, won the highest number of awards with nine firsts, 14 seconds and 14 thirds. C. B. Fall of Webster Groves led the rose contestants with seven firsts, 10 seconds and three thirds. Peonies exhibited by E. F. Nolte of Webster Groves took three firsts and a second.

There are hundreds of perennials and annuals, including scarlet and orange Oriental poppies, with ink-black centers, several displayed by Mrs. Samuel W. Fordyce, being eight inches wide. Dainty blue forget-me-nots, lemon lilies, columbine, larkspur and dianthus also won ribbons.

Among the rose exhibits, the pink and salmon pink Herbert Hoover and the yellow Persian took prizes. Virgil W. Weisner, seven years old, the youngest exhibitor in the show, took a prize with a deep red rose, Etoile de Holland.

A collection of Missouri wild flowers, not in competition, is displayed by Shaw's Garden. They were brought from the arboretum at Gray Summit. An exhibit of 30 varieties of flowers is displayed in memory of Eugene M. Angert, founder of the society. W. F. Schregardus is chairman of the show.

$100,000 SUIT FILED AGAINST BOAZ-KIEL CO.

Carlo Trucking Concern Seeks Third of Net Profits on Auditorium Contract.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Tony A. Carlo, 5155A Ashland avenue, head of the Carlo Motor Service Co., against the Boaz-Kiel Construction Co. for $100,000. It is alleged the amount is due as Carlo's one-third share of net profits received by defendant under its contract to build the Municipal Auditorium.

On June 27, 1932, Carlo and the construction company, the petition alleges, entered into a contract whereby he acted as guarantor for the company's bid on the Auditorium contract. The Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., which was signing the contractor's bid as surety, required such guarantee, it is set forth. Later, it is stated, Carlo signed a similar guarantee on a completed contract for the erection of the building, the work having been awarded to defendant on its bid of $3,162,000. It is also alleged Carlo agreed to give the company assistance and counsel in the procuring and performance of the contract, in consideration of which he was to share in the profits.

Says Net Profit Was $300,000.

The petition sets forth that the auditorium has been constructed in accordance with the contract and on March 15 was accepted by the city. Carlo avers the contractor made a net profit of $300,000, but has refused to pay any part of it to him.

According to N. Murry Edwards, one of the attorneys for Carlo, the Boaz-Kiel Co. was enabled to enter into the contract as a result of the part taken by Carlo. Eagleton, Henwood and Waechter are associated with Edwards in the case. It was said the construction company has taken the position it is not indebted to Carlo, as his compensation was to be determined by the amount of work he received in the construction of the auditorium. Edwards said Carlo was given about $20,000 worth of work, in which there was little profit.

Former Mayor Kiel, president of the construction company, said that so far as he knew there was no basis for the claim that Carlo was to participate in the profits. "If there was any such agreement I ought to know about it," he added. Carlo did the excavating work on the project, for which he was paid, Kiel said. Kiel also denied that the profits amounted to anything like $300,000, as alleged in the suit, stating he doubted if there would be any considerable profits after all expenses and overhead had been paid.

How "PERFORMANCE DETECTIVES" uncovered a common tire weakness, made a Mystery into a MARVEL—with the new "G-3"

Nation-wide search for cause of fast tire wear becomes a grueling day and night struggle of science—outcome is greatest Goodyear tire of all time—new "G-3" tread defies even granite grit

(A lengthy advertisement—but it will pay you to know the news presented here)

"Performance Detectives"

Of course, right in the Goodyear factories there are chemists, engineers, inspectors—all hard at work every day to protect the quality of Goodyear tires.

But, one of the ways in which Goodyear keeps alert to the problems and ideas of the tire dealers and users is through a great staff of "performance detectives"—actually, the far-spread regiment of Goodyear salesmen.

Right now, as you read this advertisement, Goodyear salesmen are moving about the country, seeing to it that Goodyear products are in the hands of reputable merchants, available to you in small towns and great cities; seeing to it that Goodyear tires are "performing." This advertisement tells you how these men serve you and every other motor car owner. It will pay you to read this lengthy, but informative, advertisement.

". . . treads were wearing too fast"

President P. W. Litchfield and factory executives decide to call it simply "G-3"

WARNING!

Watch the rest of the industry try to copy this amazing tire. Watch them try to duplicate Goodyear's claims. But, remember, you have to have "non-skid" before you can have "non-skid mileage." And to have "non-skid," you have to have GRIP where you see it here—GRIP in the center of the tread—the place where it counts, because it's the spot where the tire contacts the road. Look at the grip on this Goodyear Tire and ask yourself why buy any tire that lacks this safety? And keep in mind that you cannot successfully build this type of non-skid tire without the extra-durability of Supertwist cords.

IT WAS puzzling, all right. Here were reports from "performance detectives" telling Goodyear Headquarters that tire treads were wearing out too fast.

Not just the other fellow's tires—even our own.

It didn't seem reasonable. Not as far as Goodyear tires were concerned, anyway. The inspection system and factory control were improved at great expense.

What was happening? To other makes of tires as well as ours?

And, then, as the reports multiplied, from east and west, north and south, something definite showed up. States as far apart as Arizona, California, Carolina—states with fine roads and scenic beauty which invite motorists to use their cars—seemed to stand out a little from the rest.

The "performance detectives" called for "trouble shooters" and the pursuit began. Chemists, development engineers, hurried to the three regions.

Searching the earth

They went out along the roads, gathered samples of soil and dust, analyzed these, together with weather and humidity reports.

They brought back to Akron sacks of granite grit from Carolina mountains, volcanic ash from Arizona deserts, glass-like sand from California—by some strange freak of nature the sharpest soils to be found anywhere.

They made sandpaper from these, and used it on high-speed "grindstones" to test the wear-resistance of rubber compounds and tread designs.

They proved, beyond any question, that Goodyear tires were not at fault. They were as good as ever.

By elimination, the real "culprit" was found! It was the new, flashy-stepping, fast-stopping, modern automobile! Cars had been improved—faster starting, faster braking, swifter driving—all took toll of tires. Now, tires had to be improved.

The severe wear in centers where there is more than average driving had simply served to reveal the "symptoms" to the keen-minded "performance detectives."

So, began one of the most interesting battles of science in all history of the rubber industry. The Goodyear executive staff demanded action—and got it!

"Give 'G-3' the works"

The development engineers found that one tread design they had numbered "G-3" gave outstanding resistance to cruelest laboratory and road tests.

Came orders from the chief: "Give 'G-3' the hardest tests you can devise." On to the Goodyear test fleet went the word: "Run day and night in shifts of drivers. Speed up to 50—jam on brakes—up to 50—jam on brakes. Give 'G-3' the works!"

"G-3" All-Weathers stood up but the cars wore out. At first, the boys tried 600 miles a day, stopping every 2 miles. Brakes gave out, so a full stop every 5 miles was ordered.

Under that brutal mauling "G-3" held on but the cars gave some trouble. Brakes had to be adjusted every 8 hours, relined completely every 72.

It was tough on cars, tough on drivers, but the Goodyear men began to grin as the days and nights went on.

For that "G-3" All-Weather with its new-design, flat-are tread showed it could take it! "G-3" outran any previous Goodyear All-Weather and kept its grip TWICE AS LONG AS ANY OTHER WELL-KNOWN MAKE OF TIRE TESTED!

Goodyear Headquarters kept in close touch with the tests. It was decided to make double-sure that "G-3" was "the real thing."

We made "G-3" in a few sizes. (We didn't even take time to think up a new name for this new tire—just "G-3," an engineers' symbol, identifies it.) There was no announcement.

The trouble is licked

Months ago these sizes went to the public. The "performance detectives" were not tipped-off, but new reports came in. Like this: "Our treads in certain sizes are wearing better than ever. Better than any other makes."

It proved our "performance detectives" know what they're talking about. It proved that our tests and hard work had not been in vain.

Now it can be told! For "G-3," the marvel tire born out of a mystery, is available to you, in your size.

Near you is a Goodyear Dealer who will show "G-3" to you.

Most important of all, from the standpoint of safety, it still has those famous, fast-gripping All-Weather blocks in the center of the tread where you must have them for quick stops at high speeds on today's smooth highways.

But those stout blocks are nested closer—actually 16% more blocks on the tread.

AND, the tread is 5½% broader, it is flatter, AND riding-ribs are 11½% wider, the grooves are narrower, there's more rubber in the tread.

Supertwist makes it possible

Frankly, these improvements could not have been made had we had an ordinary carcass to build on.

But this marvelous "G-3" All-Weather tread—broader, flatter, tougher, safer—called for increased sidewall strain, and Goodyear was ready for that.

For Goodyear is the only tire-maker privileged to use the extra-durable, extra-elastic Supertwist cord tire body that takes the added tread strain as easy as anything! For the first time Supertwist is used to full advantage.

See what it means

Look—YOU, too, get benefits. You get, in the "G-3" All-Weather a tire that averages 43% longer non-skid mileage.

You get a tire with 16% more non-skid blocks on the tread for better traction and greater safety.

You get a tire that reduces by 50% the "cupping" and "heel-and-toe" wear on the non-skid blocks.

You get a broader, tougher, longer-wearing, better-looking, Supertwist carcass tire—

AT NO EXTRA PRICE!

You get the broader road contact of a flatter, wider All-Weather Tread.

MONOCOUPE FIRM SOLD BY PHIL BALL ESTATE

Bought by Group Headed by Harry H. Knight and J. D. Wooster Lambert.

The Monocoupe Corporation, an airplane manufacturing concern with factories at Lambert-St. Louis Field and Moline, Ill., has been purchased from the estate of the late Phil DeC. Ball by a group of St. Louisans headed by Harry H. Knight and J. D. Wooster Lambert, two of Col. Lindbergh's backers. The price was not disclosed.

The company, which manufactures small cabin monoplanes, will be known hereafter as the Lambert Aircraft Corporation. P. R. Beasley, who has been in charge of the local factory, is president of the new company. Knight is vice-president, and Thomas Towle secretary-treasurer. These officers, with Lambert and John Hayward, form the board of directors.

Knight said the new owners paid cash for the company and have added a substantial amount to the operating capital. The company will continue to cater to the private plane owner, Knight said. To handle an order for 15 planes for Department of Commerce inspectors, the plant personnel recently was increased to 150 men.

During his visit to St. Louis last week, Col. Lindbergh inspected the airplane factory. He and Mrs. Lindbergh made the trip from New York to St. Louis and return in one of the small planes made by the company.

The Monocoupe Corporation was organized at Moline, Ill., as a branch of the Velie Motors Corporation. The company was taken over in 1931 by Mr. Ball, who moved the airplane division to the Lambert-St. Louis Field factory formerly occupied by Mahoney-Ryan Co., makers of the "Spirit of St. Louis." The engine factory remained at Moline.

GERMAN EXILE IN CITY

COMPARES JOBLESS OF U. S. AND EUROPE

Dr. Frieda Wunderlich Says Americans Have More Hope and Courage.

Faced with unemployment, the American worker regarded it a greater calamity than the European, who did not fall from so high a level, but courage and hope likewise are greater in the United States, Dr. Frieda Wunderlich, German social and political scientist, said yesterday after visiting St. Louis business establishments and factories to learn at first hand what progress is being made toward recovery.

Dr. Wunderlich is the only woman member of the graduate faculty of social and political sciences of the so-called "University of Exile," established last year by the New School of Social Research in New York. With nine other outstanding Jewish scholars expelled from Germany, she has been teaching there since last September.

Former Berlin Professor.

Before leaving Germany, she was professor of economics in Berlin, a member of the Prussian Diet, a member of the parliament of Berlin for seven years, a member of the Supreme Court for Social Insurance and editor of the Journal of Social Politics. During the summer vacation she is studying social and economic conditions in the United States and will attend the National Conference of Social Work next week at Kansas City.

"In Germany and other European countries," she said, "the feudal heritage of class distinction and submissiveness is written on the faces of the workers. Here we find on workers' faces, kindness, amiability and mutual respect. The worker does not hesitate to approach his employer on an equal footing and the employer does not resent it."

Social Insurance in Germany

Germany, however, is much further advanced in the way of social insurance, Dr. Wunderlich added. There, sickness insurance, widows' and old age pensions have withstood economic distress though threatened by inflation. Unemployment insurance, however, instituted in 1927, has collapsed. The tendency toward individualism has prevented social insurance in the United States, she believes.

Speaking approvingly of the NRA, Dr. Wunderlich declared that fair practice provisions of codes met greater objection from employers than minimum wage and maximum hour provisions.

She visited Cincinnati last week and will continue to Denver following the Kansas City meeting, making a study of agricultural problems of the Middle West.

VETERAN KILLED IN FIGHT FOR PISTOL, NURSE TESTIFIES

Woman Who Fled With Patient From Georgia to New Mexico Accused of Murder.

By the Associated Press.

RATON, N. M., May 19. — Miss Inez Callahan, former Augusta, Ga., Veterans' Hospital nurse, today described to a jury the killing of Henry McWright, war veteran, with whom she had traveled from Georgia. She is accused of the murder.

She said they fled from the veterans' hospital at Augusta in February. Several days after their arrival here, McWright was found shot to death in a tourist camp cabin March 11.

She said McWright was jealous of her and believed that she planned to leave him. He had threatened her, she asserted, and the night before his death he struck her on the jaw. About 4 a. m. next morning, she said, he wakened her and accused her of trying to leave the cabin, and threatened to kill her.

Miss Callahan said he drew a pistol from under his pillow and she struggled with him. The pistol went off, inflicting the fatal wound, she said.

Under cross examination Miss Callahan said she knew that McWright had a wife in Georgia.

At the airport at 2:30 p. m. a commemorative tablet will be unveiled at the new administration building following a brief speaking program.

From 5 to 9 o'clock tonight a news reel showing the flyer's enthusiastic homecoming reception on returning to St. Louis will be shown free of admission charges at Jefferson Memorial. During the same hours the famous Lindbergh trophy exhibit, in the Memorial, will be open to the public. The services are under the auspices of the Spirit of St. Louis Association.

MANCHUKUO REVOLT REPORTED

Chinese Advices Say 25,000 Peasants Are in Rebellion.

SHANGHAI, May 20. — Chinese reports said today 25,000 peasants in Eastern Kirin Province in the new state of Manchukuo have revolted against Japanese overlords and driven them from the area following alleged confiscation of the peasants' lands by the Japanese Army.

The advices said the revolt occurred in the vicinity of Hulin on the Ussuri River, the peasants ousting the Japanese from the city. They added that Chinese volunteer military opposition to Japanese rule was in progress throughout the northeastern province, but the Japanese were suppressing news of the movement.

BOY EXTORTIONIST GETS REFORMATORY TERM

Parents Agree Youth Who Shot Two Persons Needs Institutional Training.

Herbert Rinaldi, 17-year-old automobile thief and petty burglar, was sentenced to three years in a Federal reformatory yesterday after Federal Judge Faris had been informed that the youth's parents felt he needed institutional trainng.

The youth pleaded no contest to a charge of violating the Cochran act pertaining to use of the mails in a scheme to extort. The maximum penalty is 20 years' imprisonment and $5000 fine.

Rinaldi made an amateurish effort to extort $2000 from Mrs. Mildred Fulbright, 6726A Bartmer avenue, University City, after he accidentally shot and wounded Mrs. Fulbright's 13-year-old daughter, Mary Jane. The shot which struck the girl was one Rinaldi fired at a house near the Fulbright home, in order to determine if anyone was inside before he broke in to rob.

When he read an account of the injury in newspapers the next day, he conceived the extortion plan and wrote two notes. He did not collect, however. He was caught last March 14, after he had shot a resident of St. Louis County whose automobile he had stolen. Ballistics experts determined that the slug which wounded the car owner was from the weapon which shot Mary Jane Fulbright

Tennessee Valley Authority Completes Its First Year With Record of Practical Achievement

Norris and Wheeler Dams One-Fourth Completed; Electrification Program in Three States, Among Accomplishments.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The changes which have been brought about in the Tennessee Valley by the Tennessee Valley Authority during the year since it was created are summarized in a report made public by the TVA.

The close of the Authority's first year, the report states, sees the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals in "yardstick operation; an extensive electrification program launched in Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee; the Norris and Wheeler dams one-fourth completed; a $7,000,000 transmission line under way to further link these new sources of power; a demonstration fertilizer plant nearly completed at Muscle Shoals and the great Tennessee River basin under the unified and planned control that President Roosevelt had in mind in creating the TVA.

Besides adopting a power policy and establishing rate schedules, the Authority has put into effect rules and regulations governing the sale of its power. On Oct. 27, 1933, it signed its first contract—with the city of Tupelo, Miss. Since that time it has entered into contracts to serve 11 other municipalities.

Induced Rate Reduction.

"After three months of negotiations," the report says, "the Authority acquired extensive private facilities in Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee for initial distribution of Muscle Shoals power to as many as possible of the more than 200 municipalities which have applied for such service to date; has induced privately-owned utilities in the area to make substantial rate reductions, and in Northeastern Mississippi is embarked on the Government's first rural electrification program."

The Norris dam, on the Clinch River near Knoxville, is now two months ahead of schedule. This great storage dam costing $34,000,000, will be 253 feet high and 1800 feet long and will impound 3,600,000 acre-feet of water with a shore line of 600 miles.

The $20,000,000 Wheeler dam, 15½ miles above the Wilson dam in Alabama, will raise a 50-foot barrier 6000 feet across the Tennessee River, backing its waters for a distance of 80 miles.

These dams will regulate the flow of water on the upper Tennessee and thereby increase the prime power of Wilson dam, besides aiding navigation and flood control.

Use of Electricity Increased.

The Electric Home and Farm Authority was set up to aid the TVA by increasing the use of electricity. In co-operation with manufacturers and retailers, the EHFA has made low-cost electrical appliances available on long-term credit to residents of the Tennessee Valley.

The TVA has set aside $4,500,000 for experiments in developing new and better types of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals. The demonstration plant under construction at Nitrate Plant No. 2 is expected to be in operation by July or August.

Under the Authority's direction, 5000 Civilian Conservation Corps workers are busy on forestation and soil erosion projects in the Valley. The Authority directly employs 10,000 persons on its various projects.

Describing other aspects of the program, the report says: "Besides conducting numerous surveys and engaging in research work incident to the President's long range economic and social planning for this region, the TVA is creating an educational and industrial center at Norris Dam.

"Workers, recruited locally, at their request are afforded part-time work with vocational training to enable them to carry on gainful pursuits back home, and at the town of Norris the Authority is building 250 homes combining distinctive type and practical nature calculated to fit into the "new deal" picture.

"On Jan. 24, 1934, there was incorporated in Tennessee the Tennessee Valley Associated Co-operatives which plans to develop co-operatives for the benefit of the people of the valley. It has been allocated $300,000 by the FERA to start co-operative operations at the new town of Norris."

FATHER HEAD FOR 60 YEARS IN PRIESTHOOD

A PASTOR AT 85

THE REV. JOHN J. HEAD.

The Rev. John J. Head, 85-year-old pastor of St. Columbkille's Catholic Church, Michigan avenue and Davis street, will celebrate on May 30 completion of his sixtieth year as a priest in a ceremony at the church, where 10 years ago he celebrated his golden jubilee.

His silver jubilee Father Head celebrated at the Church of the Annunciation, Sixth and La Salle streets, which he rebuilt following its destruction by the tornado of 1896.

The celebration, at 10 a. m., will take the form of a solemn high mass at which Archbishop Glennon will preside, Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. P. Crane will preach, and Father Head will officiate.

In the 60 years since he came here from County Roscommon, Ireland, Father Head has seen St. Louis grow from a city of 100,000 the third city of the United States, to eight times that population, seventh in the census list.

Early Life in Missouri.

Father Head recalls events of his early life in St. Louis and rural Missouri.

"When I came to St. Louis," he said, "it was called 'the Rome of America,' because of the great number of dioceses under Archbishop Kenrick. St. Louis is the second archdiocese in America, the first having been established in Baltimore in 1808. In 1847 Rome looked over the map and said to make St. Louis an archdiocese. The Rev. Peter Kenrick was made archbishop with the line of demarcation between Baltimore and St. Louis the Alleghenies. The extent of Archbishop of Kenrick's territory was unlimited westward, and before his death he had 40 dioceses and eight more archdioceses."

Father Head was sent first to Iron Mountain, where he stayed a year and built a church on land donated by Gov. Gratz Brown in the town of Graniteville. In 1875 he was sent to Montgomery City, where he stayed 13 years, building seven churches there and in nearby towns.

Used Handcar for Calls.

"When I went to Montgomery City, he said, "the roads could not be traveled and they had blue laws so the trains could not run on Sundays. I bought a handcar and received permission to use the railroad tracks. Going downhill I would go like the wind, and I was able to go to three missions to conduct mass every Sunday.

"On Easter Sunday of 1887 I dedicated a church at Wellsville to the mystery of the Resurrection. It was the only Church of the Resurrection in America until 1907, when one appeared in the Bronx. Now there is no large city without its Church of the Resurrection.

"In 1888 I went to the Church of the Annunciation, where I remained until I became pastor of St. Colombkille's in 1914. While I was at Annunciation I was almost killed in the cyclone of 1896. The only thing that saved my life was the strong fireplace and chimneys that kept the rectory from being entirely destroyed when one of the two church steeples with their heavy bells fell on the house. I was dropped from the second floor to the basement and my iron safe fell with me. I was cut on the head but remained conscious and directed the rescuers. The other steeple fell on the church and crushed it, but the altar lamp kept burning."

EARLY LUTHERAN BOOKS DISPLAYED AT SEMINARY

Exhibit From Century of Progress Open to Public Saturdays and Sundays.

The Lutheran Exhibit from the Century of Progress, which contains books of the early Lutheran Church and records of the Lutheran immigrants to America, has been placed on display at Concordia Seminary by the Concordia Historical Institute. It will be open every Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

The exhibit includes a first edition of the Lutheran Book of Concord published in 1580 and an edition of Luther's Collected Works published in 1557—11 years after his death. The manuscript copy of the constitution of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other States, drawn up by C. F. W. Walther, first president of Concordia Seminary, is also on display.

Concordia Historical Institute was formed in 1927 to preserve the antiquities of the Lutheran Church.

AUTO FATALITY ACCIDENTAL

Verdict in Death of Frank McDowell.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned yesterday in the death of Frank McDowell, 44 years old, who was run down by an automobile in Oakland avenue Friday while on his way to Forest Park Highlands to attend a school picnic.

McDowell, a former Park Department laborer, was hit by an automobile driven by Thomas Eichelberger, Brentwood garage owner. McDowell carried no papers and his body was not identified until 12 hours after the accident. He was unmarried and lived with relatives at 5191 Easton avenue. Funeral services will be held tomorrow from the Cullen & Kelly Chapel, 1416 North Taylor avenue.

COMMERCE CHAMBER WARNING

C. of C. Denies Indorsing Tax and Sales Service.

The Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday it had received several calls from members stating that representatives of a tax and sales service, in soliciting subscriptions to the service, represented it as having been indorsed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Scott R. DeKins, secretary of the chamber, said no tax and sales service had been indorsed and that any statement to the contrary was without foundation. DeKins said chamber officials knew nothing of the service, or purported service, which the solicitors were attempting to sell.

UNION AUTO WORKERS HERE REJOIN A. F. OF L.

Withdrew in March to Form New Organization, Which Has Been Abandoned.

Union automobile workers of St. Louis voted last week to reaffiliate with the American Federation of Labor, from which they withdrew March 30.

When the United Automobile Workers' Federal Labor Union was organized last August, veteran American Federation of Labor men were in charge until local officers were elected. The new union, with many others, affiliated with the American Federation.

Subsequently the men became impatient and voted to withdraw from the Federation. A national organization of automobile workers' local unions was formed with John G. Bostwick, 32-year-old former president of the St. Louis local at its head. This organization has since been dissolved.

Bostwick directed the recent strike at the St. Louis Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants. The strike, called to force the re-employment of 118 men, lasted 10 days. The union contended that the men were dismissed for union activity, and consented to a settlement on the understanding that there would be no discrimination against union men.

It is now proposed to form an international union, within the American Federation of Labor, of the 103 automobile workers' local groups.

SUIT FOR $1315 ON NOTES AGAINST THOMAS N. PACKS

Wrestling Promoter Contests Action by Westwood (N. J.) Trust Co.

A suit by the Westwood (N. J.) Trust Co. to collect $1315 on promissory notes from Thomas N. Packs, St. Louis wrestling promoter, is docketed for trial tomorrow in Circuit Court.

The money was used, the trust company states, to assist John Packs, a brother of the promoter, in continuing operation of a bowling alley in Westwood after it had been damaged by fire. In order to assist his brother, it is claimed, Thomas Packs gave Theodore B. de la Ree, secretary and treasurer of the trust company, a power of attorney. De la Ree signed the notes for $320, Feb. 20, 1930, and for $995 a year later.

Packs, who is represented by Seneca C. Taylor, attorney and member of the Missouri Athletic Commission which supervises boxing and wrestling matches, contends he did not sign the notes and resists payment.

NEW AIR MAIL SERVICE TO NEW YORK SOUGHT

Chamber of Commerce Terms Present Hours No Better Than Train Schedules.

Protesting against the failure to provide St. Louis with overnight air mail service to New York City under the new schedules, the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent telegrams to Postmaster-General Farley and Harllee Branch, second assistant Postmaster-General in charge of air mail, urging that another schedule be arranged to assure first morning delivery of St. Louis mail in New York City.

The telegram stated that service provided under the new schedule is "absolutely no better than train service," and that "it is obviously unfair to offer the public an air mail service and make extra charge therefor when delivery is no better than ordinary mail."

The Clearing House Association, the Merchants' Exchange and the Industrial Club sent similar protests. The St. Louis Chamber also communicated with the Kansas City and Indianapolis chambers of commerce, with the result that these organizations joined in making protests and are co-operating in efforts to obtain better service.

Before sending the telegram, the St. Louis chamber checked with the Postmaster in New York City and learned that St. Louis mail, which is transported by the plane leaving here at 2:08 a. m. on what is officially designated as "Flight Four," is not being delivered until the morning following its departure from St. Louis.

"We are greatly disappointed in the schedules announced for eastbound St. Louis-New York air mail under contract with Transcontinental & Western Air," President Dysart of the Chamber of Commerce, stated in the telegram. "The Postmaster in New York advises that mail on Flight Four is not delivered until the following morning. This is absolutely no better than train service. It is abviously unfair to offer the public an air mail service and make extra charge therefor when delivery is no better than ordinary mail. St. Louis and this central west territory is entitled to service equal to that which obtained prior to cancelation of private contracts.

"Our business people are demanding service equal to that enjoyed by other markets. We suggest a third schedule, with a plane leaving Kansas City as late as possible in the evening, via St. Louis, for arrival at Newark not later than 4:45 a. m., so as to guarantee first morning delivery in New York."

The plane which leaves St. Louis at 2:08 a. m. reaches Newark airport at 1 p. m., daylight saving time, but it requires an hour and 50 minutes to deliver the mail to the New York Postoffice. This is too late for delivery by postmen the same day.

PETITION FILED FOR NEW COUNTY SEWER DISTRICT

Would Include 135 Square Miles in Thickly Populated Area—Cost Put at $5,700,000.

COURT TO APPOINT EXPERT FOR SURVEY

Bond Election to Follow if Plan Is Approved — $1,300,000 Grant From PWA Requested.

Petition for incorporation of a new sewer district in St. Louis County, to include about 135 square miles of its most thickly populated area and to cost $5,700,000, was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday by four members of the sewer committee of the county Chamber of Commerce.

The application was taken under advisement by Circuit Judge Mueller, who said he would appoint an engineer within a few days to survey the proposed district, in accordance with provisions of the sewer law passed at the recent special session of the Legislature.

Names of four engineering firms were recommended to the court by the committee, as possible appointees. They were: Metcalf & Eddy of Boston, John H. Gregory, Baltimore, Md.; Greeley & Hanson, Chicago, and W. W. Horner, consulting engineer for St. Louis. Horner is also a member of the chamber sewer committee and was active in preparing plans for the district.

404 Sign Petition.

The petition bore the signatures of 404 taxpayers of the proposed district. Committee members who filed it were A. E. L. Gardner, attorney and former State Senator; James E. Carroll, attorney; Girard C. Varnum, president of the chamber, and Sam Plant.

Boundaries of the proposed district, roughly, are Maline Creek on the north, Lindbergh boulevard on the west, an irregular line from Lindbergh and Gravois road to the Mississippi River on the south, and the river and the St. Louis city limits on the east.

Kirkwood would be included, but Maplewood, Shrewsbury and parts of University City, Clayton and Richmond Heights, which are already sewered, would be left out.

Population of the area is about 150,000, Varnum said, and its assessed valuation about $150,000,000. Cost of the proposed trunk system to property owners on an ad valorem basis, would be about $5 on the $100 valuation, payable in equal installments for 20 years. Varnum said if the sewer plans are approved by the Court, a bond issue election to finance the proposal will be planned for next fall. The committee has applied for a $1,300,000 Federal PWA grant to carry the bonds for about three and a half years. The district would be known as the Sanitary Sewer District of St. Louis County.

Provisions of Law.

Under the law the Court, within 10 days, must appoint an engineer to survey the proposed district. The engineer may alter or amend the proposed boundaries and within a set time is to report to the Court on his recommendations as to whether the district is necessary, and the probable cost. The Court will then set dates for hearings on objections.

Glen Mohler, City Attorney of Clayton, appeared in court with the petitioners and announced he planned soon to file an application for incorporation of a separate sewer district for Clayton. He said two-thirds of the town were included in the proposed larger district and that, if the present plan went through, Clayton's share of the cost would be $400,000, due to high assessed valuations in the town, though actual cost of sewers in the town would amount to only $160,000. He said he would ask that the petition for incorporation of the Clayton district be considered jointly with the other.

Eugene L. Rush, law partner of former State Senator Richard F. Ralph, author of the sewer law of 1927, since repealed, told the Court he planned to file a "friendly memorandum" in the case, citing objections of several of his clients to certain terms of incorporation.

He did not detail the objections in court, but later told reporters that his clients, some of whom reside outside the proposed district, objected to a legal provision that cost of the bond election in the district, if unsuccessful, be defrayed out of county funds. He said this would be an unwarranted expenditure of tax money of taxpayers living outside the district.

Aerodynamic Hupp Cars of New Type Shown in St. Louis

Six and Eight Cylinder Models With Advanced Streamlining and No Straight Lines.

Wholly new six and eight cylinder Hupmobile cars, with advanced features of aerodynamic body design and ultra-modern streamlining, are being shown by the Weber Implement and Automobile Co., distributers and dealers.

There are no straight lines in the body, nor any blunt vertical or flat surfaces. The entire streamlined form has been worked out in smooth, flowing curves and areas. It also makes use of the inverted wedge principle of slip stream design with the taper toward the rear and the greater width at the front. The sides of the body have no offset, but are perfectly smooth. The rear end, where in conventional cars most of the wind-drag occurs, has been decidedly streamlined.

The new Hupps are on wheelbase lengths of 121 and 127 inches. The 121-inch car has a six-cylinder, 3½x4¼ engine, and the 127-inch a 3 3-16 by 4¾ straight-eight engine. Chassis and body have been designed together as a unit for greater strength and rigidity.

The appearance of the new cars differs from anything now on the market.

High Driving Visibility.

A feature of the aerodynamic body is its high visibility. The windshield is much wider than normal and has been brought back close to the steering wheel, giving the driver a much greater range of vision vertically. The front of the windshield has been beveled, bringing the front pillars further back and increasing the horizontal angle of vision. With the upper edge of the windshield close to the driver's eye, it is possible to look upward at a much sharper angle, minimizing difficulties in observing traffic lights, etc.

By the use of wide doors and wide windows the rear quarter window has been rendered unnecessary, thus reducing the number of pillars. There are two wide windows in the back of the car, which give the driver a much better rear view. In fact, the entire road is visible behind the car from the driver's seat.

The body is practically all-steel construction, the only wooden parts being the floor board, roof rails and ribs and a few trim sticks.

Because of the greater width in the front of the car a new seating arrangement has been made possible. In this new body, the front seat is nearly six inches wider than in previous models. This is even wider than the rear seat of the usual type of sedan and permits full three passengers in the front seat. The front seat is adjustable four inches fore-and-aft. The entire body has been moved forward with relation to the rear wheels, thus putting the rear seat entirely ahead of the rear axle and bringing the rear floor down to the top of the chassis frame. This makes it possible to build a relatively low car with ample headroom. Both front and rear doors on the sedan hinge at the center pillar, permitting the entire side of the car to be open entrance and exit.

New Ventilation System.

The front windows may be completely raised and lowered as in the usual type of body. In addition, on the front door window, after it is raised to its full closed position, an extra turn of the lever handle moves the window glass backward, leaving an opening or slot between the windshield pillar and the edge of the glass. When the car is driven there is always a vacuum back of the front pillar, and this causes an out-draft through the slot to provide draftless ventilation.

The six-cylinder engine produces 93 horsepower at 3400 r. p. m. and the eight, 115 horsepower at 3500 r. p. m. The engines are not only more powerful, but perform with marked smoothness.

A new type engine mounting, which promotes smoothness, provides four-point suspension for the engine. These points are provided with links, giving a shackle-type of action through the use of a rubber bushing.

The tire size on the six is 16x6.50 and on the eight 16x7.00.

Mounted on the new chassis are three types of body, all of the aerodynamic type. There is a six-passenger sedan, a five-passenger victoria and a three-passenger coupe with rumble seat. All of these bodies have the ultra-modern streamline effect.

Goodrich-Silvertown Executes Lease for Store in S. St. Louis

Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., with main offices at 2301 Olive street, has leased the property of the George A. Lange Tire Co., Jefferson and Potomac. It is the intention of Goodrich Silvertown to carry a complete line of Goodrich tires, tubes and accessories, the new Goodrich Electro-Pak battery, auto radio and many other items necessary for motorists.

Henry Herleth, former owner of the Gravois-Compton Tire Co., but in recent years connected with Goodrich Silvertown at 2301 Olive, will be the manager of the new store.

Herleth says the necessity of a Goodrich store in South St. Louis has been brought about by the increased demand for the new Silvertown tire with the life-saver golden ply, and to take the new Goodrich budget pay plan to the motorists of that vicinity.

The new store will probably be ready for formal opening by next Thursday.

De Soto Executive Addresses Meeting of Dealers in St. Louis

H. C. Jamerson Says Airflow Design Has Won Wide Public Acceptance.

H. C. Jamerson, a former St. Louis business man who now is advertising director of the De Soto Motor Corporation, Detroit, was here Friday to address a meeting of De Soto dealers and salesmen, at the Coronado Hotel. He also held sales meetings at the Mound City Motors Co.

"I was in business here with my father for years, and the steady progress that has been made is more apparent with each visit. You have many advantages in St. Louis that are not enjoyed by every important metropolitan city, and it furnishes a fertile territory for business of all kinds.

"The De Soto Corporation is enjoying a particularly healthy volume of business, not only in the St. Louis area, but throughout the country. Our airflow car has established a new trend in automobile design. This statement is based on the wide national public acceptance of the new De Soto. Even though the major selling season has not been reached, the orders already booked are sufficient to keep our plants busy up to July.

"America has gone 'streamline.' Note the latest developments in railway transportation. I refer to the new ultra-modern Union Pacific train and the Burlington 'Zephyr.' Each carries out in detail the aero-dynamic principle of design.

"Some have said that it was a daring thing for De Soto to divorce itself from past engineering practices and time-worn traditions of the automobile industry in bringing out the new Airflow car. It was not daring. It was simply the application of sound common sense, after five years of experimental work by our engineers."

Jamerson said that De Soto's national dealer organization, totaling 2666 merchants, is the largest in its history.

Low-Priced Terraplane, Added to Line, Shown at St. Louis Meeting

A meeting held by the Hudson-Frampton Co. in its downtown salesroom Tuesday was attended by more than 150 dealers and salesmen from St. Louis and the surrounding territory. It was called by R. C. Frampton, president of the firm, on his return from the Hudson factory in Detroit.

William Denhart, wholesale manager for the Hudson-Frampton Co., was in charge of the meeting.

R. C. Frampton discussed the increased business in Hudson and Terraplane cars since the first of the year over last year in St. Louis. E. J. Beguhn, district salesmanager for the Hudson Motor Co., announced to the dealers a new series of Terraplanes called the "Terraplane Challenger Six," at new low prices. This new series comes in four models: a two-passenger coupe at $565, a five-pasenger coach at $575, four-passenger coupe with rumble seat at $610 and a four-door sedan at $635, all prices f. o. b. factory. These cars come on 112-inch wheelbase with an 80-horsepower engine. Models are available for immediate delivery, and are, in addition to the Terraplane series, known as the "K" model.

Beguhn said this new series made the Terraplane an active competitor in the lowest price field. An extensive newspaper campaign will be started soon.

The announcement of the new series was a surprise to the dealers and a large number of orders were placed for immediate shipment.

Airflow Chrysler Engine Accessible For Service Work

Chrysler engineers, in designing the new Airflow car, developed complete accessibility of the motor for all service operations.

"As the motor is set directly over the front axle, a casual glance might give the impression that it would be difficult to get at for such a job as valve grinding or setting the valves," says W. A. Hilman, service manager of the Chrysler Sales Corporation. "Such is not the case, however. On the contrary, the design is such that the motor is more accessible than in any previous Chrysler model.

"In operations of a minor nature, such as adjusting the carburetor, spark plugs, timing, it is necessary only to raise the hood, which is of one-piece construction and lifts up from the front towards the windshield.

"To get at any part of the motor for service of more extensive type, it is necessary only to remove the front wheel, just as one would in changing a tire, and take off the wheelhouse cover, an operation requiring about five minutes.

"Every unit of the Airflow car is accessible, which greatly reduces the number of operations necessary in service work by the dealer and keeps down costs to the owner."

Base Price for Tires Called Definite NRA Contribution by Tew

The NRA administration has made a definite contribution to the rubber industry in establishing base prices for tires, according to J. D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co.

"This action in our opinion, will prevent repetition of price wars among tire dealers in the past three years. It should particularly benefit independent tire dealers by assuring a degree of price stability which has heretofore been lacking," Tew says.

"The new retail tire and battery code contains many excellent provisions relating to trade practices and represents months of intensive work on the part of the joint committee comprising representatives of all types of retail tire distribution. It is certain to be helpful to the whole industry."

The Terraplane Challenger

New Tire Result of Demand Due to the Modern Auto

"The modern auto is responsible for the greatest tire Goodyear has ever made," says George Kemmerer, manager Goodyear Service, Inc., St. Louis.

"Present day cars with their greater speed, faster getaway and more powerful brakes for quick stops have produced a problem in tire wear which has been solved by Goodyear engineers in the newly introduced G-3 tire.

"With the advent of smaller wheel diameters, high speed motors and powerful four-wheel brakes, tread wear became more of a problem — a problem immediately tackled by the company's engineers and research men. At once they started work on a new tire that would defeat these condtions and our new G-3 is the answer.

"Many designs and compounds were created only to be thrown away, but finally one bearing the factory number 'G-3' was found to stand up under the tests. One of the tests consisted of running the tire against sharp granite grit and resistance of the G-3 to this abrasion was found to be far greater than designs previously tested.

"Test cars then tried the G-3 for months—speeding up to 60 miles per hour, jamming on brakes. Cars and brakes wore out—but the G-3 stood up and kept on standing up!

"The new tire, with its flatter tread, longer non-skid design wear, slower 'heel and toe' wear and greater safety with more non-skid blocks on the tread, has met and whipped the problem presented by the modern car."

Footpaths Urged for Safety.

The Pedestrians' Association of Great Britain is demanding footpaths alongside all main highways. The high speed of motor traffic is citd as the most prolific cause of accidents.

Ten in Single Order

Dodge Dealers Sales 76,589 Vehicles in First Eighteen Weeks

A VanDerZee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers' Corporation, reports actual deliveries of new passenger cars and trucks by Dodge dealers in the first 18 weeks of this year as 76,589. Compared to 33,935 deliveries made in the corresponding 18 weeks of 1933, the present year-to-date record is an increase of 42,654 sales, or 125.7 per cent.

Of the 76,589 vehicles delivered by Dodge dealers thus far in 1934, 33,077 were Dodge passenger cars, 28,941 were Plymouths and 14,571 were Dodge commercial cars and trucks. The consistency of the 1934 business gain is seen in the statement that in the Jan. 1 to May 5 deliveries made by Dodge dealers, Dodge passenger car sales gained 88.1 per cent, Plymouth sales 107.6 per cent and Dodge truck sales 505.6 per cent.

Auto Service Co. Appointed Nash Lafayette Dealer

This firm is owned by J. J. Tucker, who has been in the automobile business for 15 years.

Alterations and improvements have recently been made on the Auto Service Co. building, which has a total floor space of over 22,000 square feet. Tucker has a complete line of cars on display and is equipped to care for parts and service.

Race Up 45-Degree Hill for Autos Set For 2 O'Clock Today

Something new in automobile endurance tests will be introduced this afternoon when three cars will attempt to ascend a 350-foot grade heretofore used exclusively as motorcyle proving grounds.

The scene of this test will be Hilgert's Hill, a jagged slope on Gravois road, five miles west of Fenton, that rises with a grade of 45 to 47 per cent.

Only three entries were received. They are from Pete Alberts, Tommy Thompson and Wesley Saegesser, all auto mechanics, who have changed the gearing in their cars in an attempt to win the $250 cash award offered the car mounting the incline in fastest time.

The event is being held in connection with a motorcycle hill-climb, and the starting time is 2 o'clock.

Terraplane Challenger Models Newest Entry In Low-Priced Field

Engines and Wheelbase Same as for Regular Terraplane—First Showing Here.

The new Terraplane Challenger models are being shown by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Co. and dealers at $55 to $60 lower in price than the regular Terraplanes.

This new added Terraplane is identical in size and power with the present Terraplane Special series.

Although this is the first public display of these new cars, Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car Co., reports that as a result of a private preview for distributers at the factory, orders have started to pour in at a rate indicating that it has filled a real need in the automobile price structure.

The new Terraplane Challenger series comes in four body types, with a two-passenger coupe at $565, coach $575, Sedan $635, and four-passenger coupe $610, prices at factory.

The coach and sedan models have the inclosed tire luggage compartments which have been distinctive on Hudson-built cars this year. Powered by an 80 horsepower engine, the new model out-performs the record-breaking Terraplane of last year.

The characteristics of the car itself inspired the name Challenger, because of its power, size, streamline style and ruggedness.

The fundamental design of the car is based on the principle of unit engineering of body and chassis which characterize all Hudson-built cars this year. The car is said to be unique in its price field with such equipment as Bendix equal action brakes, latest type safety steering, finger touch starting control on the instrument panel, tri-beam safety headlights, airplane type instrument dials and other up-to-the-minute equipment.

Carburetion is provided by a down draft system. An air cleaner and back fire arrester are fitted to the carburetor as standard equipment. Full automatic advance is provided in the ignition system and a 17-plate battery provides current for ignition, lighting and starting.

The starter button has a finger touch control which operates a solenoid switch located on the starter through a relay.

The steel bodies are made at the Hudson Motor Car Co.'s plant.

Color options include Hudson maroon, daphnis green and black. The wire wheels are colored cream on the black and green cars, and red on the maroon cars.

An adjustment is provided for the driver's seat and the interior of the front compartment is provided with a brown rubber mat.

New Buick "40" Proves Exceptional Performance in Test

Acceleration, Power and Hill Climbing Ability Combined With Riding Ease.

Phenomenally swift starting and acceleration were shown by one of the new Buick Series "40" sedans, the $795 and up line added to the regular Buick series, in a test Wednesday.

The car was throttled down to 10 miles per hour in high at the foot of Art Hill, in Forest Park, and went over the top at 40 m. p. h. It was slowed to a walk, to a crawl, in high, and picked up on the grades with surprising smoothness and celerity. Its "getaway" from a standing start was flashing. Incidentally, the new car is designed to go from 10 to 60 miles per hour in only 21 seconds, and to do 55 to 60 m. p. h. in second gear.

Equipped, as are the larger Buicks, with knee action independent front springing, it rides with an ease and smoothness that take out virtually all the bumps for back-seat passengers. Distribution of balance seemed well-nigh perfect, and contributed materially to the "gliding ride" on rough streets. There was no pitching at any time.

Noticeable was the steadiness of the car on the turns. A new ride stabilizer, at the rear end of the frame, just under the rear cross member, neutralizes the tendency to a twisting motion when one side of the car tends to rise faster than the other rounding curves.

Tires of the 16x6.25 size, carrying only 26 pounds air pressure, also contribute toward riding ease. Yet they are not so large as to affect the steering, which is surprisingly light and easy.

The Buick "40" straight engine deevlops 93 horse power, and speed of the car is 85 miles per hour, at least. Reports are that speeds up to 92 miles per hour on the straightaway have been reached.

Gasoline mileage, according to General Motors proving grounds tests, is reported as 21.2 miles per gallon at 20 miles per hour, 19 miles per gallon at 40, 16 at 50 miles per hour, 14.4 at 60, and 13 miles per gallon at 75 miles per hour.

The Fisher bodies, with no-draft ventilation, are luxuriously comfortable and roomy. The car's wheelbase is 117 inches.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The decline in the stock market which had reduced prices to the lowest average since November, was finally broken this week, although trading was the lowest for any week in more than a year.

The rebound received its impetus from the agreement at the White House on a silver program, which gave a sharp boost to non-ferrous metal issues, and precipitated widespread short covering. Stocks recovered easily, because selling seemed at last to have been exhausted.

Corporate bonds rallied along with stocks, and the gilt-edged issues held up well, as investors failed to see anything sufficiently inflationary in the silver program for the near future at least, to impair the purchasing power of funds tied up in the fixed income securities.

The price average of 90 representative stocks showed a net gain for the week of 3.2 points, closing at 78. This cancelled somewhat more than half of the loss of the previous week. The average of 60 corporate bonds also recovered a good part of last week's loss, getting up 0.9 of a point to 86.2, or within 1.9 of the year's high.

Principal commodities lacked buoyancy, but generally worked higher. Continued drouth over the grain belt boosted wheat futures at Chicago more than 3 cents a bushel, and corn nearly as much. Cotton at New York gained more than $1 a bale. Silver, however, responded but moderately to the program under consideration at Washington, in view of the plan to limit profits of speculators. Bar silver ended the week at 45 cents an ounce, up only ⅜ of a cent from a week ago, and 1¾ cents under the year's high.

Sales Only 5,733,444 Shares.

Several minor staples were under pressure, however, with the result that most price indices of sensitive commodities lost ground.

Stock transfers in the New York Stock Exchange for the week were only 5,733,444 shares, the lowest since the first week of April, 1933, and contrasting with 9,753,170 a week previously. The bond turnover amounted to $67,560,000 par value, against $76,488,000 the previous week.

Business news indicated further seasonal recession. Estimates of steel ingot production appearing at the end of the week showed some slackening of output, and trade reviews generally thought the spring peak had been reached. Freight car loadings showed a small contraseasonal decline.

But the recession in business thus far has not been serious enough to indicate any change in the underlying forces of recovery.

Slow Week-End Trade.

Trading slowed almost to a standstill in a narrow, mixed market at final session of week.

Only 249,300 shares changed hands on the Stock Exchange, the smallest turnover for a two-hour Saturday session since July 19, 1932, when the volume totaled 235,080. Aside from that it was the dullest week-end session in about eight years.

With final action on the Federal stock exchange control bill and President Roosevelt's silver message immediately ahead, traders stayed out of the market or away from Wall street entirely.

The usual trading favorites were neglected. Transactions in American Telephone, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Chrysler and other ordinarily active issues were restricted to a few thousand shares, which made little impression upon prices. The average of 90 stocks sagged two-tenths of a point to 78.

Wheat took the speculative play away from stocks and other markets, and developed fresh rallying power, closing in the Chicago futures market about 1½ cents a bushel higher. May wheat touched 91 cents. Corn added more than a cent to its recent gains. Rye and oats joined the upswing.

Cotton finished 10 to 20 cents a bale higher. Silver, rubber and other staples were about unchanged.

While Wall street waited for further news from Washington on prospects of silver inflation, bonds maintained the advances scored earlier in the week, and the dollar was fairly steady against foreign currencies.

The stalemate into which stocks settled after Thursday's broad rally, tightened in the absence of incentive toward speculation. Many issues did not appear on the slow-moving ticker tape.

Some of the Changes.

Brooklyn - Manhattan - Transit opened 2 points higher on a block of 2100 shares and held most of the gain to the close. President Roosevelt's move for control of arms traffic did not affect the market perceptibly. Du Pont dipped a point at the opening, but finished only a small fraction lower.

Leading railroad shares were firm in contrast with the slight downward drift of industrials. New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe and Union Pacific were fractionally higher or unchanged at the close. Silver shares were ignored with the rest of the list pending the President's message on silver to Congress, scheduled for next week.

Some activity appeared in a few low-priced rails and industrials, notably Western Pacific. Preferred shares of Western Pacific rose nearly 2 points. Alaska Juneau and McIntyre attracted a little buying among gold shares, moving fractionally higher.

Grain Prices Higher.

Wheat finished with advances of 1⅜ to 1¾ cents a bushel. Corn held gains of 1¼ to 1½. Oats were ⅝ to 1 cent higher, rye firmed as much and barley improved ¾ to 1 cent. At Winnipeg all wheat contracts were moved up 1 cent a bushel. Cotton ended 10 to —8 cents a bale better. Bar silver was raised ¼ of a cent an ounce to 45 cents.

Sterling closed ⅛ of a cent up at $5.11 and French francs were unchanged at 6.61 cents. Belgian belgas and Swiss francs eased .01 of a cent at 23.40 cents and 32.58 cents, respectively. Dutch guilders were unchanged at 67.90 cents. Canadian dollars were off 1-16 of a cent.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Howe Sound, 51¼, up 1¼; Western Pacific pfd., 13¼, up 1¾; General Motors, 33⅛, down ⅜; Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, 38¾, up 1¾; Cerro de Pasco, 35⅝, up ⅜; Chrysler, 39⅞, unchanged; United Aircraft, 21¾, up ⅛; Armour of Illinois pfd., 66, down 2; American International, 8½, unchanged; Douglas Aircraft, 20⅞, up ⅜; Socony Vacuum, 16, up ⅛; Armour of Illinois "A," 6¼, down ¼; Marine Midland, 8, up ½; International Telephone & Telegraph, 12⅝, unchanged; Packard, 4, down ⅛.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Raw sugar was easier otday, and following a sale late yesterday of 24,300 bags of Philippines in port at 2.75c, which was 5 points below the phevious price, further sales of 23,850 bags in port were reported today at the same level.

Futures were inactive and in absence of any definite news from Washington with reference to quotas, there was little disposition to make fresh commitments either way. Prices fluctuated within a range of 1 point throughout the session and closed 1 to 2 points net lower.

The easier trend was due to scattered liquidation of May and some selling by commission houses, which was probably influenced by the easier spot market. Sales were only 650 tons.

Refined was unchanged at 4.20c for fine granulated, with a good withdrawal demand reported, although new business was still light.

COTTON CLOSES STEADY AT A SMALL ADVANCE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Cotton rallied today after an early decline. July contracts sold up from 11.39c to 11.49c, and closed at that figure, with the general market finishing steady at net advances of 2 to 4 points.

There was some selling of March from commission house sources, which observers thought might be for mill account and active months sold about 6 to 8 points net lower during the early trading, with December declining to 11.68c.

The market then steadied and there were rallies of about 10 to 11 points from the lowest in the late trading, on covering and buying by trade interests, which found comparatively few contracts for sale. Closing quotations were at or within a point of the best for the day.

Business was very quiet during the greater part of the session, owing partly to the holidays abroad. With the Liverpool, Bremen, Havre and Bombay markets closed, houses with foreign connections had very few orders, although some buying was reported thought for Japanese account.

Traders took a favorable view of the weather map, and the forecast was regarded as pointing to a continuance of good weather next week.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 88,000 bales, against 104,000 last year.

Spot steady; middling, 11.65c.

ZINC ORE UNCHANGED TO LOWER WITH LEAD DOWN

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 19.—Zinc ore production mounted while sales were the smallest in eight weeks in the Joplin district this week. Prices were unchanged to $1 a ton lower, ranging from $27 to $30 a ton as compared with $28 to $30 a week ago.

The small sale was attributed to refusal of many producers to part with stocks at prevailing prices.

Lead prices were reduced $5 a ton as a result of the 25-point decline in the New York pig lead quotations of the American Smelting and Refining Co. Lead ore brought $40 a ton for small lots up to $42.50 for larger tonnages.

Combined value of zinc and lead shipments this week was the largest since last October and totaled $253,662.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Lead eased $5 a ton late in the week to uncover a large consuming demand for May and June requirements. The preceding period of dullness was said to have caused an accumulation of metal by smelters against ore intake and accounted for the price reduction. Seasonal declines in demand from battery makers had been reported.

Electrolytic copper prices remained unchanged at the basis of 8½c Connecticut Valley. Domestic fabricators purchased fair quantities during the middle of the week, but otherwise the market was quiet. While trade reports indicated fair consuming activity, hesitancy to buy larger quantities of metal was attributed to a desire to await publication of code authority decisions. Unofficial April statistics showed a decline in world refined stocks, reductions being particularly noticeable in the Americas.

Tin fluctuated irregularly along with London. Domestic buying interest for moderate quantities centered principally in spot and nearby requirements. Uncertainty in the market was attributed to expected announcements from London regarding formation of a buffer pool by the International Tin committee and the outlook for seasonal declines in consumption in the United States.

Conflicting influences were reported in the zinc market but prices ruled unchanged. The prospect for declines in steel operations and the reduction in lead prices caused some buyers to become cautious, but consumption by brass fabricators was well maintained.

Antimony still displayed an easier undertone owing to reports of lower Chinese quotations and indifference of consumers, but some large importers were maintaining nominal quotations.

Seasonal declines in automobile requirements and labor uncertainties were reported on the one hand, and additional rail buying and tubular awards appeared on the other hand.

Further declines in scrap prices reflected anticipated reduction in mill schedules. Pig iron was spotty, quiet conditions prevailing in some quarters and increased shipments being reported in others.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

Crude rubber futures closed dull, 7 to 10 lower. May, 12.80n; July, 12.95n; September, 13.25b; October, 13.36n.

Smoked ribbed spot closed 12.88n. b-Bid. n-Nominal.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Crude rubber futures opened dull, unchanged to 11 lower. May, unquoted; July, 12.92b; Sept., 13.33; Oct., 13.37b.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, May 19.—(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)—Because of the relatively low prices quoted on fleeces compared with the firm asking prices on the bulk of the Western grown wools, interest in the wool market during the past week was centered largely on the new clip in the fleece wool states. Little was done in spot fleeces here, but dealers bought a few of the lower priced lots offered from the country. A few mills were bidding, but their offers were reported to have secured only occasional carloads. Late in the week, it was reported more difficult to buy at the low prices at which some fleeces have been purchased.

BUOYANCY DEVELOPS IN GRAIN AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Buoyancy developed in wheat values today, largely as a result of an official forecast indicating no likelihood of a break-up of drouth next week.

Drouth damage to wheat, especially in the spring crop region northwest, was reported as showing enlargement owing to combined effects of high temperatures and winds. These factors were asserted to be furnishing the worst possible conditions over areas already lacking both surface and subsoil moisture of any adequate extent.

Wheat soared 2¼ cents a bushel, despite brisk profit taking, with the close unsettled, 1⅜@1¾ higher than yesterday's finish, corn 1¼@1⅜ up, oats ⅝@1 cent advanced and provisions exactly unchanged.

From the outset, friends of higher prices for wheat appeared to have the whip hand. Word of some moisture at various places in drouth territory was virtually ignored. No general drenching likely to be of material benefit to crops was in evidence, and professional traders who yesterday had espoused the selling side of the wheat market gave indications today of eagerness to reinstate holdings. On the other hand, buying on the part of commission houses was only of moderate volume as a whole, and during much of the day did not follow extreme paice advances well.

Gravity of the drouth situation, nevertheless, dominated the Chicago market, despite apparent reluctance of export interests elsewhere to join in efforts to hoist prices.

Corn and oats followed the upswing of the wheat market. Complaints were received that corn germination was slow in many sections.

Lloyd George Says British Are Gaining on the Depression By Well-Known "Rule of Thumb"

New Tariffs Are Helpful, Ardent Free Trader Admits, Although He Reiterates His Creed That "Prosperity" Can Be Reborn Only in International Commerce.

BY DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Former Prime Minister of Great Britain.

LONDON, April 28.

THE CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER'S financial statement does not profess to be a budget of prosperity, but of recovery. That it undoubtedly is. It is not as yet by any means complete recovery from the great slump. The figures for unemployment are almost double what they were in 1928, the last year of comparatively good trade.

We have a long way to go ere we reach normal conditions. But the figures of the budget are the best proof that we are well on the way.

Chamberlain boasted that we are doing better than any other country in the world. According to him, the other countries, great and small, are struggling with deficits whilst we are merrily disposing of two surpluses, they are making cuts whilst we are restoring them, they are putting on fresh taxes whilst we are reducing ours.

Deficits in Other Countries.

The state of the finances of most other leading countries at present is a rather doleful picture. France is struggling with a budget deficit of 4,000,000,000 francs. Germany is carrying an accumulated deficit of 1,780,000,000 reichmarks. Italy ended its last financial year with a huge deficit. The United States has deliberately accepted a policy of involving an immense Government deficit for the time being as the necessary price for its campaign of national recovery.

On the face of it, the contrast between the British budget with its bounding surplus and the financial position of other countries affords some cause for jubilation. That is quite true. It is not, however, the whole truth.

Our surplus is attributable to causes which are not altogether matters for congratulation. We are the most heavily taxed country in the world. The crisis of 1931 forced us to increase that taxation — direct and indirect. Since our receipts have swollen to such heights, what about reduction of our payments?

Savings Idle in Banks.

Since the depression, money has gone down in value because industry cannot absorb all our savings. They, therefore, lie idle in the banks, earning practically no interest. The state has thus been in a position to borrow cheaply. Conversion loans have reduced our payment on account of interest. A considerable sum has by this means been saved on account of interest. A considerable sum by this means has been saved on national debt services.

Our taxes are up, our interest payments are down. Hence the realized surplus. There is another fact that must be noted if, in our exultation, we are to avoid rushing into false conclusions. The British depression began some time before it reached other sources. The "trough of low pressure" hung first over these islands. Unemployment figures rose sharply in this country in 1929.

In that year and for some time after France was busy prospering. Her industries could only fulfill their orders with the aid of foreign labor which was being welcomed across her frontiers. France was the last country to suffer from the depression.

Even after our crisis of 1931, France seemed stronger than ever. Her industries continued to do well for some time and her financial position appeared to be unimpaired. Her golden gates were impenetrable.

When our great collapse of 1931 came, our unemployed were already double the normal post-war figure. Our home market was in a bad way and our exports were badly down. Our revenue was suffering and our expenditures on unemployment relief had been going up steadily for two years. We were the first to slump. We claim that we are the first to recover.

Recovery and Tariff.

To what extent is this recovery due to our abandonment of free trade? It is too early to draw a reliable inference from our returns.

Stanley Baldwin stipulated for a three-year trial of import duties before the nation came to any conclusion as to their effect. Every free trader would admit that, under the conditions in which the duties were imposed, they were bound to act as a powerful stimulant to home industries that were predominantly affected by foreign imports.

We were always the largest importers of food manufactured goods in the world. When the world crisis came the universal depression forced producers in every land to sell their goods at any price, wherever a purchaser was to be found. A country without a tariff became a favorite dumping ground. Our imports, therefore, tended to increase when we were offered goods we needed at the prices of bankrupt stock. Our manufacturing enterprises necessarily suffered from this eruption of cheap articles. High tariffs arrested this process and home production was bound to benefit as long as the world slump lasts and articles that were bought cheaply from hard-pressed manufacturers abroad must now be produced at home.

What has been the effect on our export trade? There was not enough international trade left upon which any impression could be made either. Restrictions, tariffs, quotas, and exchange fluctuations had already constricted all business between nations to an irreducible minimum. They only buy from each other what they cannot possibly do without.

Effect to Be Seen Later.

The effect of tariffs and quotas on our export and shipping trades won't be fully ascertained until world recovery has materialized. Britain is more dependent on her international business than any other country. It has been computed that between 30 and 40 per cent of her population earned their living in various branches of overseas trade, shipping, insurance, etc. There is no other country which comes anywhere near Britain in the proportion of her industrial trading and financial activities which depend on business with other countries.

I have repeatedly called attention to the startling fact that one-third of the population of Britain dwells in her seaport towns. That will give some indication of the outlook of her British trade. Its vision is largely across the seas. Its ultimate recovery to pristine health and vigor must therefore depend on the extent to which it can recapture its overseas business.

If we look to other indices than those of state finances, we can see signs of a general upward movement in all lands. The latest figures of steel production in all principal countries show a marked advance over those of a year ago, and statistics of employment in industrial countries reveal a gratifying improvement.

Further, traffic returns during recent months, alike in Britain.

Canada's Progress on Road to Recovery

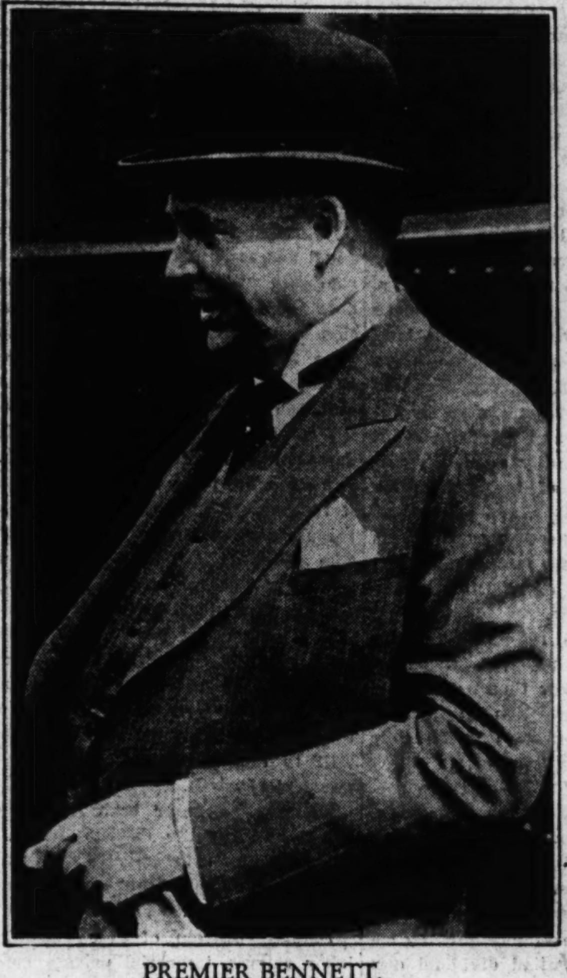
One Year of Growing Exports and Imports, Restored Profits, and Much More Work for Job Seekers

Improved Conditions in U. S. and in the British Empire, Fostered by the Ottawa Agreement, Have Made Better Markets for What the Dominion Has to Sell Without Artificial Control of Production—Profited Greatly by Roosevelt's Gold Policy.



PREMIER BENNETT.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
Of the Post-Dispatch Washington Bureau.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 19.

CANADIANS are more hopeful today of sound business recovery than they have been for three years and they have impressive figures to substantiate their optimism.

The "Physical Volume of Business," the index relied upon as an economic barometer in Government circles, in April reached 94 per cent of the 1926 average, whereas in April last year it was 69.8 per cent. In 1929 this index reached as high as 140. The index of industrial production was 93 per cent last month compared with 65 per cent in April, 1933.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, the Government had an ordinary deficit of $24,100,000 as compared with an ordinary deficit of $43,200,000 for the previous year.

Delivering his budget speech in the House of Commons last month, E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, painted a happy picture for the future but cautiously neglected to predict that the 1934-35 budget would balance. When a cabinet officer was reminded this week that Minister Rhodes had omitted the prediction, the officer replied, "I think if the Finance Minister were making his budget speech today, he would forecast a balanced budget."

Basic Reasons for Dominions Betterment.

Recovery in Canada is based on five principal factors, some of which are external. There has been the recovery in Great Britain and the later improvement in the United States, both of which have been reflected in Canadian export trade. The increase in the export trade has been accompanied by a moderate rise in prices which in turn has inspired the confidence required for future commitments. Canadian gold has increased about 40 per cent in value by the devaluation of the American dollar and this has been an important factor in enabling the Dominion to meet its external obligations amounting to more than $250,000,000 annually. Finally, the Canadian banking system withstood the depression without a banking failure, and has been a bulwark of Canadian economy. Although it is admitted here that the banks proved themselves hard creditors during the depression and probably forced the liquidation of some business houses that might have been saved, the depositors lost no money and their confidence in the banking system was not impaired. The depositors' reserve purchasing power was saved.

Although the United States and Canada are alike in many superficial respects it would be misleading to draw close comparisons between the recovery programs of the two countries. Comparable in area, Canada has only 10 and a half million population, about one-twelfth that of the United States. Canada is still predominantly agricultural, is a debtor nation, and necessarily must depend heavily on its foreign trade.

Export Trade Has Improved in a Year.

About 30 per cent of its moveable products go into export markets. Since the Ottawa conference of 1932, it has been intimately bound up in the British Empire. It is still a "young" country economically and financially and must look for "older" support from the United States and Great Britain.

Canadians who know the United States insist that there is also a difference in the general temperaments of Americans and Canadians, that by virtue of their inherited British and French traditions the Canadians are more conservative and thrifty than Americans. As examples of this conservativeness and thriftiness they cite the way the Government and individuals met the depression, the Government enacting no "radical" legislation—though some is now pending—and most individuals having savings on which to fall back during the first year or two of unemployment.

Politically, of course, Canada follows the model of Great Britain. The present conservative Government under R. B. Bennett came into power in 1930 before anyone guessed the probable extent of the depression. The Bennett Government succeeded the liberal administration of Mackenzie King, who is now leader of the opposition. Bennett, a wealthy industrialist, is reputed to be one of the greatest corporation lawyers in Canada.

Conservatives Now Sponsoring Farm Aid.

Opposition leaders insist that the conservative party favors the industry lists in the legislation. The administration leaders retort that they represent the most conservative element in the Dominion, the landowners, including the small farmers. A cynical Canadian political reporter observed that the conservatives would like to get their money from industrialists and votes from the farmers. Whatever its motive, the conservative party is now sponsoring farm relief legislation drafted along the lines of the American Farm Credit Administration and the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

One bright guiding line stands out through the three and a half year administration of the conservatives—the attempt to get a favorable balance of trade for the Dominion. The success of this policy is indicated by the fact that the Canadian dollar is at a slight premium in New York. Not including gold coin and bullion, the unfavorable balance for the fiscal year 1931 was $89,585,000. In 1932 this unfavorable was changed to a favorable balance of $9,062,000, which was increased to $74,330,000 in 1933 and to $151,901,000 in 1934.

As a tangible evidence of recovery, Finance Minister Rhodes cites the fact that whereas in 1933 imports amounted to $406,384,000 against $480,714,000 of exports, in the fiscal year 1933-1934, imports were increased to $433,779,000 and exports to $585,680,000. Most of this increase came in the last six months, from October to March inclusive.

War Preparations Boon for Miners.

Analysis of export trade figures discloses how the present recovery movement depends on foreign trade. The greatest increases have been in copper, nickel, wood pulp, lumber, pork products and wheat. Mineral production as a whole has increased from 106.5 per cent of the 1926 average from March, 1933, to 149 in March this year, while copper exports have increased from 213 in March, 1933 to 299.8 in March, 1934, a new high record. Copper and nickel are war materials as well as industrial commodities, and when your correspondent asked a Government official where the copper exports were going, he frankly replied, "to Great Britain for cartridge manufacture." Nickel is going to Europe for munitions and to the United States for munitions and industrial uses. The increased production of automobiles in the United States has called for greater exports from Canada of this product. The International Nickel Co., the largest producer in Canada, has reported net profits of $5,049,275 for the first quarter of 1934 against a net loss of $80,158 for the corresponding period last year.

The production and export of wood pulp almost directly reflects the improved business conditions in the United States as shown by larger newspapers and increased advertising lineage. Wood pulp exports increased from 48.1 in March last year to 67.6 in March, 1934. The peak for the 12 months period, however, was reached in July when the index reached 79.2. Newsprint production has been steadily increasing with few fluctuations from 85.9 in March, 1933, to 131.8 in March, 1934. The production in April this year reached the highest monthly output since July, 1930.

Ottawa Agreement Factor in Recovery.

The exports of planks and board reached its high peak during the 12 months period last February, when the index stood at 81.9. In March it declined to 71.1 as compared with 32.7 in Mach, 1933. One of the reasons for the increase in lumber exports was the British embargo on Soviet Russian lumber, which has since been removed. British Columbia exports have increased to China and Australia, officials say, because the NRA lumber code has increased costs of production in the American Northwest.

Conservative officials assert that the Ottawa conference agreements of 1932, negotiated by their leader, Prime Minister Bennett, are largely responsible for the general rise in export trade from 51.1 in March, 1933, to 73 in March this year, and they point with particular pride to the rising sale of pork products to Great Britain. The most important achievement of that conference was the execution of 12 inter-empire agreements on the basis of reciprocal tariff preferences. Canada made agreements with the United Kingdom, Southern Rhodesia, South Africa and the Irish Free State, granting tariff rate concessions on 220 items from the United Kingdom, principally iron and steel products, textiles, chemicals, flat glass, toilet accessories, tablewear and leather. In return Canada received from the United Kingdom enlarged markets for wheat, copper, bacon and ham.

Rubber and Cotton Show Import Increase.

The increases in these principal exports have made possible increasing imports during the past 12 months. Government officials put great reliance on the imports of crude rubber, raw cotton and raw wool as indices of domestic business activity. Crude rubber imports increased from 2,496,000 pounds in March, 1933, to 7,640,000 pounds in March, 1934; raw cotton increased from 6,374,000 pounds to 14,346,000 pounds, with twin peaks in November and December around 19,000,000 pounds; raw wool imports from 1,617,000 pounds to a high of 2,718,000 pounds last March. Crude petroleum imports increased from 4,934,000,000 gallons to 7,344,000,000 gallons, but with much higher peaks in June and July, electrical power consumption reached an all-time high in March this year as a result of continuous growth and the more recent stimulation of business activity.

It seems to be more than a coincidence that Canadian recovery followed stimulation of business activity in the United States rather than the recovery in Great Britain. Britain went off the gold standard in the fall of 1931, and British economists date the British recovery as starting in the summer of 1932. The Canadian depression reached its lowest point in February, 1933, and the indices do not record the recovery as really starting until May and June of last year. This may mean that Canadian prosperity is more dependent on recovery in the United States than in Great Britain.

Canadian officials are quite reluctant to talk for publication other than in official speeches although they are obliging in giving background or "off the record" information. This applies to the leaders of the opposition as well as to administration officials. The administration attitude, however, is well presented in the budget speech of Finance Minister Rhodes.

"This year for the first time in the course

Former Secretary of the Treasury Discusses the New Deal and Lists Its Defects to Young Republicans of New York.

THE following address was delivered by Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of President Hoover, at the annual meeting of the association of Young Republican Clubs of New York, held yesterday in White Plains:

"I AM glad to meet with you young Republicans. There never was a period in my lifetime when our party was more in need of vigor, the idealism and the courage of youth. We look to you young men and women to furnish the leadership, the devotion and the fighting qualities in the great battle that is to be waged for the preservation of American institutions, and of the liberty of the individual from the tyranny of government.

"The Republican party was born to save the Union. It must now go forth to battle to save the principles upon which the Union was founded.

"I believe that if the process now under way is permitted to continue unchallenged, American institutions and civilization are in greater danger than at any time since the founding of the Republic. I believe that unless the people rouse themselves to what is happening, they may find themselves in the grip of a system alien in character and totally inconsistent with American traditions. I believe that the time has come for all those who still cherish American ideals and principles to rally to their defense without consideration of expediency or self-interest.

"I believe that disguised in the New Deal are measures not intended primarily to be either recovery measures or of a temporary character, but constituting definite steps in a major program looking to the ultimate setting up of a system of economic planning by the Government on a nation-wide scale, accompanied by control of industry and the regimentation of the American people. A study of the writings and speeches of the most influential group in the administration, together with the events that have taken place since the 4th of March, 1933, present an almost conclusive case.

Temporary or Permanent?

"The time has come to present the issue fairly and squarely to the American people, and to let them decide whether they desire to sanction a program which inevitably means revolutionary changes in our government, institutions and civilization. The people are entitled to have the issue sharply drawn. They are entitled to complete candor from both sides.

"There must be no repetition of the 1932 campaign, when the Democratic Party made certain specific pledges, practically all of which have since been repudiated, while the true purposes of the present administration were concealed in obscure and equivocal language.

"The truth is that, involving as it does, government control of industry and of the economic life of the nation and the regimentation of its citizens, the New Deal conflicts with fundamental principles upon which our government is founded, and to the extent that its philosophy overrides or supplants them, the process is a revolutionary one. We are not gradually modifying what we have. We are turning to something totally different.

"That's why the historian of the New Deal calls his book "The Roosevelt Revolution." That's why Mr. Donald Richberg proclaims: "The long-discussed revolution is actually under way in the United States. There is no need to prophesy. It is here. It is in process."

"This is the truth. It is equally true that this revolutionary process must end in the destruction of individual liberty, for individual liberty cannot long survive the death of economic freedom.

"It's not a question of "laissez-faire." Even Professor Tugwell admits this. We are pledged to maintain equality of opportunity for all. Individual freedom does not imply its use either at the expense of the rights of others or of the community. Our system of individual initiative and control is subject to regulation by government, as witness the Interstate Commerce Act, the Food and Drug Act, the Banking Laws, the Sherman and Clayton Acts, the existence of the Federal Trade Commission, innumerable State regulatory statutes and the recent decisions of the Supreme Court in the Minnesota mortgage case and the New York milk case.

Two Principles Involved.

"Nor is there any difference in legitimate objectives, immediate and ultimate.

"We are all prepared to support proper emergency measures calculated to promote recovery. We all recognize that our policies must be directed to bring greater security and a more widespread well-being among the great mass of the American people and that high standard of living which their resources, their industry and their intelligence entitle them to. We all recognize the need of finding a permanent solution for our two major problems: unemployment and agriculture. We all recognize the necessity of eliminating the abuses and weaknesses that have been disclosed. The Republican party, if it is to survive, must be prepared to present a definite program to meet these issues. I am confident that it can and will.

"It's not a question of aims and ideals but of method and of philosophy of government. On the one hand a planned and controlled economy inevitably means the end of individual freedom. . . . On the other hand, we can preserve the right of the individual to be the master of his destiny. This is the soul and spirit of American institutions.

"In the language of Governor Smith, 'Let's take a look at the record.'

"The surest way to understand the Government program and all its implications is to turn to the writing of the man who undoubtedly furnished its underlying philosophy—Professor Tugwell. In his book, "The Economic Discipline," after discussing our existing comparatively free, though regulated competitive system, as contrasted with governmental control of industry, he wholeheartedly advocates complete government control. He proposes "a survey of the nations' needs for goods and services of all kinds, and a study of our present arrangement for providing them. Such a study would be the basis for undertaking such a rearrangement of present industries or such a control over their actions as would meet the criteria of the plan."

Dr. Tugwell's Purpose.

"Dr. Tugwell lays down certain requirements necessary to the achievement of complete governmental control over industry:

1. "The flow of new capital into different uses would need to be supervised. * * * If there were a system of planning, * * * which allocated to specific industries capital sufficient to produce an amount of goods which would be taken by consumers at the price possible with capacity production, and no more, prices could be lower than they are at present. The surplus investment capital could then be assigned to other industries."
2. "Prices would have to be controlled."
3. Industrial associations are to be set up which must receive cer-

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

What Col. Leake Dug Up at Stratonicela.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE of the edicts of the Roman Emperor Diocletian, contained in an inscription found some time since at Stratoniceia by an archeologist, Col. W. M. Leake, might almost have been promulgated today. A reading of portions of it is highly edifying to those who imagined that the New Deal possesses original elements for a program of economic redemption.

In its preamble, the edict dwells with great indignation on the greed and inhumanity of merchants, money changers, etc., and proceeds to fix prices throughout the Empire for all the necessaries and commodities of life, and to regulate the wages of laborers, artisans, teachers and others. The practical effects of this master code were disastrous. The restrictions laid upon commercial freedom and manufacturing initiative caused a disturbance of the food supply. In non-productive provinces, many traders were ruined and not long afterward, in about A. D. 320, the edict fell into common disrepute and even non-observance.

According to the record, the Diocletian program contained other familiar features. The Emperor was an inveterate and feverish organizer of governmental bodies like our present-day bureaus and commissions. Government by edict, rather than by constituted law, became the watchword in ancient Rome. One of the early fathers of the Christian church, Lactantius, wrote that "many administrators and a multitude of inferior officials lay heavy tribute on each territory and almost on each city. There were also many conservators of different degrees, and deputies and administrators. To this there was added a certain endless passion for building and, on that account, there were endless exactions. Here he built public halls, there a circus; here a mint and there a factory for making weapons of war."

The bureaucratic system which Diocletian thus inaugurated failed altogether to remove existing economic evils and only aggravated certain others. The already over-burdened financial resources of the Empire were strained still further by the increased expenditures for building. "This gigantic bureaucracy of the fourth century proved an intolerable waste in the end upon the energies of the Empire," concludes this interesting chronicle.

The striking lesson to be gleaned from this experience of an ancient civilization, embalmed in the archives of recorded history, will not be lost on the majority of intelligent American citizens.

England's Consumer Societies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A LETTER from E. C. B. suggests that our economic problems could be solved by making business pay only 6 per cent on actual invested tangible capital, and dividing any excess equally among labor, management and capital. No doubt, such a plan would be of some benefit; but why not rebate the entire earning in excess of 6 per cent to customers in proportion to their purchases?

The consumers' co-operative societies in England operate on this plan (of paying dividends to customers), and do an annual business of about one and one-half billion dollars. In many cases, stock in these societies is such an excellent investment that they can get the capital they need at a lower rate than 6 per cent. Of course, organization of and membership in these organizations is entirely voluntary and non-political. However, a good part of the recovery in England can probably be attributed to the existence of these societies.

In the United States, there are about 1500 organizations operating on the consumers' co-operative plan. So far, they are small when compared to the profit-making giants; but they have grown considerably during the depression, while profit-making businesses have mostly declined.

"Suppress the Gangsters."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE decent citizens of the city and county will unanimously approve your editorial, "Suppress the Gangsters." They know that while they must pay the costs, they get little in the way of protection. On the one hand, they are harassed by those in so-called high financial places, who by sundry shady methods extract their hard-earned savings and, on the other, they are besieged by the criminal element, their allies at the bar and crooked politicians.

We are told that the power of the public is in ballots, not bullets. However, the machine guns hold the front lines. The mayoralty election of 1929, in which the people were kept completely in the dark regarding the physical and mental condition of the Republican candidate, is a saddening illustration of the helplessness of the voters and a pitiful example of the ease with which politicians can take complete control.

An outstanding newspaper which will, with fearlessness and forcefulness, point the accusing finger of publicity at those most responsible for present conditions and tell the truth and the whole truth will be hailed as a modern Moses. I nominate the Post-Dispatch.

Roads to Better Housing

Secretary of Labor Perkins told the Senate Banking Committee yesterday that the administration's housing bill was "one of the most essential features of the recovery program." She estimates that, if the housing program were reasonably successful, a million men might be re-employed in the building trades.

Industrial revival in 1922 was brought about by commercial and industrial building, by automobile industry expansion, by installment selling. None of these possibilities now presents itself. In housing alone is there visible promise of major expansion.

The hope for housing lies, in part, in the industrialization of construction. Home-building, alone among our major industries, remains in the era of handicraft. Houses are made to order. Materials are cut and fitted on the job. High construction costs place new homes far beyond the reach of the average pocketbook.

If home-building is to expand, it must bring costs and prices within the limits of the moderate income. It can do this if it will cease exclusively to serve the classes and undertake to build for the masses. This means it must adopt the principle of quantity production and assembly of standardized interchangeable parts which characterize other great industries.

There are no technical obstacles to the industrialization of housing. Industry, proceeding along the traditional lines of competitive production for private profit, can do this if it will.

Economic obstacles remain. Land costs too much, taxes are too high. Financing is too expensive. Craft unionism impedes efficiency and boosts costs. The prospective fabricators of mass housing units, if they are alive to their interests, will fight these things. They will insist that the burden of local taxation be increasingly shifted from improvements on the land to the value of the land itself, so that speculative withholding may be penalized and improvement encouraged. They will urge that financing costs be cut by the creation of more private and public agencies which will make credit more readily available, particularly through establishment of institutions for rediscount of sound mortgage paper, and such plans as Mr. Roosevelt urged in his message to Congress last week. They will support every movement which would promote the organization of labor on an industrial rather than a craft basis.

Complete realization of these reforms, however, would not suffice to solve the problem. Considerable numbers have incomes so low that no conceivable amount of mere industrialization in housing can supply them with living quarters which they can afford either to buy or to rent at prices which will yield a commercial profit. To house these people decently, society must do more than remove existing obstacles to private building. It must take affirmative action to stimulate new construction.

Non-commercial, large-scale housing may be provided by industrial establishments for the care of their own workers, by charitable foundations, by co-operative associations and by limited dividend corporations. There are excellent examples of each of these types of housing in the United States.

Even this type of encouragement has its limits. Industrial housing obviously applies only to a restricted group of factory employes, and appears largely as a by-product of industrial decentralization. Charitable building is necessarily limited to the amount of charity which is forthcoming, and that can never be large enough to fill the need. Co-operative housing can be built only by co-operators, and organized co-operation is sadly lacking in the United States. Extension of limited dividend building has so far been checked by the unwillingness of private credit to enter the field.

Low interest loans to co-operatives and limited dividend companies are good as far as they go. Such efforts are to be encouraged. But it must be recognized that, at their best, living quarters provided in this way must still be rented at figures which the present slum dweller cannot afford to pay.

All these activities taken together will not clear the slums. The most direct attack which can be made upon the slum is to purchase and demolish tenement and other sub-standard dwellings. Slum clearance makes a strong social appeal. It is to this task that Federal housing authorities have devoted a major part of their energies.

But slum clearance alone, unfortunately, serves merely to make a bad situation worse. It drives slum dwellers into surrounding areas, increasing congestion, raising rents and enhancing realty values there. By reclaiming blighted areas, it so increases the price of adjacent land as to render the cost of further public improvement well-nigh prohibitive. Most slum structures stand on costly land. New buildings erected on this land must necessarily command rentals which will exclude the very people who most desperately need to be rehoused.

In the last analysis, if our society is ever to house the lowest quarter of its population in decent quarters, the Government itself must build. Vienna did it; London is doing it; America could do it with equal success. Public housing of this sort in no way competes with private commercial housing, for it is designed to accommodate a section of the population which commercial builders cannot conceivably hope to serve. If public authorities were to build on the cheap land available on the outskirts of every city, the slum problem would solve itself.

Properly, this activity is one which should be undertaken by municipal governments. But our states and cities are today in financial straits which render it impracticable. Only the Federal Government has resources adequate to enable it to tackle the job. The situation, if it is to be met at all, must be met by direct Federal large-scale working-class housing construction in urban areas.

The Emergency Housing Corporation, which was established in October, 1933, as a subsidiary of the Public Works Administration and allotted $200,000,000 of public works money, was to undertake this task. Today, after seven months, the corporation is still to announce its first project; turn its first spadeful of earth.

Society must plan both for the community as a whole and for the distant future. It must work toward a new prosperity in which all its constituent groups—workers, manufacturers and realty owners alike—will profit.

Industrialization of home building, tax reform, labor reform, improved private credit facilities, extension of public credit and direct public construction—these are the means by which America may be more decently housed and prosperity regained. The President has made a start in the program he has laid before Congress. It is unthinkable that a nation as great as ours will long permit its people to live in crime-breeding slums; in insanitary, overcrowded, dilapidated homes. It would be tragic for us longer to allow our resources to go to waste, our labor to remain idle, in the face of such crying need.

An Old-Fashioned Emergency

There has been so much destruction and restriction of crops in efforts to solve agriculture's problems, while thousands of needy, as well as many of the farmers themselves, remain in want, that it must be a relief to Washington authorities to confront an old-fashioned emergency for once, to which rational remedies can be applied. The drouth situation in some of the Central and Western states is such an emergency as was known in Bible times, and which all stages of civilization have experienced. Crop failures, hungry farm animals, families deprived of the means to make a living are the results of nature's failure to send sufficient rain. The means adopted by Federal authorities are of time-honored soundness: seed and feed loans, feeding hungry families and their stock, planting other crops, providing relief work, buying up surplus farm animals, removing inhabitants from the worst-hit regions.

It is an old-fashioned economy of scarcity that the drouth area now presents. New crops are to be planted there, while crops are being restricted in the regions where an economy of plenty reigns. The surplus of the prolific regions just now would be a godsend to the parching Western country. Also, it would be speedily consumed all over the country were there sufficient buying power to make that possible.

Strangely, our topsy-turvy economic system and our one-sided distribution methods find it simpler to deal with need than with bountiful production. Finding the elements usually propitious, we do not know how to utilize the blessings they send. When their bounty is withheld, we move in direct and humanitarian steps to right the situation. Will we some day adjust our system to serve the needs of plenty as successfully, so that "breadlines knee-deep in wheat," to quote Norman Thomas, shall be unknown?

Old Times and New

A few days ago, United States Senator Patterson put on his specs and took a peep into the past. There sat Diocletian, elected on a platform of Novae Tabulae. Anglicized, this meant "new accounts," Pattersonized, it meant a Roman New Deal. This ancient monarch wrestled with human nature to establish a more enlightened economic order. But, says Patterson, he stubbed his toe on too many commissions, too much bureaucracy, too much taxation and a debased currency. Worn out by heroic efforts to hoist human nature by its own petard, this noble soul sank into his grave a sad but wiser philosopher.

Taking up our own field glasses, we see a few things the Senator overlooked. Diocletian was not interested in the public welfare. He was merely interested in overhauling the machinery for revenue with which to support his private villas, public temples and the imperial menage. He did not want these to suffer in grandeur while he could still squeeze taxes out of the people.

If Roman history the Senator must have, we recommend to his attention the Gracchi. It was these brothers who discovered by means of a census that 2000 families owned Italy, lock, stock and barrel; that millions of people were chattels; that the ancient peasantry was housed in city slums, while effete wealth owned the countryside. Both were assassinated for their interest in reform.

Senator Patterson is not the first to see warnings in the past against efforts to restrain greed. One writer has resurrected the mummy of one Shen Tsung and argued that, since this powerful Chinese could not purge society of destructive acquisitiveness, the children of the Boones and Crocketts cannot do so. Another prophesies a sad fate for the New Deal after consulting a history of the Incas.

But has not the wisest of modern historians said that the "greatest lesson which history has to offer is that it has no lesson for the present age"? Our conditions are utterly new. It would be as foolish for us to attempt to glean guidance for the great industrial democracy of the United States from facts gathered about the petty Athenian democracy of the fifth century B. C. as to scrutinize a Greek galley for information about the workings of the turbine engines of the Leviathan.

The fight for a fairer distribution of wealth is not the battle of yesterday. The problem of Roman Caligulas, Neros, Diocletians, Chinese Shen Tsungs and Incan Huayna Capacs was to protect a few from an equality of misery. Before the nineteenth century, no society would divide wealth without this calamity. The technical inability of past societies to create enough prosperity for all is perhaps some justification for reigns of robbers who fortified their privileged positions with devices ranging from despotism to feudalism.

The liberals and conservatives of our day no longer have the ancient quarrel. Our battle is the union of the strong and the weak against the caprices of a technological civilization. We do not seek to destroy the well-to-do, but to lift the masses to a plane upon which they can support our industrial civilization. Ours is the problem of how to control sinews of iron and steel whose united horsepower may make us all well-to-do.

The amazing thing about the present depression is that, on the brink of disaster, every industry in the nation was operating much below its maximum capacity. At the same time, our shelves were stocked with workable inventions for multiplying this horsepower. These were idle because we had not discovered how to control our economic machine when running far behind its speed.

Deep down in the labyrinth of our vast economy lies the answer to this modern riddle. Its solution is the quest of the New Deal. At bottom, the Roosevelt evolution is nothing more than the effort to coordinate production and consumption. As conservative an economist as Harold G. Moulton of the Brookings Institution has said that our machine age can produce so much of everything that, if the system were let out, we could not conscript enough people to eat the food, wear the clothes or use the shelter.

The shades of old Roman Emperors may rest in their tombs. Modern intelligence must solve this problem for us, and in time it will. Meanwhile, let the Pattersons try to discredit this quest at their peril.

Great Contemporaries

NINE ETCHED FROM LIFE. By Emil Ludwig. (Robert McBride & Co., New York City.)

HERETOFORE Emil Ludwig's biographical studies have been concerned only with great personalities of the past. In the present volume, as the title indicates, the lives and characters of nine contemporaries are considered. The studies are divided into two groups under the headings, "Rulers of the People" and "Servants of the People." The "rulers" are Lloyd George, Venizelos, Mussolini and Stalin. The "servants" are Nansen, Masaryk, Briand, Rathenau and Motta.

The studies of Masaryk, Mussolini and Rathenau are the result of many "systematic discussions" with the subjects over a considerable period of time. The study of Stalin is based upon a single interview, lasting two hours. The others were known through occasional meetings.

Of the nine, all but Nansen and Rathenau were "self-made" men. Judged for all-around humanness and richness of personality, the author seems inclined to place Masaryk and Nansen highest among the group, with Briand, Motta and Rathenau as close seconds. Stalin made a profound impression upon him, as of a cold intellect functioning deliberately and with the precision of a fine machine. The study of Mussolini, although sympathetic and not lacking in expressed admiration, closes on a note of doubt. Lloyd George is seen as essentially naive; Venizelos as "big-minded, warm-hearted"; Briand as something of a mystic.

It seems a pity that Hitler was not admitted into the party; but in view of the public burning of the author's books in Germany last year, he may well have felt that his comments on that subject might seem lacking in dignity.

In his general remarks on the state of Europe as represented by these studies, Ludwig observes that "in the development of history, we often find two distinct phases which succeed each other and are of such a nature that they may respectively be called the masculine phase and the feminine phase." During the "masculine phase," he believes, the people are "vigorously active and creative," and are able to manage their own affairs. The rapid drift toward dictatorships in our day, he asserts, indicates that we are in the "feminine phase."

He deplores "the idea of the community which is now being hammered into the heads of millions of Europeans," indicating that individualism within each nation is desirable. But, on the other hand, he is a passionate advocate of a Community of Nations, and is strongly opposed to the nationalistic spirit, seeming not to realize that the intense economic nationalism he deplores is the outgrowth of the economic individualism within each nation, which he seems to favor.

If there is confusion here, it may be only in the statement, for in conclusion the author prophesies that "Fate is preparing the final doom of nationalism" and that when the coming struggle "for the mastery of races and the nations is finished, . . . . all national problems will have been obliterated. The victims (the people of all nations) will turn on their leaders and betrayers and will take from them the last remnants of that money and property around which the national conflicts have raged."

But is this not the triumph of the community idea which he has previously deplored as a symptom of the "feminine phase"? Or does he mean to suggest that we are "feminine" in that we do not revolt to the end that the community idea may triumph now, notwithstanding the assertion that the community idea is symptomatic of the "feminine phase"?

The proposition as stated seems, somehow, to move in a vicious circle. And if it does so, may not the difficulty arise from a false diagnosis of the social disease involved?

PORTRAIT OF AMERICA. By Diego Rivera. (Covici-Friede, New York City.)

THE famous Mexican painter's "Portrait of America" here offered consists of more than 70 mural paintings done by him during the three years since he came to the United States. These appear in the San Francisco School of Fine Arts, the San Francisco Stock Exchange, the Detroit Museum, the Rockefeller Center and the New Workers' School in New York.

The volume opens with an introduction by the painter, in which he tells with gusto the story of "The Battle of Rockefeller Center," and in conclusion expresses the hope that his paintings "may prove useful to the workers who in the near future will carry out the formidable task" of revolutionizing American society. The text, by Bertram D. Wolfe, points out the revolutionary significance of the pictures.

GETTING RESULTS IN SELLING. By Paul W. Ivey. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

THIS is an orthodox handbook on the good old "aggressive salesmanship" that flourished in pre-depression days. It tells in detail how the successful salesman should go about the business of inveigling a prospect into buying what she or he neither needs nor wants.

When, for instance, the lady of the house states that the family has a good car and cannot afford to buy another, you say substantially: "Mrs. Brown, I will show you that I am a gentleman. I will not ask you to buy a car. I only want to take you riding in one of our new models at 4 p. m. today, my sole purpose being to give you pleasure." By returning often and insisting upon giving the lady a ride, you finally break down her "resistance," and, having enjoyed the ride, she can be counted upon to hector hubby until a new model is purchased on time.

In the mellow philosophical mood of his concluding chapter, the author remarks that "without salesmen, half the railroads and factories would close down in the United States." They would indeed. Also, factories closed down in appalling numbers and railroads went bankrupt during the greatest era of "aggressive" selling ever known.

MARK TWAIN, SON OF MISSOURI. By Minnie M. Brashear. (The University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, N. C.)

DURING the heyday of the post-war mood, when youth was "flaming" and nothing that had ever been true was any longer so, it became the raging fashion to "debunk" great reputations, and during the years immediately preceding the vigorous spanking we took in 1929, nearly everybody who had ever been anybody seemed to have been pretty well demolished. Freudianism was eagerly seized upon as a handy means of discrediting our betters. Had some personality demonstrated an unforgivable superiority in works, it was a simple matter to nose about for "complexes" and "inhibitions" by way of revealing the phony source of the offensive superiority.

Mark Twain came in for his full share of this "scientific" levelling process, and no less a critic than Van Wyck Brooks, responding to the time-mood, was able to show to the satisfaction of many that Mark Twain failed to become a Cervantes, a Voltaire, a Rabelais and a Swift all in one for the lamentable reason that he suffered from an inferiority feeling as the result of his early environment, and from inhibitions imposed upon him, first by his mother and then by his wife. What seems to have been overlooked was that Mark Twain somehow remained Mark Twain as usual, and the attempt to explain genius by analysis was quite as foolish as it always had been and shall be.

But "it is an ill wind that blows nobody good," and, as Minnie M. Brashear remarks in the preface to her admirably sane study here listed, such pseudo-scientificizing "has caused a re-examination of everything pertaining to Mark Twain." Not that he really needed it, for his works are there to be read and enjoyed, regardless of critical theorizing; but only that there is no advantage in accepting the wrong answer to any question.

It is the purpose of Miss Brashear to reconsider "the formative elements in Mark Twain's immediate inheritanc. and environment by turning the telescope back as steadily as possible upon the first 25 years of his life"; and this she has done in a convincing manner, "in the faith," as she says, "that it is more profitable to know how an important American writer reacted to persons and objects in his environment than to theorize about how he ought to have reacted."

A great deal of careful original research must have been required for the writing of this study, and even those who are familiar with Albert Bigelow Paine's biography of Mark Twain will find some new light here. The work is distinguished not only by careful scholarship, but also by the good sound sense and human understanding of the author.

WINDWARD ROCK. By Kenneth Leslie. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

THERE is poetic reality and extraordinary technical skill in this collection of lyrics by a young poet. This is intended as relatively high praise, in view of the fact that both poetic reality and skill in verse construction are far rarer than is generally supposed.

ALDERMEN LIKENED TO 'REIGN OF TERROR'

Medical Society Editorial Calls on Professional Men to Seek Office.

Partisan activities of Democratic members of the Board of Aldermen will cause the public to think about selecting a different class of citizens as Aldermen, it is asserted in an editorial in the Weekly Bulletin of the St. Louis Medical Society by Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, editor.

The editorial referred to the recent effort by the Aldermanic Ways and Means Committee, dominated by the Democratic majority, to eliminate many "holdover" Republican employes from the city payrolls by temporary abolition of their positions. Since the editorial was printed the committee has decided to content itself with a recommendation to Mayor Dickmann that department heads eliminate Republican employes.

It was also suggested by Dr. Gradwohl that physicians, both Democrats and Republican, should run for the Board of Aldermen, so that the board would include "some professional gentlemen who will guide and counsel it on purely professional matters."

City Hall "Reign of Terror."

Calling the situation "the Reign of Terror in the City Hall," the editorial recalled the French Reign of Terror, when leaders of the Commune sat in a hall called "The Mountain," and ordered the execution of political opponents.

"We have," said the editorial, "a somewhat similar spectacle now going on in our City Hall, with the Democratic members of the Board of Aldermen essaying the role of 'The Mountain.' Taking advantage of their legally constituted authority to pass upon appropriations, budgets and payrolls, they are decapitating all city employes who are tainted with Republican party ancestry. No matter who they are or how efficient they are, or how long and faithfully they have served, the word has gone forth that they must go. Recently, the Ways and Means Committee of the board demanded that the index cards of the Efficiency Board, 6000 in all, be forthwith produced so that the committee might scrutinize with eagle eyes the records of all city employes, especially their past voting records. Jus as soon as the minutest trace of 'Republican' leanings was discovered, that employe was thrown into the tumbrel and sent on his way to the guillotine.

Conversion of Mr. Darst.

"It seems that all this has come about because the new administration has been in some particulars very properly reluctant to dispose of the services of 'key' men in the technical departments, men who have served under a number of preceding administrations and whose services are valuable and difficult to replace. The men of 'the Mountain' have apparently lost patience with the Mayor for his failure to personally guillotine these employes and so they are doing it for him; they get rid of them by the simple expedient of refusing to appropriate any money to pay any objectionable Republican-tainted employe.

"Insofar as the hospital and health divisions are concerned, it is gratifying to read in the public press that the Director of Public Welfare, Mr. Joseph Darst, who a few weeks ago began upsetting the Health Department by discharging without rhyme or reason in the way of a public charge, a very efficient official, now appears before the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Aldermen and protests in most vigorous manner against this meddling of politicians with hospital and health activities. This new attitude of Mr. Darst we assume means a recantation and one, we trust, that will be permanent. He evidently has seen the error of his own ways and is now willing to go along with us in keeping politics out of the Health Department. We congratulate him and assure him of our support to the last degree, provided this conversion which came about through a baptism of fire, will be enduring. We wish him every bit of luck possible in saving worthy and efficient employes in his department. The responsibility for their discharge we know now rests not with Mr. Darst or with Mr. Dickmann, but with 'the Mountain.'

No Immediate Hope.

"There doesn't seem any redress in sight for the citizens of this great city except in the dim and distant future. We may pass resolutions which deplore and verbally condemn, but 'the Mountain' is not likely to be disturbed by these philipics."

The remedy, Dr. Gradwohl suggested, lies in persuading "upstanding and reputable citizens" to run for the Board of Aldermen, giving them a better salary than the $1800 a year now paid an Alderman.

"With a living wage," it was added, "these Aldermen would be more interested in the thorough performance of their duty and less interested in demanding positions for their constituency. Better times can only come and repetitions of the Reign of Terror can only be avoided by concentrating the fierce white light of publicity on these public positions, with the end in view of attracting the best possible type of citizenry to assume the aldermanic toga."

tificates of convenience and necessity from the Government, with authority to fix conditions of competition, maximum prices and minimum wages, working under a control board that would determine policies affecting "production, prices, division of markets, working conditions and the like." On this board representatives of the Government would sit.

"I call your particular attention to the following sentence: 'Their duties would consist in the clear and definite transmission to the Board of the general plans for industry which are worked out by the Government itself. These would concern consumption, production, the necessary allocation of capital, and prices.'

"In other words, the Federal Government is to control our entire economic life, to determine what we may produce and at what price our products may be sold, what we may consume and in what quantities, what we may earn, and what hours we may work. The United States is to be transformed into a sort of Spain of the sixteenth century.

Changes Already Made.

"The Professor foresees that legal and administrative difficulties are likely to prove embarrassing, but he is equal to the task of overcoming these obstacles. We must set up, therefore, he says, devices 'of a sort to which business men will at first voluntarily agree, and which, at the same time, contain no threat to the public.' The amazing thing is that by setting up the bait of the temporary suspension of the Sherman Act, our business men fell for the code device just as he had foreseen. A resourceful man, Mr. Tugwell!

"I know that all this sounds fantastic, and that it seems unbelievable that anything like this can happen in the United States. And yet—it's already happened.

"We have seen that Tugwell's basic prerequisites to a planned and controlled economy are control of prices, wages, production and the flow of capital. The NRA, the AAA, the Securities Act and the Stock Exchange bill, taken together and supplemented by the Government's fiscal program, have already placed control in the hands of Government. The noose is over our head. Are we to permit it to be drawn?

"There can be no doubt that under cover of the codes, prices are being fixed in a number of industries, totally disregarding the fact that a system of price fixing in competitive industries starts a whole train of consequences that must end in destroying economic freedom and ultimately our form of government.

"Under the Bankhead Law, it controls production directly even to the extent of limiting what an individual farmer may produce on his own farm.

"Under the Securities Act and the so-called Stock Exchange Act, which goes way beyond regulation of the Exchange, the flow of capital is brought under government control.

"In spite of an immense volume of credit seeking use, the Securities Act has created such a condition that it has become necessary to turn to the Federal Reserve Banks for working capital for industry. The law as originally passed was so thoroughly bad that it had to be modified, but not for a minute is Professor Tugwell's conception of the control of the flow of capital by government relinquished. It takes a new form in the so-called "Stock Exchange Bill." In effect, the four hundred and eighty thousand corporations in the United States, and any new ones that might be created, cannot obtain capital through the sale of securities through brokers or dealers except under such rules and regulations as the Washington bureaucracy may set up. The issuing of securities means acquiring and making use of credit—and what Tugwell's philosophy contemplates is to put the control and allocation of credit into the hands of government.

What Happened Without Debate.

"To me it is one of the most amazing events in all history. Without consideration, without debate, in precipitate haste, a great nation is abandoning a system under which, say what you will, and in spite of recurring depressions, it has enjoyed for 150 years greater progress, greater and constantly increasing prosperity, greater happiness and greater freedom than any nation, any time, anywhere. And for what? For a system of centralized, rigid, bureaucratic control of all industry that has never worked anywhere and at any time, and even during its brief period of trial here is already exhibiting every evidence of failure.

"I have read both Mr. Tugwell's books. Nowhere do I find that he has seriously faced the impossible difficulties of a centralized and completely controlled national economy in a country such as ours, or frankly recognized that it is totally incompatible with democratic institutions.

"The evidence supporting his conclusions is shockingly inadequate. Apparently to him the most conclusive argument is found in the following statement: 'For many years the technical task of devising plans for regulating our complex economic interests was too difficult to attempt. But today we know that this is no longer true, for Russia has shown that planning is practicable.' It's a pretty sweeping assumption that the Russian experiment is a success. But what to me is a monstrous thought is that anyone should suggest that the regimentation which has been applied to a nation, which never has and does not today enjoy the semblance of freedom, should or can be imposed on this the most liberty-loving, individualistic, enterprising and intelligent people in the world.

"There are innumerable examples of government regimentation throughout history. Invariably it has repressed the creative instincts of mankind and throttled progress. It has never worked. It isn't working in the United States today.

Where Compulsion Comes In.

"The NRA has practically annulled the Sherman Law. It has injured the small business man. It is daily placing an additional burden on the consumer. Except in a limited number of industries, it has failed to improve conditions. It has retarded rather than helped recovery by putting up costs and prices before the attainment of volume. It is breaking down administratively.

"The AAA is admittedly ineffective since resort is had to compulsory crop reduction."

"We were promised that if these experiments did not prove successful, they would promptly be abandoned. Yet what is happening? The AAA, with its plan for voluntary co-operation, does not come up to expectations. Resort is had to compulsion. The NRA is found in practice to be inapplicable to the purely local business concern; and its compulsory features almost impossible of administration. Does that lead to more moderation? Ask the tailor in Jersey City who went to jail for pressing a pair of pants for 35 cents when the august code demanded a nickel more. True, the weakness of the Securities Act is so apparent as to require amendment, but a new control over the flow of capital and industry is imposed under guise of regulating stock exchanges. We have in the last few days heard talk of soft-pedaling the NRA. It has not proceeded beyond the talk stage. But, simultaneously, Secretary Wallace demands more dictatorial powers under the AAA.

"The abrogation of the air mail contracts without hearing or evidence, the indefensible Mellon persecution, and the case of the Jersey City tailor should serve as warnings to all of what may be expected when government becomes a government of men rather than of laws.

"There was no statute of the United States fixing the price of pants pressing. How could there be? There was no such statute of the State of New Jersey. There was a so-called code, adopted by certain individuals not elected by the people or holding public office, approved by the chief executive. The chief executive could on his own initiative have rewritten the code as presented by the code authority, and by executive decree fixed the price at which pants could be pressed.

Calls Code Tyranny.

"This man went to prison not for violating a specific criminal statute, Federal or state, but for violating an executive edict or decree. Shades of Patrick Henry and of Thomas Jefferson!

"This isn't theory or argument, or deduction. It's stark reality. I'm not talking of what might happen. It's already happened. What does it mean? It means that you and I and the rest of our fellow countrymen, pursuing with the utmost good faith the common callings of mankind, be they on the farm, in the factory, or in the marts of trade, doing only what we and our fathers had been accustomed to do, acts commonly accepted by the general opinion of mankind as not only harmless, but beneficial, protected by Constitutional guarantees which had existed unchallenged for well nigh 150 years, can today be sent to jail for violating an edict of the President, issued in accordance with a new philosophy of government never authorized by the people.

"That, my friends, is tyranny. That, if one hundred and fifty years of American history means anything, is an assumption of authority that is revolutionary.

"In the face of this threat, what is the duty of the Republican Party? First and foremost, to proclaim its unswerving loyalty to American principles and American institutions, to invite all men and women who believe in them to rally to their defense, 'and to preach the pure and undefiled doctrine of liberty under democracy.'

"We must be careful to distinguish between basic principles and policies. The former cannot be compromised. The latter must be approached with an open mind. In the light of new conditions, traditional policies must be reconsidered. The world moves. Immense changes take place. As a living organism, our party cannot live in the past. It must faithfully interpret the aspirations of the people by looking forward, by honestly recognizing defects in the existing system, and with equal sincerity seeking their remedy, and by rededicating itself to the task, in so far as it lies in the power of government to do so, of bringing to the great mass of the American people a more secure, a fuller and a richer life.

"We believe that the promise of American life can be fulfilled within the framework of existing institutions, without the destruction of individual freedom, and in accordance with the spirit and purpose of the founders of the Republic.

"This is the fundamental issue that confronts the American people."

Lloyd-George Now Says Tariffs Have Helped England

Germany and the United States, show steady upward movement. These are always an important index of the state of trade and industry. Everywhere there are more men and women at work.

"No Intelligent Co-operation."

We have then some concrete grounds for hope that the nadir of the world depression has been passed and that there is a general upward movement. But we have as yet no grounds for confidence that this will continue and develop into an era of world prosperity.

For tariff walls continue to rise between different countries so that such a measure of internal reconstruction as each nation achieves is of but limited benefit to its neighbors.

There is yet no sign of any intelligent co-operation between different countries to organize and improve a system of industrial and commercial relations that will remove the causes which created the depression. We are working blindly. Maybe we are working more wisely than we know. The British have an unconquerable faith in the ultimate success of rule of thumb methods. We can only hope that such faith be justified.

MUNICIPAL OPERA CAST IN HERBERT CONCERT

Oscar Bradley to Conduct Program on Anniversary of Composer's Death.

Oscar Bradley, musical director of the Municipal Opera, will conduct the Victor Herbert memorial concert at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park next Sunday at 3:30 p. m. under the auspices of the Municipal Theater Association.

The program, presenting a succession of the most popular of Victor Herbert's melodies, is offered on the tenth anniversary of his death, which occurred May 27, 1924. No admission will be charged for the concert and the only reserved seats will be for guarantors of the 1934 season of Municipal Opera.

Bradley's tentative program calls for selections from "Sweethearts," "Rose of Algeria," "Mlle. Modiste"—three of the composer's most popular operas and the three which are to be presented in this summer's Municipal Opera repertory—together with others from the "Red Mill," "Princess Pat" and "The Only Girl." In addition the opera's symphony orchestra will present a number of purely orchestral pieces, such as "Badinage," "Irish Rhapsody" and the "American Fantasy," which were popular in the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's "pop" concerts of other days.

The orchestra has been provided for the occasion by the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association, which thus pays tribute to a man who, as a musician, conductor and composer, was for a generation a most notable figure in American musical life.

Under Bradley's direction will be singing stars from Municipal Opera's 1934 cast, and the entire chorus of the coming summer, who are being especially coached for this appearance by Bradley and Maury Rubens, the opera's assistant musical director. The solo and ensemble numbers presented will include some of the biggest Victor Herbert hits.

Aside from its musical significance as a tribute to a great composer, who had many personal associations in St. Louis and whose career was intimately connected with this city in many ways, the Victor Herbert memorial concert will give St. Louis its first and only public glimpse of the cast and chorus of Municipal Opera before the opening of the season on June 4.

How Canada Has Fared on Its Road Back to Prosperity

of this prolonged depression," the Minister told the House of Commons, "It is possible to review the year's operations in terms of business improvement, reviving confidence and expanding revenues. Three successive budgets have been delivered in the face of progressive decline in business with inevitable disappointment in revenue and inability to meet the necessary expenditures.

"Last year I expressed the belief that the turn in the tide had been reached and I ventured the hope that important developments which had occurred or were under way would lead to an early recovery of business activity. The fiscal year just closed (March 31) has been a year of recovery—recovery that is unmistakable and of greater magnitude than many had thought possible.

Figures to Prove Business Improvement.

"The evidence of business recovery is written incontrovertibly in the recorded facts of our industry and trade. The most comprehensive measure of economic activity in Canada is the index of the physical volume of business prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It is based on a compilation involving 45 economic factors, including production of our leading manufactured articles, mineral products and electric power, as well as freight cars loaded, construction contracts awarded and the volume of trade. In February, 1933, when business reached its lowest point in Canada, that index stood at 67. In February, 1934, the latest month for which figures are available (the speech was given April 18), the index had risen to 86.4, an increase of no less than 29 per cent. During the same period, manufacturing production increased by 41.7 per cent, mineral production by 13.7 per cent, and total industrial production by 38 per cent.

"These figures are of striking significance when compared with similar figures for the United States. According to indices prepared by the Federal Reserve Board, the corresponding increases for that country were 31.1 per cent for manufacturing production, 15.2 per cent for mineral output and 28.6 per cent for total industrial production. Their improvement was considerably more rapid than ours last summer, but their gains were not so consistently held; with us, recovery has been more gradual but also more persistent.

Profits and More Jobs for Workers.

"Expansion in the scale of operations should bring an enlargement of business profits if industry is operating on a sound basis. While the earnings of most business organizations during the past year were affected adversely by the declining trend of the early part of the year, there is convincing confirmation of the improvement for the year as a whole in the figures of company profits. A recent compilation of the latest earning statements of 79 important companies showed that 64 reported net profits aggregating $61,500,000 after all charges, against $47,000,000 for the previous year, an increase of over 30 per cent, while the remaining 15 reduced their deficits from $8,600,000 to $7,100,000.

"Of more importance is the effect of this expansion in private business upon absorption of unemployment, the most pressing social problem of the depression years. In the 12-month period ended on March 1, the index of employment rose from 76.9 to 92.7, an increase of 20.5 per cent. At the beginning of March, returns from 8499 leading employers showed 153,688 more employes on payrolls than were reported at the same date a year ago, and of this total, 114,214 represented increases in industries other than highway construction and maintenance, and presumably therefore, have not been affected by governmental activity in connection with unemployment relief. On the basis of these returns from a limited group of employers it has been estimated that the total increase of employment during the year was at least 250,000."

The Finance Minister's employment figures have been challenged by opposition leaders and non-political economists. Unfortunately there are no accurate and comprehensive tables showing employment and unemployment, total payrolls and average weekly wages. The figures used by the Government on employment are admittedly only incomprehensive "samples." Cabinet officers admit privately that the increased volume of business has not been proportionately reflected in increased purchasing power of the average citizen, whether he is a farmer, a wage earner or a white collar worker. To find means to increase purchasing power is one of the most pressing problems of the Bennett Government, and the MacKenzie King opposition is making the most of the administration's difficulty in finding a solution to it.

Canada, Too, Seeks Greater Buying Power.

Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, believes that the general purchasing power can be raised if the farmer's income is increased. With his colleagues in the Cabinet he is sponsoring a natural products marketing act and a farmers' bankruptcy act which are along the lines of our own Agricultural Adjustment Act and the Farm Credit Administration.

If the natural products marketing bill, now up for debate in Parliament, is enacted, it will be one of the most far reaching pieces of legislation ever written into Dominion law. It defines a natural product as "any product of agriculture or the forest, sea, lake, river and any article of food or drink wholly or partially manufactured or derived from such a product." The bill does not include minerals.

The pending bill provides for a marketing board with power to regulate when, how and in what quantities and qualities the natural products may be marketed; to compensate persons for losses sustained by exporting, storing or withholding products from the market and to compensate persons for losses due to depreciations when products are ordered shipped to a country whose currency is depreciated. The board may grant or lend money for the construction or operation of facilities for preserving, storing or conditioning of regulated products. The measure is phrased in the widest terms and does not designate what Minister shall administer the act, who shall constitute the board, how long members shall serve, or their compensation. The liberal opposition is trying to amend the bill to make it more specific.

Proposal to Help East Mortgage Burden.

As a companion piece to this legislation, the Government is now making plans to relieve the farmer of some of his debt burden. No bill has as yet been introduced and details have not been worked out but it probably will provide for a modified form of bankruptcy for farmers and a subsequent Government loan at a lower rate of interest on the revised assets which would permit the farmer to pay off his private creditor.

By the marketing act the Government hopes to raise the purchasing power of the farmer, which in turn will stimulate general business activity and be reflected in increased industrial employment, higher payrolls and heavier wage envelopes. By freeing the private creditors, namely the banks, of their farm loans, the Government hopes to create more private funds for industrial creditors and particularly construction.

Construction in Canada has lagged far behind other industries. The Government soon will bring in a public works bill calling for $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 public construction but this is not much above normal. Private construction has fallen down lamentably. There are no comprehensive data on this subject and the Government and nonpolitical economists must rely on the building permit for 61 cities. For the first four months of 1934, these permits represented proposed expenditures of $4,910,637 as against $4,661,323 for the corresponding period in 1933, a gain of only 5.3 per cent.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce has great hopes for improvement in the construction industry as a stimulant to all business. The percentage figures indicate there is a large field of development.

Tourists, Wheat, Silver and Gold.

Some Canadians see a silver lining for themselves in the recent destruction of a part of the American wheat crop. Many of the large areas of Canada are not seriously affected and in addition the Government has control of about 250,000,000 bushels carried over from previous years. There is talk of dollar wheat by Christmas but if it goes to 80 cents, the Western farmers will get higher prices for their own crops and the Government will be disposed to be generous with them out of the profit made on the carry-over.

What the American tourist trade will be this year is problematical. Last year it amounted to about $115,000,000, but repeal had not yet been effected in the United States. This trade has brought as high as $300,000,000 a year to Canada and it is an important item on the international trade balances. This year Canada will advertise its national parks and its sports playgrounds, but it would seem that the amount to be so spent will depend on continued recovery in the United States.

Rising prices would be a great boost to Canadian recovery and would permit higher wages. For instance in the calendar year 1930 there were produced 303,478,000 pounds of copper which had a market value of $37,948,000, whereas in 1933 the production was almost as great—299,936,000 pounds, but the cash value was only $21,631,000. The same is true of many other products. But gold production told a different story. In 1932 there were mined in Canada 3,044,000 fine ounces of gold. At the standard rate of $30.67 an ounce this production was worth $62,933,000. In 1933 there was produced 2,947,000 fine ounces, but at the devalued dollar rate it was worth $84,301,000. Canada ships gold as a commodity, not as money. Government officials say that the gold profit was a Godsend when Canada paid over $[illegible],000,000 on its external obligations, and thereby kept its external credit "sweet."

STATE OFFICERS FAVOR CONTINUING R. O. T. C.

Reserve Association Assails Critics of Compulsory Military Drills at Missouri U.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 19.—Resolutions condemning alleged treasonable and subversive teachings of "misguided churchmen and avowed Communists" and requesting the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri to continue to require compulsory military training for underclassmen were adopted today by the Missouri Reserve Officers' Association. About 328 State officers attended the two-day meeting, which closed today.

One resolution stated that young men when called on for military or naval duty were "being advised to deliberately and with malice commit widespread acts of sabotage with the view of making impossible victory for our arms."

No specific reference was made in the resolution to the second State anti-war conference being held at a church here, but an officer in a morning speech charged that speakers of the conference were "representatives of Communistic organizations."

While 14 planes from Kansas City, St. Louis and Leavenworth, Kan., zoomed and circled overhead in a demonstration of aerial maneuvers for the reserve officers' meeting, the peace delegates found it necessary to cup hands to ears to hear their leaders discuss proposals for abolition of war. The roar of the diving planes at times drowned out the speakers.

The recent vote of the Missouri faculty requesting the Board of Curators to make military training optional and give first and second-year students their choice of either physical or military training was criticised by Col. M. G. Randol, R. O. T. C. commandant at the university, in an address before the officers' meeting. He declared it a possibility the War Department might withdraw the entire R. O. T. C. unit here if the compulsory phase of military instruction were abandoned.

Refusal to bear arms for the United States in any war, abolition of compulsory R. O. T. C. courses and opposition to Fascism were agreed on in resolutions adopted at the closing session of the anti-war conference tonight.

The conference, sponsored by the Social Problems Club of the University of Missouri, included representation from Washington University, Missouri U., Central College, Missouri School of Mines, Eden Seminary of St. Louis, American League Against War and Fascism, League for Industrial Democracy, Socialist Party, Stephens College and National Student League.

Eugene Ringo, 20-year-old Missouri U. freshman, ousted because he refused to take part in R. O. T. C. drills, was a delegate. While his case was not mentioned specifically, the resolutions adopted include a sharp rebuke to university authorities for "disciplinary action" taken against conscientious objectors.

Russell John Michel, Owensville, Mo., graduate student, was elected permanent conference chairman.

Seminar discussions at the anti-war conference were held on the relation of war to the social order. They were led by the Rev. C. E. Lemmon, Columbia pastor; Orrick Johns, St. Louis poet; A. W. Berry, Kansas City Negro, representing the American League Against War and Fascism; and Jack Conroy, Moberly novelist. W. J. Lhamon, former dean of the Missouri Bible College, delivered the main address.

Capt. Richard R. Nacy, Jefferson City, State Treasurer, was elected president of the reserve officers' association, succeeding Maj. Paul R. Byrum, Kansas City. Among other officers chosen was Lieut. Leigh O. Wright, St. Louis, chaplain. The officers voted to hold their annual convention here again next year.

The St. Louis pistol team won first place in the pistol competition held for visiting officers. Lieut. G. E. Boefer, St. Louis, took the individual championship with a score of 297. Lieut. Otto Meyer, St. Louis, was second with 287.

SAYS DRUNKENNESS IS ON THE INCREASE

W. C. T. U. Declares Inebriation Cases Are Breaking Pre-Prohibition Records.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., May 19. — A survey of America since repeal of prohibition, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union announced tonight, has shown "startling increases in drunkenness." Today's issue of its organ, the "Union Signal" said it had gone to court records around the country for signs of the effect of repeal and had found in most places an increase in "unmistakable drunkenness," breaking even pre-prohibition records.

Tabulated figures showing increases as compared with early months of 1933 were given as follows: New York City, 55.5 per cent; St. Louis, 23.5; Los Angeles, 95.5; Minneapolis, 16.2; Boston, 21.4; Denver, 116.6; Portland, Ore., 116.8; Duluth, 69.4; Worcester, Mass., 54.0, and the town of Roswell, N. M., tallied 149 reported cases or intoxication during 1933 against 58 in 1932.

"The increase in drunkenness in Cincinnati," the W. C. T. U. said, "since the first of the year has caused the city officials grave concern, according to press reports. The records show that the city hospitals admitted 218 patients suffering from alcoholism during January and February of 1934 as compared with 120 such cases during the same period last year. All the organizations which led the repeal battle professed to be actuated by a great and overwhelming desire for 'true temperance,' but beer and repeal have not fostered that sweet virtue."

BRADFORD SHINKLE JR. WINS AT HORSE SHOW

First in Using Hunter Class, With Miss Jane Johnson, V. P. Queen, Second.

Closely contested events marked the spring St. Louis Horse Show last night at Missouri Stables Arena which ends today with a matinee program beginning at 2 o'clock.

Besides the customary jumping and gaited events the program included contests in horsemanship between teams from various schools, both high schools and colleges. Many of the winning horses have won honors at previous shows while most of the riders in the various contests are familiar figures in local show rings.

Fast competition was afforded in the Using Hunter class, limited to horses which have hunted at least six times with a recognized hunt during the last spring and fall seasons. Ridden by amateur owners, the horses went twice around a course of four natural color jumps, up to four feet in height.

Miss Jane Johnson Second.

Bradford Shinkle Jr., on Gangster, won over Miss Jane Johnson, Veiled Prophet Queen, on Step Aside with Donald Scott Sharpe on Thistle Sweep coming in third and Fred Z. Salomon Jr. taking fourth on Aristocrat.

The five-gaited stake, one of the principal events, was won by Peavine Dare, exhibited and ridden by Miss Norma Engle. Miss Margaret Holekamp took second place with Artistic Rose. Harry J. Burkart's familiar chestnut, McDonald Barrymore, was third with H. C. Barham up. Dan Kerckhoff rode Dudette McDonald for the fourth award.

Choice O'Neil a Winner.

Results of other events were:

Three and Five-Gaited Model: Choice O'Neil, exhibited by Mrs. A. J. Mueller, first in the three-gaited class with Empress Jones, from La Vista Farm; second. In the five-gaited class, Bourbon Dare, shown by D. C. Kerckhoff, was first; McDonald Barrymore, shown by Harry J. Burkhart, second.

Hunter Hack: Major, exhibited by Fleetmount Farms, ridden by Paul Bakewell Jr., first; Gibby's Chance, ridden and shown by Miss Gladys G. By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 19.—Establishment of a $500,000 benevolent trust was announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Cowles of Des Moines.

The fund is to be known as the Gardner Cowles Foundation and its purpose is to give financial assistance to worthy institutions needing help for charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowles gave the Foundation cash or dividend paying securities with a current market value of $500,000 to enable it to carry out its purpose. It is planned to distribute the entire principal, as well as the income, during the next 20 years.

Cowles, president of the Register-Tribune Co., said that under the terms of the trust the directors would have wide latitude in the distribution of the income and principal, but that Des Moines and Iowa institutions would be given preference.

TOKIO CABINET UPSET LIKELY

Vice-Minister of Finance Arrested on Corruption Charge.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 20.—(Sunday) — A leading Japanese newspaper, the Asahi, asserted today a Cabinet upset is inevitable in the near future over the financial scandal surrounding Kideo Kuroda, Vice-Minister of Finance.

ST. LOUIS RETAIL COAL CODE GOES INTO EFFECT

Minimum Sales Prices, Working Hours and Wage Increases Provided.

The retail coal code became fully effective in the St. Louis district today with publication of minimum sales prices based on a study of costs within the industry.

The study was made by Divisional Code Authority No. 32, Fullerton Building, which has jurisdiction over St. Louis, St. Charles, St. Louis County and St. Clair and Madison Counties, Ill. Charles P. Melton is administration member on the Code Authority.

In addition to authorizing the fixing of minimum sales prices in various localities, the retail coal code reduces working hours to 40 a week in summer and 48 a week in winter. In general, according to the code authority, it increases wages from about 25 per cent to more than 100 per cent in the lower wage brackets.

The retail code is a complement to the code for the coal mining industry, which became effective last October. The local code authority said the attraction of many unemployed persons to the retail coal business during the depression brought about long working hours with small return. In St. Louis, it was said, working hours had varied between 60 and 90 a week.

The schedules of minimum sales prices vary for Illinois coal from $4.60 a ton for standard screenings to $6.80 a ton for large grade A lump coal. Bituminous prices range from $4.85 to $10.30 a ton and anthracite prices from $11.50 to $13.75 a ton.

The prices are subject to a 5 per cent discount for cash and commercial tonnage discounts ranging from 50 cents to $1.25 a ton, according to quantity. Additional commercial discounts of 25 cents a ton are allowed on deliveries in May, June, July and August.

STEERS SHOW GAINS, LAMBS AND HOGS OFF

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., May 19 (United States Department of Agriculture).—After showing weak to lower tendencies early in the week, steer prices reacted upward and closing deals showed full recovery and in some instances advanced over the previous week's close. Mixed yearlings and heifers also registered upturns. Receipts of cattle totaled approximately 12,600 head, as compared with actuals of 13,909 the preceding week and 11,659 the corresponding week last year. Compared with the previous Friday, steers closed strong to 25c higher; mixed yearlings and heifers 25@50c higher, grassy kinds steady; cow stuff weak to a shade lower; bulls and vealers steady; stock steers 25c lower; other feeding cattle steady. Tops for the week: 1321-lb steers, $8.50; 1088-lb yearlings, $8.40; 1140-lb medium weights, $8.35; 840-lb heifers, $6.75; 740-lb mixed yearlings, $6.65; cows, $4.50; sausage bulls, $3.25; vealers, $5.75; stock steers, $5.60. Heavy steers were relatively scarce, weights from 1300 to 1502 lbs ranging from $7.50@8.50 and bulking at $7.50@8.50, most sales at the extreme figures. Medium weight steers of 1101 to 1227 lbs average spread from $4.65@8.35 and bulked at $5.85@8, while light weight and yearling steers sold mostly at $5.40@7 in a spread of $4.25@8.40. Bulk of all steers brought $5.50@8. Western steers, mostly Texas offerings, range from $3.50@5.85, and bulked at $4.65@5.35. Bulk of good and choice steers brought $6@8.25; good and choice mixed yearlings and heifers, $5.50@6.50; medium fleshed mixed yearlings and heifers, $4.75@5.25; cows, $3@3.75; low cutters, $1.50@2; stocker and feeder steers, $4.25@4.85. Closing top on sausage bulls was $3.25 and on vealers $5.75.

Bulk and top prices the corresponding week last year were as follows: Steers, $5@6, top, $6.85; good and choice mixed yearlings and heifers, $5.50@6, top $6.75; medium fleshed mixed yearlings and heifers, $4.75@5.15; beef cows, $3@3.75, top, $4.50; low cutters, $2@2.25; top sausage bulls, $3.50; top vealers, $5.75; bulk stocker and feeder steers, $4.50@5.50, top, $6.

Hog Prices Reduced.

General price levels were reduced in the local sheephouse, all classes and grades sharing the loss to varying extents. Slaughter ewes suffered the greater portion of the decline and finished $1@1.50 lower for the week, heavier weights off most. Spring lambs recovered part of early losses and wound up 50c lower, while clipped lambs finished 25c to mostly 50c off. Supplies this week totaled around 8500 head, compared with 11,677 last week and 12,419 similar week last year. Spring lambs scored a top for the week of $10.75, a low top of $10 and a closing top of $10.25. Bulk of lambs cashed at $9.75@10 for natives, the closing bulk being $10 to packers. Less desirable Texans sold from $9.50 downward to $7 for common descriptions, some "skippy" kinds as low as $5.50. Buck lambs were sorted off from all lots of natives at a discount of $1 from the price paid for ewe and wether lambs. Clipped lambs topped at $8.25, the bulk selling at $7.50@8 Slaughter ewes sold up to $3.75 as the week opened, but at the finish most clipped offerings went at $2@3, according to weight, some extreme heavies as low as $1.50. Clipped aged wethers were confined to two loads at $4@4.50.

Hog Change Small.

Somewhat uneven trends were recorded in porker trade during the week, although the net change was slight. Most hogs finished the week about 10@15c lower than the prices of last Saturday but light lights, stimulated somewhat by Government purchases, ruled 10@15c higher for the period. Pigs finished unevenly steady to 15c higher and packing sows about steady. Supplies for the week figured around 59,600, compared with 58,702 last week and 71,612 similar week last year. Most of the desirable 170 to 280 lb weights wound up at $3.40@3.50, a moderate number of choice medium weights topping at $3.55. Pigs and light lights sold a little easier on the closing session, most 150 to 160 lb light lights selling Saturday at $3.10@3.35; 130 to 140 lb weights at $2.65@3; and 100 to 120 lb pigs $2@2.40. Packing sows bulked at $2.60@2.70, within a range of $2.55@2.75.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., May 19.—Commission receipts at the horse market this week were of small volume, aggregating 300 horses and 100 mules. Mules responded with a firmer trend, but horses managed no better than a steady to weak trade. Soft spots appeared in work horses and chunks, due partly to the fact that there was not enough of the Eastern material on sale. Good mares and fillies figured about in line with the previous week. Southern mares weakened.

*NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Opera Force Hard at Work

Shubert Staff Has Task of Producing the Twelve Shows of the Summer Season in Forest Park Well In Hand and Everything Is All Set for the Opening of "Sweet Adeline," Two Weeks Away—Some Of the Men Who Are Handling the Big Job.

WITH the opening of the Municipal Opera season now only two weeks off St. Louis has again become the center of musical production of the country for 12 musical comedies or operettas are to be put on here during the summer with some 500 persons engaged in the work. Rehearsals are already well under way for the first bill, "Sweet Adeline," and scenery is being built and costumes made for the shows which are to follow.

Returning for his fourth season in the capacity of general productions manager, J. J. Shubert has surrounded himself with a group of aides, each of whom has had at least one year's experience with Municipal Opera productions, while for others this is the third, fourth or fifth season in St. Louis.

Not only have Shubert's technical assistants had experience in Forest Park productions but they have worked together in many instances for several seasons in staging some of the most important New York musical and dramatic successes; not only with the Shuberts, but with the late Florenz Ziegfeld. This technique will be obvious during the coming season in a greater freedom and fluidity of movement and action made possible by the enlargement of what was even before the world's largest open-air stage, which has been increased to almost double its size for the spectacle of the coming summer.

To solve another problem Watson Barratt, who for the past two seasons has designed Municipal Opera' settings, has devolved a scheme of indirect lighting, with its mechanisms hidden in the massively built settings he has designed for the coming summer.

SHUBERT'S aides this season are: E. R. Simmons, who had achieved for himself a distinguished position as a pianist before he joined the forces of the Shuberts to become their chief casting director, returns for his fourth summer in Forest Park.

Zeke Colvan, stage director again this season, began his career as a singer, and later entered upon musical production with such success that he was engaged by the Shuberts and for many years was responsible for the direction of their most important musical offerings. Later he joined the staff of Ziegfeld, and was stage director for the original productions of "Sally" and "Show Boat," which Municipal Opera is offering this year, "Bitter Sweet, "Whoopee," "Rosalie" and "The Three Musketeers" among many others.

As associate stage director, Edward J. Scanlon is back with Municipal Opera this summer for his fourth season. Scanlon entered the theater as a call boy, became a featured dancer, and joined the Shuberts as a stage manager and was sent to London to stage the English productions of both "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince."

OSCAR BRADLEY, back with Municipal Opera for his second season as musical director, is another who has had wide experience in the original productions of many of the greatest New York musical triumphs in the last 10 years. He was brought to America by the Shuberts and was musical director and conductor for the original "Student Prince" production. He was musical director of the original productions of "Sally" and "Show Boat," both of which Municipal Opera offers this season. Maury Rubens, assistant musical director, is spending his fourth season as a member of the Municipal Opera staff.

Palmere Brandeux, dance director, began life as an aspirant for fame as a painter, and became interested in the dance as a means of artistic expression. He was dance director for Municipal Opera in 1931, when his ballets were a feature of its productions. Ernest R. Schrapps, Municipal Opera's costume designer, studied art at the Art Students' League in New York for a career as a painter. He designed the costumes for many of the Shubert musical successes as well as those for Ethel Barrymore and a number of other important dramatic productions before he came to Municipal Opera last summer. Last winter he costumed the current Ziegfeld "Follies."

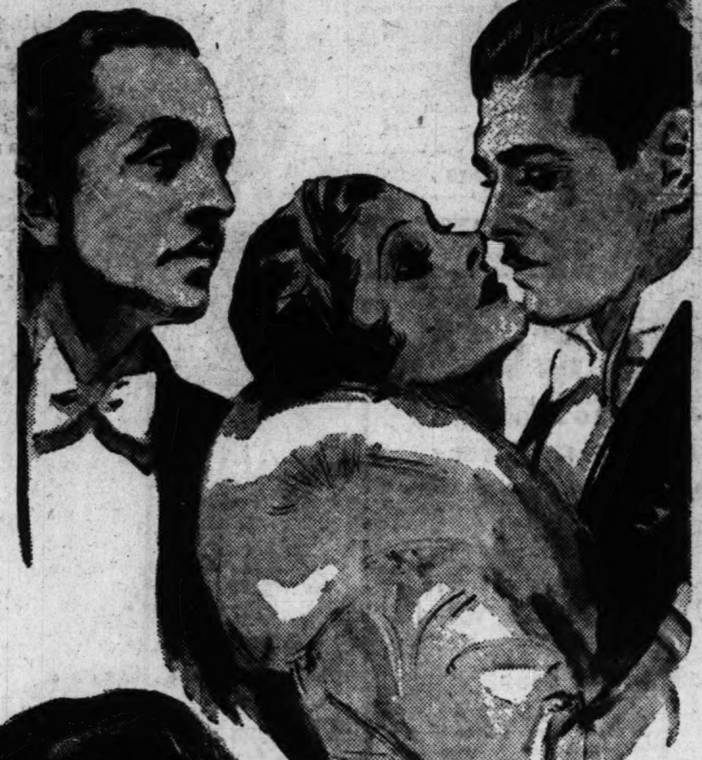
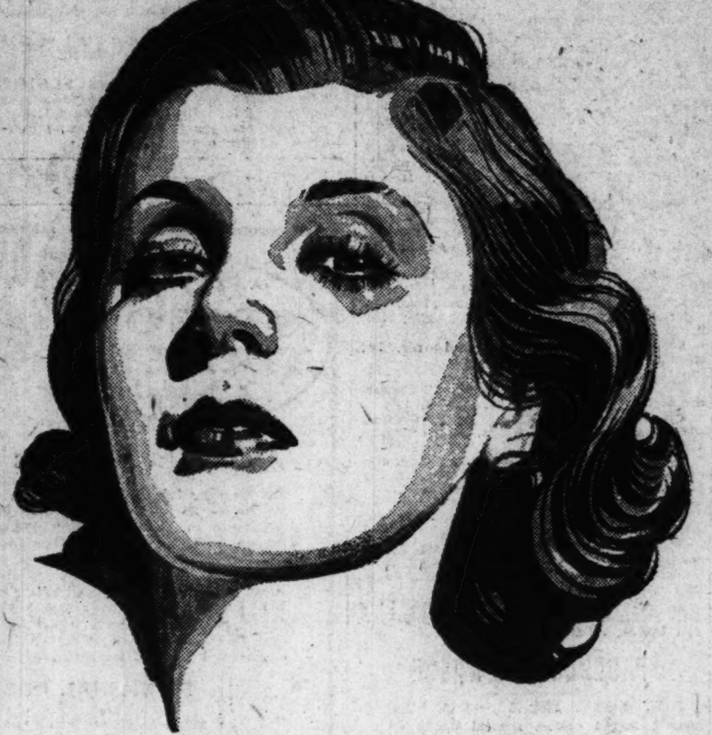
WATSON BARRATT, Municipal Opera's art director, returned to the park this summer for his third season in that capacity. Outstanding among artists now working in the theater in this country, Barratt created the original productions of "The Last Waltz," "Blossom Time," "The Student Prince" and many other successes together with those for most of the principal Shubert dramatic productions. His work in the Municipal Theater the past two seasons has been notable for its appreciation of the big effects possible in that outdoor setting, and for its interesting combinations of line, plain and color. In order to facilitate his plans for the productions of the 1934 season, the Municipal Theater Association has almost doubled the capacity of its stage, which was already the largest in the world.

The approach of the opera season has resulted in a flood of orders for season seat reservations from those who wish to avoid waits in line and possible disappointment and to assure themselves of the choicest of available seats for specific needs throughout the season.



William Powell, Myrna Loy and Clark Gable in "Manhattan Melodrama," at Loew's.



Jean Muir in "As the Earth Turns," Shubert.

Janet Gaynor In "Change Of Heart," Fox.

Evelyn Venable in "Double Door," at the Missouri Theater.

Doris Kenyon and Salvi in Recital

Doris Kenyon, long a screen star, whose "Recitals in Costume" have added to her fame in the last three years, and Alberto Salvi, harpist, will appear in a joint recital in Music Hall of the new Municipal Auditorium on Thursday evening as the last attraction of the Condon Concert Course this season.

Miss Kenyon, following long preparation in the arts of music, dramatic miming, dancing and costume research and design, made her debut as a concert star at the Avon Theater, New York City, three years ago, and her voice and her costumes brought her lavish praise. Salvi, in the minds of many lovers of the harp, is credited with revolutionizing that instrument.

Performance by Tot Wins Another Role

Because of her performance in "Little Miss Marker," with Adolphe Menjou and Dorothy Dell, Shirley Temple, 5-year-old film actress, has been signed by Paramount for a featured lead with Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard in "You Belong to Me."

Organ Recital Today.

G. Calvin Ringgenberg, Washington University organist, will give the last recital in his yearly series today in Graham Memorial Chapel at 3 p. m. He will be assisted by a group of spiritual singers from the Lincoln School, with Sara M. Conlon as director.

The public is invited to attend the recital.

Perkins in Another One.

Osgood Perkins, stage leading man who went out to Hollywood for one role, that of the Duc de Richelieu in "Madame Du Barry," and intended to return to New York upon its completion, has been signed for a principal role in "Kansas City Princess."

Mummers Cast in "The Bellamy Trial"

"The Bellamy Trial," a courtroom drama adapted from a novel by Frances Noyes Hart, will be presented by the Mummers, Downtown Y. M. C. A. dramatic organization, at the Wednesday Club, Taylor and Westminster avenues, Friday evening at 8:15. The play has a cast of 32 persons. The leading feminine role will be played by Miss Florence LeMasters. Other important roles are those of the prosecuting attorney, played by D. L. Hoyt, and the defense attorney, played by Sam Halley.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

By Nie

THIS is not a plea for happy endings and yet the makers of "Manhattan Melodrama" have stretched things so far in bringing about a cheerless finish that an otherwise absorbing, if always impossible film, is practically ruined for a greater part of the customers. And that is too bad for any picture which boasts a cast containing Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, William Powell, Leo Carrillo, George Sidney and Nat Pendleton is certain to attract plenty of fans, and sending them away disappointed won't help the game along at all. You see Gable and Powell are sorter foster brothers, having been rescued from the burning excursion steamer, General Slocum, and raised together by good old George Sidney, who lost his own son in the disaster. Powell grows up to be a fine, outstanding man, becomes District Attorney and Governor of the State of New York. Gable is successful, too, but along other lines. He is a big shot among the gamblers in the metropolis and among his other possessions is the lovely Miss Loy. He and Powell are such good friends, however, that when the latter ups and marries Myrna, Clark forgives and forgets out of hand. By that time good boy Bill is the D. A. and running for Al Smith's job. To help the campaign along, Clark shoots and kills a man who might have blocked the election. What does Bill do then? Well nothing but convict his foster brother of murder, get elected to sit in Albany and, when the time for the execution rolls around he makes only a last minute and very half hearted attempt at a pardon and lets Clark, smiling to the last, go to the chair. It just couldn't have worked out that way even if the rest of the picture could have been true, and with all of the sympathy being built up, painstakingly, for Gable, the audience simply won't believe their eyes when he is put on the hot spot.

Over From Graustark.

SYLVIA SIDNEY, who usually goes in for tearful roles, plays a carefree princess and a Cinderella girl in "Thirty Day Princess" at the Ambassador this week and makes the picture a delightful little romance. It seems that an American promoter, wishing to float a loan of $50,000,000 or so for the Kingdom of Taronia, brought Sylvia, the heir to the throne, over here to win the hearts of timid American investors. It would have been O K if the Princess Sylvia hadn't come down with the mumps the day she arrived and been forced into retirement. The American magnate had to have royalty to display so he dug up the second Sylvia, a little New York actress who was out of a job at the moment. For 30 days the deception is carried out in a very funny manner but the fake princess, unfortunately, meets and falls in love with our old Municipal Opera friend, Cary Grant, a wealthy New York newspaper publisher. After the situations are all ironed out, the loan to Taronia made and the real princess recovered from the mumps, Cary decides that he doesn't care whether the Sylvia he knows is genuine royalty or not and so, unlike "Manhattan Melodrama," the ending is perfectly satisfactory all around. It is a musical comedy plot, without music, but a most enjoyable one throughout.

Way Down East.

PROBABLY one of the best and most carefully made films of the year is "As the Earth Turns" at the Shubert, but while this cinema version of Gladys Hasty Carroll's popular book is a true picture of life on a New England farm, it is pretty dull entertainment. It is just the story of farm folks, the struggle to keep going through the changing seasons and nothing very much happens beyond the regular routine of that sort of life. It is well played, too, by Jean Muir, Donald Woods, Russell Hardie and a lot of others, but it is never good theater. Far better, from an entertainment standpoint, is the Shubert's other feature, "A Very Honorable Guy," in which the comical Joe E. Brown gets in and out of his usual difficulties.

Reunited—So What?

TIME was when Charlie Farrell and Janet Gaynor, in their sugar-coated romances, were among the cinema's best bets. Now, after a long separation, they are together again in "Change of Heart" at the Fox Theater, and doing exactly the same story, in the same manner, that they did in the past—true love which doesn't run smoothly, another girl who vamps Charlie and the usual clinch for the fadeout. We venture the opinion that the movie public has tired of the routine, although Ginger Rogers and James Dunn, who are in the picture, bring it to life every now and then. At the Fox also the second feature is much the best. Called "Springtime for Henry" and made from the successful stage play of that name, it is a bright and sophisticated comedy smartly played by Otto Kruger, Nancy Carroll and Heather Angel. It is meant, however, for a smarter audience than "Change of Heart" will attract to the Fox this week.

Meller but No Mystery.

WE never thought very much of the play, "Double Door," despite the fact that it has had a long and successful run in New York, and, as a picture, at the Missouri, this meller of what went on in an old New York mansion when the younger brother of a mean old spinster married against the wishes, doesn't ring very true. Mary Morris, who played the role of the domineering ruler of her ancient family, in the New York production—is still playing it, perhaps—has the same part in the picture and she locks her sister-in-law in a soundproof vault to die of hunger and other things, just as she did on the stage. Of course, the girl is rescued in the nick of time, and while the thing is meant to be bloodcurdling and diabolic, the movie fans, who have seen a lot of that sort of thing, are inclined to laugh at the crucial moments. "Half a Sinner," the Missouri's No. 2 offering, is brighter and better, telling a story of a wandering gambler who mixes religion with his card sharping.

Sten, Not Swanson, In "Barbary Coast"

Samuel Goldwyn has decided to put Anna Sten in the leading role of his forthcoming production of "Barbary Coast," which is to be based on Herbert Asbury's book of the same name. This is the role that Gloria Swanson had been announced to play.

"Barbary Coast" will be the second of two pictures which Miss Sten will make under the Goldwyn banner this year. The first, 'Resurrection," based on Tolstoy's novel, with Fredric March as co-star, will go into production on June 1. After that picture is finished work will immediately start on "Barbary Coast," under the direction of William Wellman. Miss Sten's leading man in that film will be Gary Cooper.

Film Notables Trek To Europe for Rest

Hollywood's hegira to Europe has started. George Burns and Gracie Allen, having completed "Many Happy Returns," are en route to European vacation spots for two months. Norman McLeod, who directed their latest, is Europe-bound to join Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arlen and his wife. Mary Boland leaves Hollywood in June for her fifteenth vacation abroad. She will first complete "Here Comes the Groom" and "Her Master's Voice."

Miles' Orchestra at Highlands.

Jack Miles and his broadcasting orchestra, featuring Marge Toll, blues singer, open a week's engagement at the Forest Park Highlands ballroom, this afternoon. Harry Lange's Commanders have arranged a "Comic Strip Revue," as this week's free entertainment offering. Members of the orchestra will be made up as Popeye, Wimpy, Lord Plushbottom, Moon Mullins and other characters. Peggy Heins will portray Min.

Walter Damrosch To Lead a Great Saengerfest Here

PROGRAMS for the five concerts of the thirty-eighth National Saengerfest to be held at the Arena May 31 and June 1 and 2 in three evening performances and two matinees, have been completed by Walter Damrosch, internationally known orchestra conductor, and provide a wide variety of music.

The personnel of the Saengerfest in St. Louis this year consists of a massed chorus of 4000 trained male voices which have been in constant rehearsal for more than a year under the conductors of the North American Saengerbund, a national musical institution founded 85 years ago to maintain in America the age-old European tradition of the culture of choral music of all forms, both religious and secular. These Saengerfests beginning in the East, in New York, Philadelphia and other seaboard cities, were held every two or three years and the festival scheduled for St. Louis at the end of this month is the thirty-eighth of the now famous series. The previous St. Louis event was celebrated in the spring of 1903 in the then just completed Palace of Industrial Arts in the World Fair grounds.

In order to give the St. Louis event the proper local co-operation and color, 2000 children from the St. Louis public and parochial schools will take part in the matinee concerts of Friday, June 1, and Saturday, June 2. An orchestra, consisting of 76 local musicians, among whom are many members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will be led by Dr. Damrosch.

The Saengerfest in St. Louis gains international significance from the first-time visit to the United States of the Prof. Felix-Schmidt Quartett, the so-called Double Quartett of the Berlin Teachers Singing Society, an organization that has functioned many years in the principal cities of Germany.

The Guild Follies Open to the Public

The seventh edition of the Artists' Guild Follies, a musical revue, will open its public performances tomorrow night, to continue through Friday at the Little Theater of St. Louis. The production is under the direction of Percy E. Ramsay, who has sponsored the Follies each year since their beginning.

Among the new units to be presented are: "Vilhelmina," a musical number composed by Mrs. L. Avon Blue, a member of the Artists' Guild, and adaptations from New York's cleverest revues. A satire on Hollywood by Roy James, former Guild member, heads the list of comedy sketches.

Performers from the Artists' Guild and the Little Theater include: Margaret Steele Werner, Mary I. Wickenhauser, Margaret and Percy Ramsay, Gordon Sommers, Elliot Bergfeld, Charity Grace and Eris Applewhite.

Barbara Stanwyck in Film of "Lost Lady"

Barbara Stanwyck's next starring picture will be a screen version of the novel by Willa Cather, "A Lost Lady." Production will start at the Burbank studios within the next two weeks. The screen adaptation has been completed by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola.

"Isle of Fury" to be "The Key."

"Isle of Fury," the new picture of revolutionary struggles in Ireland, with William Powell, Colin Clive, Edna Best and other well-known players, will be released under the title "The Key." This is the original title of the London stage success on which the film is based.

New Title for Film.

Five Hundred Little Cans

They Are Full of Negative Film and They Are the Net Result of a Year's Multitudinous Activities At One Big Hollywood Production Plant—When The Stars Relax and Go on the Loose They Take To the Roller-Coasters and Things Like That.

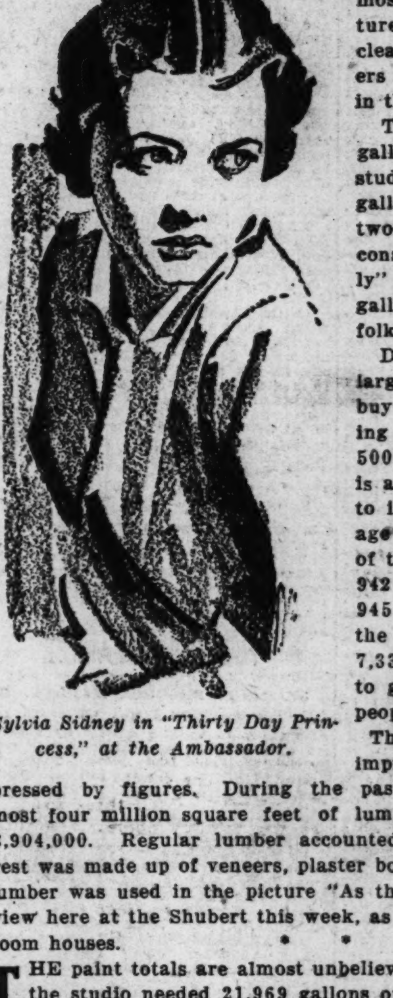
FIVE HUNDRED little tin cans full of negative film is all that a big studio has, at the end of a busy year, to show for all the time and money and energy expended in the making of sixty motion pictures. Five hundred little tin cans hold, in concentrated form, an investment involving the talents of more than fifty stars and featured players, millions of dollars and almost countless tons of raw material.

In counting the cost of motion pictures the public generally loses sight of all expenditures except the salaries of the players, directors and artisans involved in the process of making pictures. Few realize that for every foot of finished negative a substantial amount of raw material has been consumed.

Take one item—rags. During the past year the Warner Bros. studio bought 355 bales of rags, 17,750 pounds of them in all. Almost 300 pounds of rags per picture for the use of painters, the cleaners, the decorators and others who use the lowly commodity in their work.

The laboratories used 57,315 gallons of distilled water and the studio employes drank 75,085 gallons of bottled spring water, two items which are not often considered when figuring "roughly" the cost of pictures. 75,000 gallons is a lot of water for film folk to drink, but maybe they do.

During the past year at one large studio it was necessary to buy 15,007 electric lamps, varying in size from 7 1-2 watts to 5000 watts. The 5000 watt lamp is a big one, giving light enough to illuminate at least three average homes. One studio bought 621 of them during the past year and 942 lamps of 2000 watts each and 945 of the 1000 watt size. In all the studio bought lamps totaling 7,331,900 watts, enough lamps to give light to a city of 15,000 people.



Sylvia Sidney in "Thirty Day Princess," at the Ambassador.

The figures on lumber are equally impressive—if you can be impressed by figures. During the past year the studio bought almost four million square feet of lumber. The actual figure was 3,904,000. Regular lumber accounted for 2,750,800 feet and the rest was made up of veneers, plaster board and presswood. As much lumber was used in the picture "As the Earth Turns," which is on view here at the Shubert this week, as is needed to build five seven-room houses.

THE paint totals are almost unbelievable. To make sixty pictures the studio needed 21,969 gallons of paint and 22,633 gallons of thinner and solvent. More than sixty tons of paint were spread about on the floors and walls and over the exteriors and interiors of the sets built for sixty pictures—more than a ton per picture.

Eventually much of the lumber used in sets is reclaimed and used again. The figures given are for new lumber purchased only. But the paint, literally tons of it, is scraped off and burned, once the sets have been struck.

Wall paper plays an important part in picture-making. The Warner plant bought 31,058 rolls of wall paper last year. That is 630 miles of wall paper, enough to cover 1,117,908 square yards of wall space. The old-fashioned patterns cost the most. They generally involve an expensive search as well as the purchase price.

These are raw materials which are not commonly considered by the layman in figuring the cost of pictures. But they are substantial items, all of them.

When the year is over all that is left to show for them is five hundred-odd little tin cans full of negative, pictures of Barbara Stanwyck and Dick Barthelmess and James Cagney, and Joe E. Brown and others, etched in acid on film against a background of vast quantities of wood and paint and wall paper!

Just five hundred little tin cans.

GETTING all these things together—paint and rags and lumber and electric lamps—takes a lot of time which is welcomed by the high priced film stars for when the camera is away, or resting, the stars like to play and celebrities unrelaxed, are just ordinary human beings who enjoy themselves in ordinary ways. In and about Hollywood there are a dozen different playgrounds where the film famous disport themselves. Some of them like the mountains. Many prefer the desert. Others retreat to Malibu Beach to be near the ocean.

But nearly all of them like to "do the pike" at least once a year. If one were patient enough he could wait at the entrance of any one of the amusement piers in the Santa Monica Bay district near Hollywood, and eventually see almost everybody in the film colony.

The laughter and the shrieks of momentary terror which echo from the hurtling cars of the giant roller coasters there, may be those of Ruth Chatterton, the dignified one, who loves to ride the "dippers." She is a "pike" enthusiast.

From long practice with pretzels, William Powell is an adept hand at ringing canes and clocks and pen-knives, and when he and his friend, Richard Barthelmess and Ronald Colman, make their semi-annual tour of the beach concession district, he generally carries home an armful of swag.

Screen stars are always welcomed heartily by the barkers and the managers of the various concessions, not so much because they spend money freely as because their presence there is certain to bring an accompanying crowd and because it will serve as effective advertising in the barkers' ballyhoo for many weeks to come.

"Barbara Stanwyck won a pound of bacon here last night," he will shout. "That's how easy it is to knock the milk bottles off the little pedestal. Three balls for one dime!"

ARMED with a big bag of buttered popcorn, her favorite confection, Kay Francis leads an occasional gay party to the pike. She, too, is a roller coaster fan. If the hour is late and the place is not crowded, she may go through the "fun house" and come out as blown and battered and breathless as anybody.

The fortune-telling rooms along the beach fronts draw a substantial part of their business from the motion picture colony. Verree Teasdale is one who admits she cannot resist an opportunity to have a palmist or crystal-gazer foretell her future. She doesn't believe them, but she always goes back for more.

BUSINESS BUILDING ON MARYLAND AV. NEAR YORK SOLD

Recently Completed Two-Story Structure, Also Close to Kingshighway, Bought by S. A. Sperber.

A recently completed building on the South Side of Maryland avenue, between Kingshighway and York street, has been purchased by S. A. Sperber, proprietor of the Sperber Hair Dressing Shop.

The two-story building, occupying a lot 48x90 feet, was built and owned by Chase Ulman, recently elected a director of Armour & Co. of Illinois. The consideration was not mentioned. Shaw & Francis handled the transaction in conjunction with the Kemplan Realty Co., representing Ulman.

Stores comprise the first floor of the building. The entire second floor will be occupied as the West End branch of the Sperber Hair Dressing Shop.

Ulman Owns Ground Nearby.

Ulman owns the vacant ground adjoining on the west, with a frontage of 200 feet on Maryland, extending to the Park Plaza Hotel at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland, and also 150 feet of vacant ground adjoining and to the east of the building just sold, including the southwest corner of Maryland and York. It is understood Ulman is holding the Maryland and York corner in reserve as available for a pretentious business block. The Chase garage in the rear of the Maryland avenue property is also owned by Ulman.

Ulman built Hotel Chase, at the northeast corner of Lindell boulevard and Kingshighway, and the Chase and Chester apartments adjoining on Lindell, and formerly owned the entire block bounded by Kingshighway, Lindell, Maryland and York, which was the west half of the W. K. Bixby estate. The east half of the former Bixby estate is occupied by the Argyle Apartments, embracing the block extending from Lindell to Maryland and from York to Euclid avenue, owned by the F. A. Banister estate. The Chester Apartments are now owned by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America (Franciscus Maginn, Inc., agent), and the Chase apartment by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. (the Henry R. Weisel Co., agent). Ulman sold Hotel Chase in 1924 to a Chicago syndicate.

Shoe Company Renews Lease.

The Brown Shoe Co. has renewed its lease on the six-story supply and factory building at 2201 Washington avenue, recently damaged by fire. Standing at the northwest corner of Twenty-second street and Washington avenue, the building is one of the largest of its type in this part of the city. It comprises 140,000 square feet of floor space. It is owned by the Martin Shaughnessy estate, of which the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. is executor. Arthur S. Martin & Co. represented the Brown Shoe Co. The damage to the building from the fire has been repaired. The Brown Shoe Co. has occupied the building for 15 years.

Demand Continues for Sizable Tracts in County.

Negotiations continue for sizable tracts in St. Louis County available at prices involving speculative possibilities, according to real estate men.

Harry Greenman, manager of the Fox Theater, has practically concluded negotiations for the purchase of 30 acres situated half a mile west of the Ballas road, between the Olive street and Ladue roads and owned by Oscar Dane. It lies on the south side of a dirt road, extending from Ballas to Mason roads, and is regarded as forming an attractive site for a country home. Greenman has not disclosed his plans in connection with the pending purchase.

B. B. Culver, president of the Wrought Iron Range Co., recently acquired 30 acres on the north side of Ladue road, three-quarters of a mile west of the Ballas road. This transaction was handled by Albert T. Terry Son & Co. Culver has not disclosed his plans in connection with the purchase, but it is understood a handsome residence is in contemplation. This tract is opposite the Bert Lang tract of about 70 acres on the south side of Ladue road.

Mary Potter Love, Inc., has effected the sale of two acres in the St. Louis Country Club grounds on behalf of Mrs. Heman Pettengill to Richard McCulloch for his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Whipple Van Ess Jones. Beautifully wooded, the plot is just to the east of the Jones' residence. The price for the additional two acres was not disclosed, but is understood to be the highest an acre recently paid for property in the Country Club grounds.

Plans have been announced for a residential park to be known as Countryside. It will comprise 70 acres on the west side of Geyer road, three miles south of Clayton road, purchased several years ago by a syndicate headed by Willard B. Shelp, president of the W. B. Shelp Realty Co. The tract will be divided into sites of from three to five acres, for country homes. The Shelp company will market the new addition.

To Move House to New Site.

Donald Scott Sharpe has purchased three acres in the addition. He has purchased the former house of Jesse P. Henry on the Geyer road tract, recently acquired by Christopher H. Muckermann. Contracts have been let for its removal to the site acquired in the new addition. Two rooms and a rathskeller will be added to the house. The present house is noted for its interior decorations. Plans for the addition have been made by Maritz, Young & Dusard, architects.

HOME LOAN BOND CONVERSION RULING

Board Says Privilege of Exchange Is Not Available If Series Are Redeemed.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board issued the following statement to correct misunderstanding and confusion which resulted from its announcement relative to conversion of the outstanding 4 per cent bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

"The Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 as amended on April 27, 1934, authorizes the corporation to extend the right to holders of the corporation's 4 per cent bonds, which are guaranteed by the United States as to interest only, to convert the same during a period of six months, up to and including Oct. 27, 1934, for an equal face amount of the new Series "A" 3 per cent bonds, guaranteed as to both principal and interest.

"The wording of the recent amendment to the act in this regard is permissive rather than mandatory. Under the terms of the original act as passed a year ago, the board has authority to call the 4 per cent bonds on giving 30 days notice previous to any interest date. The next interest date is July 1, 1934. It has therefore been necessary for the board to pass a resolution covering the holders' rights to conversion. The resolution takes into account the fact that the privilege of such exchange would automatically cease prior to Oct. 27 in case the 4 per cent bonds are called for redemption as of July 1.

"Should the bonds be called for redemption as of that date, public notices of such redemption must be made not later than May 31, 1934.

"The board has so far made no decision as to whether the outstanding 4 per cent bonds will be called for payment on July 1. It takes this opportunity to advise holders of such bonds that the conversion privilege is not necessarily available for the entire six months cited in the act. It may terminate as of June 30, 1934.

"If, before May 31 the board does not give public notice calling the bonds for payment on July 1, then the holders of such bonds will have theright of conversion for the new 3 per cent bonds, guaranteed as to both prinicpal and interest ,until Oct. 27, 1934."

Home Loan Corporation Tells Who Can Get Modernization Advances

Applicant Must Be in Financial Distress to Obtain Such Aid, Federal Agency Says in Circular.

Many requests for repair and remodeling loans have come to the offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation from persons who have misunderstood the purpose of the recent amendment to the Home Owners' Loan Act. While the corporation is empowered to allot up to $200,000,000 of its total refinancing appropriation for repairs and modernization of homes, this money can be lent only to home owners who are in actual financial distress.

To correct this misapprehension a circular has been printed for distribution to applicants in all offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation throughout the country. The circular says:

"There seems to be a rather general impression that the recent amendment passed by Congress empowers the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to lend money to all home owners who desire to recondition their property. This is incorrect. The corporation is authorized to lend money for reconditioning only to home owners in financial distress, and in most cases only in connection with its refinancing operations. The corporation may make loans to the following groups of home owners:

"1. Those who have already obtained loans from the corporation.

"2. Those who are eligible to have their mortgages taken over by the corporation.

(To be eligible, a home owner must be financially unable to make payments on his present mortgage, unable to obtain financing elsewhere, and actually faced with foreclosure or tax sale; the property must be a dwelling for not more than four families, worth not more than $20,000, and must be the owner's home or homestead.)

"3. Those who own their homes clear of any mortgage; but only if they cannot get loans from any private lending agency.

"Thus the corporation is authorized to make loans for reconditioning only to those home owners who are in some form of credit distress. Furthermore, practically all loans for reconditioning will be in addition to loans for refinancing mortgages.

"Applications for loans for reconditioning or refinancing from those who are not eligible cannot be considered. Home owners who are not in credit distress are urged, therefore, not to apply."

APARTMENT VACANCY CUT 40 PCT. IN YEAR

Figures Up to Feb. 1 in Survey by Building Owners and Managers.

The Building Owners' and Managers' Association announces a decrease in apartment house vacancies of 40 per cent for the year ending Feb. 1. C. Earl Giraldin, a member of the board of directors of the association and chairman of the survey committee, said the decrease occurred during the last six months of the year.

Although the association makes only one complete survey a year, comparative figures taken at random by several individual members indicated an increase in vacancies this year. This would indicate that the entire absorption took place during the fall and winter months. The figures show a number of smaller buildings 100 per cent occupied. The decrease affected every type of apartment.

INSTALL GAS HEAT
. . . the modern heat for modern homes

Gas Heat is what people want. Present home owners are changing to it every day. When you build you have the advantage of putting it in at the very beginning. Our Heating Department can give you information about home heating and important factors of construction which have a direct bearing upon the effective heating of homes. This information will be of great value to you and may be the means of saving a considerable sum. It will be given entirely without cost or the slightest obligation. You have only to ask for it.

Gas Heat is a mark of distinction. It indicates that the home owner has placed proper valuation upon those appointments which give the maximum of comfort, convenience and economy for the investment made. It is the first step in air conditioning.

IN MEMORIAM

BUSCH, MARGARET ELIZABETH — In loving memory of our dear darling mother, who departed this life May 20, 1928.
The month of May again is here,
To us the saddest of the year,
Because it took from us away,
Our dear mother, just six years ago today.
May 21, anniversary mass, 7:45 a. m. at the Assumption Church. Sadly missed by her children and grandchildren.

PETER, JOHN H. JR.—In memory of our dear son, who departed two years ago, May 20, 1932.
A sudden shock seldom heals,
It's time that tells what life conceals,
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
A loving boy, so kind and true,
Our dearest memory is the thought of you.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHER.

CLAAS, LUCILLE—In loving memory of Lucille Claas, who died May 18, 1932. Sadly missed by husband and son and all who loved her.

DOUGHERTY, FRANK R.—In loving remembrance of my dear husband, who departed this life May 18, 1933.
BLANCHE S. DOUGHERTY.

WILCOX, MARY E.—In memory of our darling mother, who passed away 29 years ago, May 19, 1905.
Loving DAUGHTERS,
ELLA W. WEBSTER,
FRANCES W. SAUNDERS.

ZIEGENBALG, MARGARET M.—In loving memory of our darling daughter, who passed away May 22, 1932.
A loving one from us has gone;
The voice we love is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER.
and all who loved her.

Chase Me Is Destroyed and Equipoise Disqualified

MR. KHAYYAM FOULED NEAR THE FINISH AT BELMONT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—For the second time in five years of racing, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, mightiest of America's thoroughbreds, lost a race by disqualification today when he was charged with driving Mrs. James M. Austin's Mr. Khayyam into the rail in the forty-first running of the Metropolitan Mile at Belmont Park.

Equipoise, seeking his third straight triumph in the classic turf fixture, stepped home three lengths in front of Mr. Khayyam, but his courageous effort went for nought as the decision of the judges went to Mrs. Austin's colt after the latter's jockey, Bobby Jones, had lodged a claim of foul.

With the downfall of Equipoise went the last race for Mrs. Elizabeth Bosley's Chase Me, unbeaten in seven straight races since making his debut as a four-year-old last fall and heralded as Equipoise's most formidable rival. It was the first time the pair had matched strides.

A Steeplechase Rider.

Ridden by a steeplechase jockey, Frankie Slate, Chase Me broke his left front leg while running in full stride at the stretch turn. After being helped off the track he was destroyed, ending the career of one of the turf's most sensational runners. Less than a year ago he was winning blue ribbons in the show ring and was trained under the personal direction of his owner. Slate was uninjured.

Equipoise lost his other race by disqualification as a two-year-old when he finished five lengths in front of Vanderpool, then unbeaten, in the 1930 running of the Youthful Stakes at Jamaica.

"I tried to keep Equipoise from bearing over," said the jockey, Raymond (Sonny) Workman, with tears in his eyes after the race. "He was driving forward with tremendous speed, however, and I just could not hold him."

The foul occurred one-sixteenth of a mile from the finish line in front of the crowd of 25,000, the largest in many years. Equipoise, leading by a short neck was fighting off the determined Mr. Khayyam, which refused to stop before the thundering charge of the great Whitney horse.

Typical Equipoise Finish.

Workman had brought Equipoise from far back rounding the turn leading into the stretch and Ekky was driving forward in one of his well known finishes. He reached Mr. Khayyam, stuck his nose in front and then bore over. The impact threw Mr. Khayyam, winner of the American Derby, off his stride, and Ekky went on to score by three lengths.

Jones immediately lodged a claim of foul and for nearly 15 minutes the stewards deliberated. Finally they ordered the numbers down and the crowd, the majority of whom had wagered on Ekky at 7 to .0, acted as if stunned. Workman was suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

Mr. Khayyam, coupled with Good Advice at 12 to 1 in the betting, was up from the leaders from the start. Equipoise, together with Chase Me, trailed near the rear, but always within the striking distance.

With Good Advice setting the pace, Jones held Mr. Khayyam into third and then second place until they reached the final bend. Then he took command, but from far back Equipoise made his move and like a whirlwind began to leave the others behind one by one.

a—Catawba Farm entry. No scratches.

Equipoise handled his weight well, was allowed to trail far back for the first half mile, began to move up around the turn, was taken very wide entering stretch but swerved over to the inner rail where it appeared as if he shut off Mr. Khayyam, then drew away and won easily. He was disqualified for foul. Mr. Khayyam got away fast, was kept close to the pace, ran into lead entering stretch and was going nicely when he was bothered. Sun Archer badly outrun in early part finished with a rush and was fast going third. Ladysman was kept out in the middle of the track and ran good race. Faireno well up from the start had no mishap. War Glory had plenty of early speed. Chase Me was running easy when he fell just before entering stretch.

WHO'S THE WINNER? Finish of the Junior 100-Yard Dash in District Meet

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer

Six Records Broken As University City Wins District Meet

University City's powerful track and field team completed its clean sweep of state high school track events by taking both divisions of the sevnth annual St. Louis District championships. Six records were broken and two equaled in the carnival held yesterday afternoon at the Maplewood High School field, under excellent weather and track conditions.

The feature of the meet was the victory of James Knight of University City over Robert Ehrhardt of Clayton in the 120-yard high hurdles. Knight started fast, while Ehrhardt was the last to get away. Knight had about a two-yard lead on the first hurdle, and kept that margin to the finish, Ehrhardt failing to cut down his lead, although finishing second.

Ehrhardt came back in the low hurdles to win in 24.7 seconds, his victory allowing his mark of 24.6 seconds made in the preliminaries of Wednesday to be the new standard for that event.

University City, which has led all St. Louis district high schools for many years, had one of its most successful seasons this year. It started by winning the State indoor meet at Columbia, competing in class "A." It followed that with a victory in the Maplewood relays, facing one of the strongest scholastic fields in the Middle West.

Following the relays, it won several dual meets, and a quadrangular meet. Then came the State class "A" outdoor meet, which the Indians had no trouble winning. The county meet was next, the Indians taking both divisions. And now the last meet for which the athletes of Coach Henry Schemmer are eligible, the district, has been added to the Indians' string of titles.

University City had a much closer call than expected in the senior division, its margin of victory being only four and one-quarter points, Maplewood finishing second with 24¾. The failure of the Indians' relay team to place was one of the reasons Maplewood came so close.

TABLE OF POINTS

| SCHOOL. | Senior. | Junior. |
|---|---|---|
| University City ........ | 28½ | 45 |
| Maplewood ............ | 24¾ | 5 1-3 |
| McBride ............... | 15 | 5 |
| Clayton ............... | 12¾ | 20 |
| Christian B. C. ........ | 11¾ | 3 1-3 |
| St. Louis U. H. S. ...... | 11 | 9 |
| Webster Groves ........ | 9½ | 12 5-6 |

| Wellston ............... | 3 | 5 |
| Beaumont .............. | 2½ | 8 |
| Normandy .............. | 1 | 0 |
| Cleveland .............. | 0 | 8½ |
| Fairview ............... | 0 | 2 |

The leadoff man for the relay team, Bill Campbell, pulled a muscle in his leg as he came out from his mark. He gamely finished his 220-yards, but lost over 20 yards which his teammates were unable to make up.

The Indians won only two events, in the senior division, the high hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

The preparatory league schools provided unexpected opposition in the meet, taking many points. The prep schools strength lay in individual performances, no school possessing the all-around balance necessary to win a big meet. The three prep league entries, however, placed among the first six schools in the senior division.

University City had a much larger margin of victory in the junior division, more than doubling the score of Clayton which showed surprising strength, tallying 20 points in that division. The Indians had 45 markers.

Johnny Moore of Wellston came through with a fine heave of 141 feet in the junior discus throw, setting a new record and beating Doug Pollock of University City by a foot and a half.

Ernest Ohle, University City, set another good junior javelin record when he hurled the spear 177 feet 9 inches. The old distance was 176 feet 11½ inches by Desalme, Webster, 1930. Ohle hurled the javelin 185 feet 1 inch in the county meet last week.

Ehrhardt Tops Scorers.

Individual scoring honors went to Robert Ehrhardt of Clayton, who won the 220-yard low hurdles, took second in the 120-yard high hurdles and tied for first in the pole vault for 10¾ points.

Three juniors tied for second

BAER KNOCKS OUT ACE CLARK, NEGRO SPARRING PARTNER

By the Associated Press.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 20. It took Ace Clark, 275-pound Philadelphia Negro, just one minute today to decide he wanted no more of Max Baer.

Clark reported as a sparring partner to help work Baer into shape for the latter's heavyweight title fight with Champion Primo Carnera, June 16, but the first time Baer caught up with him he went down and out from a right hand smash to the chin. Half an hour later he was on his way home.

It may have been the presence of Jack Dempsey which inspired Baer.

"He looks good," Dempsey said after watching the Californian roughly handle Clark and three other sparring mates in a series of short matches. "He's in much better condition than I expected and seems to be hitting with more power than ever."

U. S. POLOISTS LOSE FOURTH MATCH ABROAD

NORTON, Eng., May 19.— The invading United States polo team, although playing the best game since its arrival, today lost its fourth straight match to the Beaufort Fort, 10 to 9.

The Americans outplayed Beaufort 9 to 4 on the flat but could not overcome the 6 goals given the Englishmen by handicap.

Stein Leads Buffalo Bowler by 326 Pins With 10 Games to Go

By Clem Glaub.

Otto Stein Jr., St. Louis tenpin shooter, now has a lead of 326 pins over Joe Miller, Buffalo ace, for the world's individual match game championship and is virtually assured the title. Stein went into last night's block at the Coliseum with a lead of 243 pins and at the end of the ten games held a 326-pin margin.

Stein cracked the pins for a 2050 total and an average of 205 while Miller was collecting only 1967 for a mark of 196. The totals for 70 games are: Stein 15,150, Miller 13,824.

Miller had trouble in finding the alleys during the first three games and was 363 pins in arrears at the beginning of the fourth game. Stein in the meantime was connecting for counts of 237, 217 and 205. Miller found his bearings in the fourth contest, scoring 205 while Stein was getting 202. Stein got four pins back with 228 to Miller's 224 in the fifth and then went on to crack 235 to 170 in the sixth for a lead of 429, the largest margin he has had during the series.

Miller started to hit the pins in the seventh game while Stein was falling below his normal stride. Miller came out with 198 while Stein shot 177 and then scored 189 to 153 for Stein. Miller also had the edge in the final two games, scoring 206 and 236 to Stein's 193 and 203.

Miller had four errors, 11 splits, of which he picked four while Stein had five errors and eight splits, chopping down one.

The scores:

Miller 189 153 197 205 224 170 198 189 206 236—1967.

Stein Jr. 237 217 205 202 228 235 177 153 193 203—2050.

Prior to the final block of the match game series, two teams of women bowlers will give an exhibition. One team will be composed of several members of the Vescovo Recreation team while the other team will represent the South Side. The teams will line up as follows: Vescovos—Ann La Breque, Lo Hull, Estelle Meier, Leola Tretter and Myrtle Schulte; South Side—Hester Holtz, Flo Probert, Elenore Olliges, Lee Chase and Ethel Scheer.

The preliminary will go on at 7:45 o'clock tonight with the Stein-Miller final at 8:30 o'clock.

BONTHRON WINS TWO RACES BUT TEAM LOSES TO CORNELL

PRINCETON, N. J., May 19.— For the third time in as many weeks, the individual brilliance of big Bill Bonthron failed to save Princeton's track and field forces from duel meet defeat today.

Big Bill set up meet records in both the 800 and 1500 meter runs but the Tigers won only three other first places and dropped a 75-60 decision to Cornell's well balanced array.

SOUTHPAW SHOWS OLD-TIME FORM IN FIRST 1934 START, ALLOWING ONLY SIX HITS

By James M. Gould.

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove used to be a "White Elephant" under Mahout Connie Mack and like all pachyderms, white or grey he has a long memory. Yesterday afternoon, the veteran southpaw, making his first start as a Boston pitcher, and supposed to be "on the skids" and out much of the spring and early season with a sore arm, found himself opposed to Dick Coffman.

It was Coffman who, three years ago, stopped Grove's record run after the great southpaw had won 16 games in a row. For a while yesterday in the final between the Browns and the Red Sox, it looked as though Coffman would spoil Lefty's Boston premier.

Grove Hits Homer With Two On.

A St. Louis run in the second had given the Browns a 1—0 lead and the Sox had struggled through six innings without a tally. Then, Grove's memory returned. And, returning, in the seventh, gave him a strange power—power enough to bounce a home run off the roof of the right-field pavilion with two mates on the bases and to add three runs to the run the Sox had scored earlier in the inning.

It was the blow that "killed" Coffman and the Browns for the Red Sox went on to win 4 to 1.

Grove's homer won him the game, he allowing only six hits, but one watching him yesterday could not believe that he was the "fireball" pitcher of old. His work was labored and it was perhaps over-anxiousness on the part of the Browns that helped his effectiveness. He may win more games for the Red Sox this year, but the "old Grove passeth." It may be years before the fans again will see his like.

Coffman in Fine Form.

Coffman pitched remarkably well until the blow-off in the seventh. Up to that time, he had allowed only two hits and the Sox never had even threatened. Knott, relieving, worked two hitless innings.

There was no scoring and no hitting, even, for the first two innings. Then, the Browns broke away to a run in the third. Leading off, Strange hit a fly to short right, just out of the reach of Morgan, going out and Cooke, coming in. It was good for a double. Coffman sacrificed and Clift walked. West swung and missed a third strike for the second time after which Burns hit so hot to Morgan that the first-sacker couldn't handle it and Strange rode home.

Two of the Sox got on in the fourth but Coffman slipped over a third and called strike on Lyn Lary to end the threat.

There was a stroke of bad luck in the big, bad, Boston seventh, Reynolds opened peaceably enough when he popped to Melillo. Cooke smashed one at Melillo and Oscar's throw to Burns was low. It might have been called a hit, it was that close but, whether it was or not, it ended Coffman's efficiency as though a blight had fallen on Dick's pitching arm.

Browns' Second Defeat in 8 Games

Lary, hitless all through the series, singled and so did young Hinkle, once a Cardinal catcher. Hinkle's hit scored Cooke with the tying run and then up strode Grove and hit Coffman's first pitch on top of the pavilion. In his two previous times, at bat, Groves had lined out so his homer was not exactly a stunning surprise. It might be, though, that Coffman was somewhat annoyed for with that wallop disappeared Coffman's chance for victory.

In the last two innings, Jack Knott showed some pretty and hitless relief work, but Grove was having his day and brief flurries by the Browns in the seventh and eighth were promptly squelched by the Boston defense.

It was Boston's first victory in the series and was the second defeat for Hornsby's team in eight games.

Brownie Notes

FOR the opening game with the Athletics today, Manager Hornsby will use George Blaeholder as his starting pitcher. Blaeholder has not pitched since May 12. Mahaffey is the probable Philadelphia selection. The game will start at 2:30 p. m.

Young Bill Hornsby, son of the Browns' manager, appeared as one of the bat-boys yesterday. His uniform, a replica of that worn by the big leaguers, has a

Still Carries a Punch.

JACK DEMPSEY is out of the fight game but he is still knocking 'em dead—with frank words.

Asked what chance his protege, Max Baer, had of beating Primo Carnera for the title, Jack scored a surprise punch. "I'd have to bet on Carnera if I were betting now," he said. Absence from the ring, chorines and cigarettes explain Jack's pessimism about Max. He points out that pleasure and fighting don't go hand in hand.

It is popularly believed that Dempsey has a financial interest in the future of Baer. If true, this makes his frankness even more astonishing.

Cards on the Table.

NOT long ago Jack was asked about the wrestling game, from which he has received many thousands of dollars in recent years, for appearing as referee and sometimes for taking or giving a "showmanship" punch or two. Naturally you'd expect him to cover up when questioned.

In Detroit, a reporter asked him what he thought about wrestling.

"It's all right when its treated like it is here in Detroit, just as exhibition stuff."

That's plain talk. The only bad feature is that in many places fans don't understand the exhibition viewpoint and take Dempsey's connection with wrestling events as a guarantee of their integrity as real contests.

In the Ancient Days.

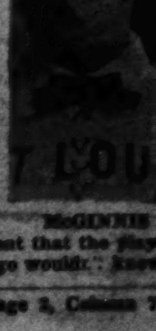
GEORGE McGINNIS, one of the aces of the old-time Browns, whose death was in the news last week, saw few changes in the game of baseball from the time he was in his prime, the early '80s, until he died at the age of 71.



McGINNIS

What alterations there were were not fundamental, and the pastime today is basically as it was 50 years ago. Even the tactics of the ancient days remain, improved but unchanged.

It is in distinct contrast with football, which has suffered major operations on its rules, to the extent that the players of 50 years ago wouldn't know

M'KINLEY BEATS CLEVELAND, 4-1, TO TIE CENTRAL FOR TITLE

PLAYOFF JUNE 2; ROOSEVELT AND SOLDAN VICTORS IN LAST GAMES

By Harold Tuthill

The City High School League baseball season will be prolonged beyond its usual scheduled time, all because McKinley tied up the battle for first plase by defeating Cleveland, 4 to 1, in the last game of the tripleheader yesterday afternoon at Public Schools Stadium.

The Goldbugs now own a record of five victories and one defeat, the same as that boasted by Central, and the play-off will be June 2 at Sportsman's Park.

In the other closing games of the regular season, Roosevelt shut out Beaumont, 9 to 0, and Soldan smothered Blewett, 17 to 9.

McKinley was on the spot when it took the field against Cleveland, because the Goldbugs had to win in order to tie Central. And behind the great pitching of Pete Chulick, veteran southpaw, the Goldbugs did win and therein lies the story.

While Chulick hurled a good game, he did not surpass by much the work of Ed Stelmach, Cleveland righthander. McKinley pecked away at Stelmach's slants to count once in the first and fourth innings and twice in the sixth.

Pete Likes Hot Days.

As has been related before, Pete likes hot days and yesterday was a scorcher, so Chulick was effective most of the way, holding Cleveland to nine singles, six of which were made in the last two innings. He was not scored upon until the final frame when Jack Angle belted a drive to left field and, when a lad reached under from outside the fence, snatched the ball and scurried home with it, the blow was good for four bases.

Not only did Chulick pitch well, but his mates threw up a sparkling defense, committing no errors and turning in two double plays, both from George Hasser to Johnny Krifka to Rich 'Connell, to help Pete keep his balance.

In the first, Hasser opened with a double to left center. Hughes hit to Angle, who tried to trap Hasser off second, but George beat the throw to the bag. Stelmach threw out Krifka, both runners advancing. Pursley flied to Tongay, Hasser scoring after the catch.

In the fourth, O'Connell singled to center, and was sacrificed to second by Elliott, from where he counted on Colombo's single to right. Two more crossed the plate in the sixth when O'Connell, first up, was safe on Angle's high throw. Elliott popped to Tongay, but Colombo doubled to left, scoring O'Connell. After De Filio walked and Chulick was called out on strikes, Hasser singled off Angle's glove to score Colombo.

However fine Chulick's pitching performance was, it was excelled in the morning by George Hausmann, who limited Beaumont to two hits—a single by Burt Cross and a double by Charley Gould—in the fifth inning. Only 23 batters faced Hausmann in the even rounds, so perfect was his control.

Aided by Hausmann's home run in the third with Charley Schafer on and by Bob Stanton's four-base smash with the bags loaded in the sixth, Roosevelt virtually coasted to victory. Stanton's blow came when he had a count of three-and-two on him.

Begging pardon for being trite, it was a case of from the sublime to the ridiculous when Soldan and Blewett engaged in a one-old-cat encounter. Not being content with six runs in the first and three in the second, Soldan kept hammering away until it had a total of 20 hits and 17 runs. Chief in the slaughter were Linus Graham and Dan Andrews, who collected four safeties.

Indiana's Double Winners

Harvard Scores 8 Firsts, Beats Yale Track Men

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 19.—Yale's unexpected reverses in the running events today enabled Harvard's well-balanced track and field forces to capture the forty-first annual dual meet today, 78—57, and follow the precedent, set in 1927 by the Elis, that the home team always wins.

The meet was expected to be the closet ever waged by these ancient rivals, but the Crimson, with every potential point scorer coming through, as well as several who were ignored by the dope sheets, piled up the impressive totals of eight firsts, 10 seconds and eight thirds in the 15 competitions.

Three meet records were broken, Johnny Dean, last year's Harvard football captain, smashing two of them with his winning performances in the shot and discus events. Howie Huntington set a new javeline mark as the Crimson spear tossers made an unexpected clean sweep. Bob Playfair, Harvard's promising distance runner, will go down in the books as the 3200-meter record holder, but only because that event was never included on any other H-Y program.

Sharing the individual honors with Dean were Karl Warner, Yale captain, who won the 200 and 400 meter races; Keith Brown, the great Blue pole vaulter, who not only won his favorite competition but tied his teammate, Wes Burlingame, for first place in the high jump and Johnny Healey, Harvard's versatile field performer, who placed second in the discus, hammer and shotput.

Tilden and Cochet Win First Round Tennis Matches

NEW YORK, May 19. — Henri Cochet of France and William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, who form two-thirds of the tournament's "big three," had no trouble winning first round matches in the Eastern professional tennis championships today.

As a result, both will play in the second round tomorrow when Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, third member of the triumvirate, makes his debut against Perrine Rockafellow, former amateur.

Six matches were played today and none presented much interest for the crowd of 800 in the stands and another hundred who looked down from apartments.

Cochet was given a harder battle by Cole Bradley of New Rochelle than was Tilden, who easily vanquished Alan Behr of Bayside, 6—0, 6—2. Bradley went down before Cochet, 6—1, 6—4, but put up a creditable battle.

In other matches, Martin Plaa of France defeated Basil McGuire of Greenwich, Conn., 6—2, 6—1; Charles Wood, Bernardsville, N. J., won from Abraham Bassford, New York, 6—2, 6—2; John Cardegna, Ardsley, N. Y., defeated Rudy Noble, Forest Hills, 7—5, 6—4, and Arthur Rudolph, New York, defeated Mel Kann, New York, 6—2, 6—1.

Illinois Wins Big Ten Track Championship; Three Records Broken

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., May 19.—Packing a terrific punch in the dashes and shot put, Illinois came back today after five years to recapture the Western Conference track and field championship. In a rousing battle with Indiana's gallant Hoosiers, the Illini gathered 45 points, 29 of them in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the shot put.

Indiana, with sparkling performances by Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, its great middle distance pair, won second ranking with 40 3-5 points, and Michigan, the defending champion, just managed to nudge out Northwestern for third with 28 3-5. Northwestern had 27 1-10.

Ward Pulls Muscle.

Michigan's bid for a third consecutive title collapsed in a heap when Willis Ward, the backbone of its hopes, pulled a muscle in his left leg in the 100-yard dash. The tall Negro star managed to stagger into fifth place, and made a courageous effort to carry out his assignments in the high hurdles and high jump. He failed to clear the first hurdle in the obstacle event, and finished in a tie for fourth and fifth in the high jump. His mark of 23 feet, 2¼ inches in the broad jump, accomplished in the trials yesterday, stood up for his only victory of the meet.

Illinois, in its first season under Coach Don Seaton, who took over the squad during a year's leave of absence by Harry Gill, became a contender by dominating the qualifying trials yesterday.

The three Illini sprinters, Hunter Russell, Hudson Hellmich and Vernon Eckert, picked up where they left off yesterday. Russell and Hellmich ran one-two in the Century, with Eckert fourth. They couldn't beat Fuqua in the 220-yard struggle, but landed the next three places, Eckert finishing second with Russell and Hellmich at his shoulders.

Kamm Breaks Record.

Big A. C. (Chinn) Kamm and Dave Cook, co-captains of the Illini squad, pitched themselves into first and second places in the shot put for nine more points. Jack Dufresne gave Illinois a fourth in the two-mile run, and Kamm came back for a fifth in the discus. Irving Seeley finished second to Steve Divich of Indiana, in the pole vault, and A. O. Adams was runnerup to Ward in the broad jump. A third in the javelin by Verne Van Meter, put the Illini in front to stay, and the mile relay team edged into fifth place for one more point.

The Hoosiers, Hornbostel and Fuqua, triumphed in two events each, and Divich Wesley Busbee in the discus, and a record breaking mile relay team gave Indiana seven first places. Hornbostel, who set a new big ten record of 1 minute, 52.9 seconds for the half mile in his trial heat yesterday, won the event today in 1:53.8, after a sharp brush with William Bloor, of Ohio State. He won the mile in the ordinary time of 4:23.8, and ran on the victorious relay team.

Fuqua won the 220 and 440 yard dashes, and anchored the mile relay quartet. Busbee won his second straight discus title with a heave of 145 feet, 10 inches. Dan Caldemeyer helped with a tie for first place in the high jump.

Indiana Sets 3 Marks

Of four new records set during the two days, three fell to Indiana. Hornbostel erased the 18-year-old half mile record, and Fukua raced 440 yards today in 47.8 seconds, to better by six-tenths of a second his own mark for the distance around two turns. Then Hornbostel and Fuqua with D. D. Harpold and West Bicking, ran to a new record of 3 minutes, 15.9 seconds for the mile relay. The former record was set by Michigan in 1931, at 3:18.5.

Kamm's toss of 49 feet, 11 inches in the shot displaced the former mark of 49 feet 8½ inches, established by Clarence Munn of Minnesota in 1932.

Illinois' victory was its first since 1929, and its twelfth in the history of the meet. The latter equalled Michigan's record, and was gained with the lowest point total since 1920 when another Illinois team won with 40 points.

The other schools entered finished in the following order: Iowa, 17; Ohio State, 17; Wisconsin, 17; Purdue, 16 3-5; Chicago, 9 1-10; Minnesota, 7.

CUNNINGHAM GAINS 3 FIRSTS, KANSAS WINS BIG SIX MEET

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 19.—Glenn Cunningham, ace of Middlewest distance runners, trotted his way to easy victories in three events here today as his University of Kansas teammates eclipsed two conference records, took eight first places and tied for another, to win the annual Big Six track and field championship.

The Jayhawkers rolled up a 68½ point total with Nebraska, winner the last two years, finishing in second place with 54 1-3. The others finished as follows: Oklahoma 44½, Kansas State 26 1-3, Missouri 22 5-6 and Iowa State 21½.

Cunningham, who won the half mile, mile and two-mile in a total of 25 seconds slower time than he needed in his iron man role here a year ago, shared individual honors with Ed Hall of Kansas. Hall repeated his last year's double victory in the sprints, and then won the broad jump and anchored the victorious Jayhawk mile relay team.

Cunningham nursed a pack of star distance runners along in each of his three races, took the lead on the home stretch and outsprinted them to win in time slower than most of the leading competitors have run all season.

Heye Lambertus, fleet Nebraskan, raced 10 yards ahead of the field in a brilliant low hurdling exhibition to break the tape in 23.4 seconds, believed the fastest time ever made in the 220-yard event around a full curve. The mark lacked one-tenth of a second, however, of equalling the Big Six record established by J. Welch of Missouri in the 1930 meet.

Paul Harrington of Kansas brought the meet to a close by hanging up a new Big Six javelin record of 208 feet 11 inches.

"Financial and greographical" reasons were given as the cause of the action.

the old game at all today.

When McGinnis was playing under Comiskey prior to 1885, the only worth-while differences in the game from that of today were these:

1—The pitching distance was 50 feet instead of 60, and the pitcher could take two steps in a box instead of one step from a slab.

2—The batter could call for a high, low or waist ball instead of taking what was served him.

3—The pitcher was allowed seven balls instead of four, before a batter drew a base on balls.

4—The catcher could stand back and take the pitch on the bounce, usually coming up behind the bat for the third strike or with a man on base.

5—There was no foul strike rule.

6—Gloves and protective equipment were unknown.

Fundamentally the game has not changed one jot. In field play a few minor tactical changes have resulted. As a matter of fact, much of the strategy used now was known and worked last century, in days when the pitcher, like McGinnis, had to play the outfield on days when he was not in the pitcher's box.

Baseball's structural permanency entitles it more than any other of our sports to boast of being our real "national game."

Ross Not Handicapped.

WHEN Barney Ross, world's light-weight ring champion, goes out of his class to battle Jimmy McLarnin, world's welterweight king, next week, he will be conceding his opponent not more than six or seven pounds.

Still he will be looked upon as being a very daring young man in giving away weight to an opponent who is not only a champion, but a hard punching one.

But the handicap really is not so great. In fact, McLarnin is in a much more serious situation than Barney. Because he is larger, McLarnin will be expected to force the fighting. That will play right into the hands of Ross and enable him to fight a defensive battle, with a great chance to gain a decision on points.

The importance of weight among the smaller men has perhaps been over estimated. The lighter man comes in at catch weights and therefore is at his very best. The heavier man frequently has difficulty making weight and is not apt to be at his strongest.

When Weight Counted.

HOWEVER, in some very important fights a few pounds of weight have resulted disastrously. Flyweight Jimmy Wilde was knocked clear out of the picture when he fought Pete Herman for the bantamweight championship of the world. Johnny Kilbane was flattened very quickly when he tried to pit his featherweight poundage against Champion Benny Leonard's lightweight heft.

On the other hand, Joe Wolcott, the Barbados demon, would fight anything that walked—and he generally won. Bob Fitzsimmons never reckoned on weight nor did Joe Choynski. Jim Corbett conceded Jeffries 10 years in age and 35 pounds, and outpointed him for 22 rounds.

The probabilities are very good that McLarnin will not lay a glove on Ross hard enough to matter. Under 15-round fight conditions a scientific boxer ought not to be seriously handicapped by a few pounds weight.

If you can't hit the target you can't wreck it.

PICTURES showing Max Baer working out with a Negro sparring partner indicate plainly what we may expect to see when the California grizzly Baer and the Man Mountain meet next month.

If the picture has been arranged to illustrate what trouble Baer is going to have in hitting Carnera with his only knockout weapon — his right hand — it couldn't have suited the situation better.

Primo's long, long left arm is a real barrier, and, while they say he merely stretches it out, Max will probably find that contacting it is about as pleasant as dashing his head into a wagon tongue.

If Primo doesn't lose his head, Baer will spend most of his evening trying to get within reaching distance of Carnera's dome—and taking many a smash in his effort to attain that objective.

End of the Trail.

THE journey's end for the former world's champion, Jack Johnson is a little makeshift night club at a place called Teterboro, N. J., within easy distance of New York City.

Down and out for several years, this is Jack's last bid for pork chops and gravy.

Friends are giving him a new start. They hope he will stabilize his fortunes somewhere on the safe side of the relief rolls.

Johnson, a great defensive fighter and well liked before he began to mix races in his matrimonial ventures, made a fortune in the ring.

He received one of the first big checks paid a champion when he fought Tommy Burns for the title in Australia and was paid $30,000 before the fight began. He won the championship from Burns.

Johnson, after winning the title in 1908, boxed four or five fights, one against Victor McLaglen, now of movie fame, before signing in 1910 for what then was considered a fabulous sum, to fight Jeffries, who had been in retirement for about seven years.

Johnson received the major share of the $101,000 purse put up by Tex Rickard, the largest purse ever offered for a contest up to that time. Johnson also took a slice of the movie receipts and accepted cash instead of a percentage—a lucky break, because a law prohibiting interstate exhibition of fight movies was passed by Congress shortly afterwards.

Everyone Lost but Johnson.

TWO years later, Johnson received $30,000 for giving Jim Flynn a terrible mauling at Las Vegas, N. M., when everybody lost money but Johnson, who got his guarantee. Jim Flynn's bit was a secondhand automobile given him by the promoter, Jack Curley.

Sitting on top of the world then, Jack Johnson lost his head in several ways. He married a white woman, for one thing.

Then he turned down a $100,000 offer to fight three battles in Australia for Hugh McIntosh, after learning that Sam Langford was to be his first foe.

Finally, he became involved with Uncle Sam and fled the country to Europe. His fortune soon slipped from him in Paris and in Barcelona, Spain.

His last big fight was with Jess Willard, and was held in Havana, Johnson still being an exile from the United States. He got $30,000 as a balm for defeat, although again the promoters went broke.

Thus Johnson made plenty of money. By the time he compromised with Uncle Sam and agreed to serve a year in Leavenworth to expiate his offenses, he was penniless.

Thirty-five years ago Johnson started as a Galveston stevedore; broke. Today he is right back where he began.

prominent "11" on its back. That's his pop's number.

Grove didn't look much like himself when he walked Clift to start the game but he certainly poured three fast strikes across on West, next up.

---

Cooke and Lary in the second and Hinkle, starting the third all were called out on strikes—three in a row.

---

The first hit of the game came in the third and fell to the lot of Allen Strange. It was a "looper" over first base and was good for two bases.

---

And, the first Boston hit was that made by Reynolds after two were out in the fourth. Previously two of the Sox had reached first on passes.

---

While it isn't exactly record-breaking, the 3000 attendance, all things considered, was gratifying. There have been times when the Brownies drew a lot fewer than that.

---

One of the feature fielding plays was Strange's stop and throw of Cissell's high bounder over Coffman's head in the fifth. The kid shortstop had to travel fast and make a perfect throw to get his man.

Bill Werber took quite a nap after he opened the sixth with a single. Hemsley signalled to Coffman and Strange went over to cover second and Werber was out sliding in.

BOSTON, May 19.—James Otto Carleton, the young man from Comanche, Tex., who has had trouble going the nine-inning route in recent games, turned in a pitching masterpiece this afternoon and the Cardinals defeated Ed Brandt and the Boston Braves, 2 to 1, for their fifteenth victory in the last 19 games.

Carleton's curve never crackled through the strike zone more effectively than it did today, and if it had not been for two pop fly doubles, the slender Texan would have made his third triumph of the season a shutout.

Two Pop Flies Produce Run.

In the fourth inning, with two out and after Carleton had turned back 11 successive Boston batters, with only one ball hit out of the infield, Hal Lee popped a dinky fly over Jimmy Collins' head and reached second before the Ripper could retrieve the ball. Walter Berger, a dangerous hitter, then sent a high pop fly to short left. Joe Medwick could have caught it, but Capt Leo Durocher, who has one of the loudest voices in baseball, announced so that it could be heard down Chelsea way, that he had it, he had it.

But he didn't have it. At the last moment he gave up and looked around for help, but none was there and the ball plunked into the turf for a two-base hit, and Lee scampered home with the first run of the duel of brilliant pitching.

Brandt was almost as good as Carleton and that run looked large and important as the southpaw turned back the Cardinals inning after inning, thwarting them even in the fifth when they filled the bases after two were out.

Medwick Hits Triple.

Johnny Rothrock, however, drew a pass to start the sixth and then, after Frisch forced Rothrock at second, Joe Medwick atoned for his part in that pop fly double of Berger's. Joe caught one of Brandt's fast ones squarely on the label and the ball sailed far to the right center corner of the field for a triple, scoring Frisch with the tying run.

Rothrock also started the rally which gave the Redbirds the victory, slamming a single to center to open the eighth inning. Frisch neatly sacrificed and after Medwick was passed intentionally, Collins punched a single to center and Rothrock raced home with the run that gave Carleton the decision he so richly deserved.

Marty McManus made the third hit off Carleton, and his single, a line drive to left, starting the fifth, was the only real wallop off the Texan's delivery.

Carleton Finishes Strong.

Carleton was a little wilder than usual, making two wild pitches and walking three men, two of them in the seventh inning, but except for that he was a master of a wide sweeping curve that snapped corners off the plate and bewildered the Boston batters. Carleton finished strong, disposing of six straight batters in the last two innings to protect his one-run lead.

In two innings Tex was in trouble, the fifth and the seventh, but in one of the innings brilliant fielding saved him, and in the other an error created the crisis.

McManus, who singled to start the fifth, advanced to second and then to third on wild pitches, but Whitney flied to Mills before the wild heaves and Durocher then took Hogan's hot line drive and pegged to Whitehead to double McManus off third.

In the seventh, with two on and two out, Whitehead threw wild on Hogan's easy grounder, filling the bases, but Brandt forced Hogan at second to take Tex out of that inning.

Redbird Notes.

DIZZY DEAN probably will pitch against the Giants tomorrow in the first game of a series, Manager Frisch announced today.

Pepper Martin suffered a bruised hand in yesterday's game with the Braves and Burgess Whitehead took his place at third. Martin put on a first baseman's glove and earned his day's wages by pitching in batting practice.

The final with the Braves attracted about 7500 cash customers.

The Cardinals rushed to Back Bay station immediately after the game and were due in New York at 11:30 p. m.

Martin doesn't advertise his troubles. Pepper's left hand was injured yesterday when Shanty Hogan fell on him during a run-up play, but Pepper didn't tell Frisch about it until the athletes were at the ball park for the series final.

Carl Hubbell will pitch for the Giants in the first game of the series at New York tomorrow.

While the victory still left the Cardinals in third place, the Redbirds cut down the lead of the Cubs and Pirates who lost to Brooklyn to Philadelphia and Brooklyn respectively. The Redbirds now are only two games behind the first place Cubs and a half game back of the Pirates.

With four regulars from last year available, the team got off to a good start by defeating the University City High School squad 3 to 2 in a practice match. Sada Takaki, No. 1 singles player on the college team surprised with a victory over Robert Weinstock, St. Louis District Junior title holder, in this match.

The Principia team defeated Washington University regulars, 3 to 2, in another match and later in the season went to Columbia and won from the University of Missouri varsity, 4 to 2. This was the Tigers only defeat of the season.

Coach Berninger's players also won from Blackburn College, 4 to 2; Shurtleff College, 4 to 2; Kemper Military School, 5 to 1, and the Wentworth Military Academy, 5 to 1.

Venzke Sets New American Record For Three Quarters

By the Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.

GENE VENZKE, University of Pennsylvania middle-distance runner, smashed the American record for three-quarters of a mile today and missed the world record by only a tenth of a second. The Penn sophomore covered the distance in 3 minutes 2.3 seconds. The old record of 3 minutes 2.8 seconds was set 39 years ago by Tommy Coneff on the Travers Island track, New York.

The accepted world record is held by Jack Lovelock of Oxford, who is credited with an official 3 minutes 2.2 seconds.

PETILLO SETS RECORD IN AUTO RACE TRYOUT

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—Apparently unhampered by new rules restricting gasoline consumption and the use of special gears, drivers attained dazzling speeds today in qualifying trials held preliminary to the annual 500-mile race to be run May 30 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Kelly Petillo, a small Californian, tore off the 25-mile qualifying run at the average speed of 119.329 miles per hour. The time was a new record for the 25-mile distance which has been in effect during the last two years. The qualifying spins previously were limited to 10 miles.

Petillo's performance gave him the pole position in the front row of the starters in the race. Eight other drivers qualified their cars today, leaving 24 places yet to be filled.

The positions of the qualifiers follow:

First row—Kelly Petillo, Los Angeles, 119.968 miles per hour; Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, 117.645; Frank Brisko, Milwaukee, 116.894.

Second row—Mauri Rose, Dayton, O., 116.044; Chester Gardner, Long Beach, Cal., 114.786; Phil "Red" Shafer, Des Moines, Ia., 113.816.

Third row—Tony Gulotta, Kansas City, 113.733; Al Miller, Detroit, 113.317; Russell Snowberger, Philadelphia, 111.428.

The record which Petillo smashed was 118.381 miles per hour and was established a year ago by "Wild Bill" Cummings of Indianapolis when he qualified and won the pole position in the 1933 race.

The little Californian from Los Angeles also was given credit for turning the fastest lap ever made at the speedway in a rear drive car. He went around the two and one-half mile course on his third lap at an average of 122.166 miles per hour.

The qualifying runs were made under the rules which place a limit of three gallons on the amount of gasoline that may be consumed and also forbid the use of special gears and extra carburetors.

The time trials will be continued tomorrow and then will be recessed until next Thursday.

There was one spill during the day. A. B. (Deacon) Litz of Dubois, Pa., and his mechanic, "Doc" Petty of Indianapolis, were shaken up when a front tire of their car went down while they were on the sixth lap of their qualifying run. The car skidded into the lower retaining wall.

PHILS COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN OVER CUBS, 6-5, IN 11 INNINGS

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Dick Bartell's single with the bases filled in the eleventh sent Darrow over the plate with the run that beat the Cubs, 6 to 5, in the final game of the series today.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle from the start with the teams tied at 2—2 going into the eighth. A home run by Augie Galan gave the Cubs two runs in the third.

The Phillies scored twice in the eighth on bases on balls to Bartell and Fullis, and Hendrick's double, but the Cubs came back with three in the ninth on a series of errors by the Phillies' infield. The locals tied it up in their half of the ninth

The Pirates forged to the front in the eighth with four runs but the Stengelmen rushed four runs over in their half putting the game right on their side.

Hafey Hits Two Homers But Reds Lose, 6 to 5

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The New York Giants closed their series with the Cincinnati Reds today with a 6-to-5 victory, giving the world champions two games to one.

The see-saw game was featured by five home runs, two by Chick Hafey of the Reds, and a protest that followed a circuit clout off the bat of Joe Moore, Giant outfielder, in the sixth inning. The ball was deflected by a spectator as it was about to fall into the right field stands. Umpire Rigler ruled th hit was good for four bases, but the Reds claimed it was only good for two under ground rules.

Six Records Broken as University City Wins Meet

place honors. Each making 10 points. Marion Schaeffer of Clayton won the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Ernest Ohle of University City, took the javelin and broad jump events; and Bud Harvey of Clayton won the 50-yard dash, placed second in the 120-yard low hurdles, and was third in the broad jump.

Ehrhardt's failure to come out of the starting blocks on even terms with Knight probably cost him the high hurdles mark. Bob was the last to come from his mark and was two yards behind Knight at the first hurdle, the same distance which separated them at the finish.

Frank Rucker of Kirkwood scored another victory over Johnny Ryan of University City in the mile run, Ryan's sprint again failing by yards of catching Rucker.

With the ideal weather conditions, the athletes lost no time in starting the record-breaking, the first two races, the senior high hurdles and the junior low hurdles, being run in time that set new standards, and the next two events, the senior 100 and junior 50-yard dash marks being tied.

Lucius More of University City set a new 120 yard low hurdle mark in the junior division of 14.8 seconds. The old mark was 14.9 seconds made by Frahm of Maplewood in 1933. The victory was sweet to More, for he beat Bud Harney of Clayton who scored an upset triumph over More in the finals of the county meet last week.

Some of the credit for the record-breaking must go to the Maplewood High School officials for the condition of the track, which was in excellent condition for the smashing of marks, being very fast.

Although Ehrhardt's time in the preliminaries of the high hurdles was 15.2 seconds, the same time as Knight made in winning the event, he does not get credit as co-holder of the record with Knight as he did not win the event.

Vess Club Meets Edgemont A. C. in Trolley League

With the Vess Club and Mount Vernon sharing first place in the Missouri Illinois Trolley League race, with a clean slate, the St. Louisans go to Edgemont this afternoon to tackle the Edgemont A. C. defending champions in their first meeting of the present season.

Johnny Harshany, Edgemont ace, will go to the hill for the East Siders, while Musil will work for the St. Louis club.

At Collinsville, the Lecce Red Birds will open their at home season, taking on the Alton Athletics. The Red Birds are tied with Edgemont for second place with two victories and one defeat. Jackaway, who has been showing a fine brand of pitching the past two weeks, will work against the Altonians, while Manager Bob Fisher will probably send Johnny Dubinic to the hill.

The St. Louis Dairys of Belleville will travel to Centralia. The Dairys are in third place, one game back of Collinsville and Edgemont. Centralia with three straight defeats is at the bottom of the heap.

Kirkwood with three losses is down to meet Jimmy McLaughlin's Car Builders this afternoon at Mount Vernon. "Dee" Walsh, who recently took over the Kirkwood club, has changed his lineup.

Austria Put Out Of Davis Cup Play By French Team

PARIS, May 19.—Jean Borotra, who annually emerges from retirement to help out in Davis Cup warfare, today almost cost the French a cup victory because he arrived late for the doubles matches with Austria.

Jean failed to show up at the scheduled time and Austria claimed default. When Borotra finally appeared, they withdrew their claim and the match proceeded, Borotra and his veteran partner, Jacques Brugnon, smashing out a 4—6, 6—3, 6—4 victory over G. von Metaxa and H. Artens.

The doubles triumph was the third straight victory in the series and clinched it for France. Christian Boussus and Andre Merlin won both singles matches yesterday.

France meets Germany, which drew a bye, in the second round of cup play in the European zone, June 8, 9 and 10.

Women stars of the United States and Davis Cup players of Australia played exhibition matches before and after the Davis Cup contest.

Sarah Palfrey of Boston paired with Harry Hopman of Australia to defeat her Wightman Cup teammate, Alice Marble, of San Francisco, and the young French star, Marcel Bernard, 6—2, 2—6, 7—5.

The Australians gave a doubles exhibition in which Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull defeated Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath, 9—7, 3—6, 7—5.

FIJI WINS KENTUCKY OAKS, CHURCHILL CLOSING STAKE

FAR STAR RUNS SECOND WHILE PENNCOTE TAKES SHOW MONEY

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 19.—Regarded as little more than a selling plater before today, Young Brothers' Fiji, coupled in the betting with Penncote, added her name to an illustrious list of fillies when she accounted for the sixtieth running of the Kentucky Oaks, feature of the closing day's program at Churchill Downs.

The filly's victory, however, was not an outstanding one, as Dixiana's Far Star, one-to-two choice with the big half-holiday crowd, broke down when leading an eighth of a mile from the winning post. The latter finished on her courage to beat Penncote for the place.

Seven contested the issue and there seemed no doubt as to the result as Far Star flashed into an early and commanding lead. She appeared to be only breezing as she paced the field down the back stretch of the mile and a furlong event, then, suddenly, was seen to falter after turning into the straightaway. Examination after the race showed she had a hopelessly bowed tendon, making her performance all the more remarkable.

Fiji, ridden by Jockey Gilbert Elston, covered the nine furlongs in 1:51 3-5, winning by four lengths. Far Star's margin over Penncote was five lengths. The Young entry was second choice in the betting, paying $8.80 in the $2 mutuels.

The gross purse was $3,160, of which $2,285 went to the winner.

FROGS will be placed on the restricted list and recognized as a game if the Lake of the Ozarks Association is successful in its proposed legislative campaign. Missouri now has no regulations pertaining to frog hunting and thousands of the big amphibians are taken annually for marketing, principally in Kansas City and St. Louis.

Small frogs are considered excellent fish food, especially for bass, and it is believed that the large spawning size frogs should be afforded some protection against all season slaughter.

A new statute would be necessary in the Missouri game code to furnish protection for frogs as they are not recognized either by season or creel limit in this State. Montana, in order to afford frogs special protection, placed the amphibians on the song bird list a few years ago.

The move in Missouri is to save the frogs is not only regarded as a step to saving a valuable food resource, but as a means of conserving, through a more intelligent use fish baits as well. The Lake of the Ozarks Association also favors a statute prohibiting dipping minnows from public streams and lakes. Few regulations pertaining to conservation of bait minnows are now effective in Missouri today, although there has been an increased shortage of live bait throughout the State for the last several seasons.

State Parks Open May 30.

More than 25,000 persons are expected to visit Missouri's State parks on the official opening date of the 1934 tourist season Decoration day, which also marks the opening of the game fishing season.

Preparations are being completed at all the parks to accommodate the usual big holiday crowds. While the new cabins and lodges being constructed by the CCC on some of the State parks will not be available this season there will be the usual hotel accommodations at three of the public playgrounds. Camping facilities will be available at all of the parks.

Meramec State Park near Sullivan will be ready with its new bathing beach, shelter house and concession building. The sand beach on the Meramec River will accommodate a crowd of 4000 persons. New camp tables and fireplaces also will be available at that time.

Good Fishing Prospects.

When the Missouri fishing season reopens Decoration day, anglers may expect to find the best fishing conditions in many years, State conservation officials believe.

Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of hatcheries for the State Game and Fish Department, who is familiar with the State-wide conditions this week issued the following statement:

"Missouri, most richly endowed with diversified inland fresh water fishing will open another season on Decoration day with fishing prospects most excellent. This favorable condition is due to the fact that with but one exception spawning seasons for the past few years have been above normal. Fluctuating water levels, usually prevalent during the normal spawning season may materially curtail or completely annihilate fish spawn but this has been avoided the past few seasons due largely to the lack of moisture.

"Though the drouth has been injurious to fish life, the condition has been materially overcome through the activities of the Fish and Game Department. In 1933 more than 3,000,000 adult and fingerling game fish were rescued from drying lake and bar pits and planted in adaptable living public waters by the hatchery division while a new record was being set in hatchery production. The latter is of greater importance because of the new policy to make plantings in the fingerling instead of the sac fry stage as formerly practiced. It is much easier and far less expensive to produce and plant fish in the sac fry stage when as low as 4 per cent normally reach spawning age in open waters than to produce and raise to fingerling size where 75 per cent reach maturity normally. But over a four-year period the former would be only 1 per cent as successful as the method now being used by the State Game and Fish Department.

"Winter fishing has taken its toll of fish but all things considered, the season, when it opens this month, will be a promising one. We look for sportsmen throughout the State to experience the best fishing in years during the summer and especially the early fall months of this year."

HOROMETER SETS RECORD TO WIN KING'S PLATE

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., May 19.—R. S. McLaughlin's Horometer, the favorite, today won the seventy-fifth running of the classic King's Plate at Woodbine Park and established a record for the event by covering the distance of one mile and an eighth in 1:54 1-5. W. H. Wright's Speygold finished second and T. S. Cochenour's Papalico was third.

Horometer, coupled with Pitchblende as the McLaughlin-Cowie entry, paid $2.10 in the mutuels.

The winner's time clipped a full second off the record established by Queensway in 1932.

ENTRY BLANKS ARE OUT FOR BOYS' ROAD RACE

Entry blanks for the third annual boys' road race may be obtained at the recreational centers throughout the city and at Sisler-Nelson, Spalding and Leacock sporting goods houses here, it was announced yesterday by Joe Forshaw, chairman of the event.

This event will be one of the features of the three-hour entertainment program at Sportsman's Park Tuesday, June 26, when the St. Louis Cards and New York Giants play a regular National League ball game climaxing the celebration of the Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Entrants must be between 14 and 18 years old and pass a physical examination before 1 o'clock the day of the race, Forshaw said. The same entry fee as last year, 25 cents, will be charged on registration. Last year 55 finished the race.

BIBLE WINS GOLF EVENT FOR BIG SIX DIRECTORS

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 19.—D. X. Bible, Nebraska's athletic director, today won the prize for athletic directors in the golf tournament of Big Six conference officials here.

Nebraska's basketball coach, W. H. Browne, won the prize in the coaches' division of the tournament and Dr. H. H. King of Kansas State College won the event for faculty representatives.

KARL EITEL TO COMPETE AGAIN AT FAIRMOUNT

Karl Eitel, winner of the $25,000 Fairmount Park Derby in 1929, will return to the scene of his most important of turf conquests, for the 34-day spring meeting, which gets under way next Saturday.

"Bathhouse John" Coughlin, the Chicago politician, late yesterday wired reservations for Karl Eitel and eight other thoroughbreds, stating that he would ship from Chicago tomorrow.

Karl Eitel's victory in the 1929 Fairmount Derby was one of the surprises in the history of that event. That was the year Naishapur was regarded as a cinch in the race, and he was so confidently backed by the public that he went to the post at a little less than 2 to 5 in the field of five over a muddy track.

Naishapur Out o the Money.

Naishapur was not even in the money. Karl Eitel, with the popular Bobby Jones in the saddle, got away in front as the barrier was snapped and kicked mud in the other horses' eyes throughout the mile and a quarter grind, winning in easy style. At the end, Thistle Fyrn was second, and Minotaur third, while Naishapur came in a soundly whipped fourth, beating only Bather.

Karl Eitel, now eight years old, still ranks as a high-class performer. In recent years, he has been running against handicap opposition on tracks throughout the Middle West. If he shows up well in his workouts when he reaches Fairmount, he may be a starter in the Inaugural Handicap.

Of Coughlin's other equines he is shipping to the East Side, six are two-year-olds, most of whom will be making their first starts. These are Cathedral, Illianna, Cannon's Roar, Board Trade, Fire Advance and Teernahilla. George Maypole, 6 years old, and Lillian Tobin, 7 years old, complete the Coughlin consignment.

Our Mae Here From Pimlico.

Sharing interest with the announcement of Karl Eitel's coming was the arrival yesterday from Pimlico of Our Mae in the stable of E. K. Bryson. Her appearance assures local turf fans of seeing one of the leading juveniles of the country in action at Fairmount during the coming campaign.

Winner of five out of 10 starts, also finishing secondonce and third twice, the offspring of Our General-Mae Quince, by Peter Quince, has whipped such good ones as Love Sick, Cheka, Color Bearer, Whoa Back and Cake Walker. In one performance she ran fourth to Angelic, the Youthful Stakes winner, who may turn out to be the best two-year-old of the year.

It is not improbable that Our Mae will prove to be the best youngster on the grounds. She is a candidate for the Jockey Club Stakes, the only stake for juveniles scheduled at Fairmount Park this meeting, but there will be other allowance events, in which she will get a chance to show her speed.

Accompanying Our Mae and now occupying stall room at Fairmount are Bobe, Gunwale, Specs, Gay Day, First General, Rishi, Miss Glace, Kanal, Owen Martinez, Daisy Cutter, Moon Shy, Bombardment and Red Vest, all well-known racers. Jockey J. Serio is on the scene with the shipment.

HELLRUNG TEAM AFTER FOURTH VICTORY IN UNIVERSITY CITY LOOP

The feature game in the University City Muny Baseball League today finds the reorganized Wellston S-Ks tangling with the league-leading Hellrung & Grimm team. The revamped S-Ks, with two straight victories, will be out to administer the first defeat of the season to the Hellrungs, with four straight victories. Jack Hilton will be on the hill for the S-Ks, opposed by Eddie Rolfe or "Johnny" Rogers.

In the other half of the twin bill, the Aalcos meet the Sullivan-Rileys. Richards will be on the mound for the Aalcos, opposed by either Heil or Duvic.

Both games will be called at 2:30 o'clock at Heman Park on Olive Street road.

CHICAGO U. PLAYER WINS BIG 10 SINGLES TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Max Davidson of the University of Chicago blasted his way through Seymour Siegel of Michigan today in straight sets to win the Western Conference singles tennis championship and give the Maroons the team title.

Davidson successfully matched his hard-driving game against the Wolverine's more careful style of play for a 6—3, 6—3 triumph. A little later he reteurned with Trevor Weiss as his partner and won the doubles title for the second straight year, defeating Paul Scherer and Roy Huber of Minnesota, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

Davidson's victory assured Chicago of the team title, and the doubles triumph gave the Maroons 14 points to 11½ for Michigan, the runnerup.

MEADOW BROOK TO OPEN WITH SPORTS PROGRAM FRIDAY

Woodlawn Country Club again will be the scene of the District High School golf tournament which is to be held June 18. The competition will be 36 holes of medal play, 18 in the morning and 18 in the afternoon with each school being permitted to enter six players. The team winner will be determined the four low scorers of each school.

Richard Kohlman of Maplewood was the individual winner last year with 147, shooting a 77 in the morning and a 70 in the afternoon to win by a stroke from Bob Stamm of University City.

Stamm had the trophy in his hands and headed for home when Kohlman dropped a 30-foot putt on the last green to win.

University City, however, won the team prize.

Four former caddies of the Woodlawn Country Club will play an exhibition match this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Frank Bredall, Western junior champion, and Jimmy Benson will represent Woodlawn while Ted Riester and Jerry Browning, now members of Crystal Lake, will play for that club. It will be an 18-hole best ball match.

BARNEY ROSS APPEARS IN OUTDOOR WORKOUT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FERNDALE, N. Y., May 19.—With Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, looking on, Barney Ross turned in his first outdoor workout today for his bout with Jimmy McLarnin on May 28.

Canzoneri, who lost his title to Ross, thinks Ross has improved tremendously, in both strength and punching power, but will not make a selection in the fight, believing there is little to choose between Ross and McLarnin.

Ross boxed four rounds, two each with Tommy Romano and Al Casamini.

Connie Knows His Catchers.

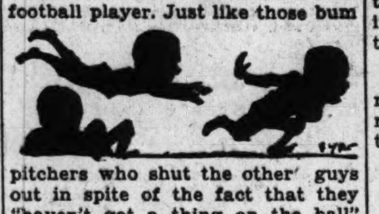
No matter what else Connie Mack does to his team, as far back as runneth the memory of man, he always bobs up with a swell catcher. This time it is young Frank Hayes, the sensational rookie who is making the customers forget Ossie Schreckengost, Doc Powers, Wallie Schang, Jack Lapp, Cy Perkins and Mickey Cochrane.

Benny Friedman says "Red" Grange didn't know how to block or tackle and was therefore a bum football player. Just like those bum pitchers who shut the other guys out in spite of the fact that they "haven't got a thing on the ball" but a little resin and prayer.



Because "Red" performed such hair-raising deeds on the gridiron with the assistance of 10 other guys, the untutored mind of the average football addict got the erroneous impression that he was a pretty fair football player. Seems they were wrong.

The Factors.

THE glove in face, the fencing match,
The sorely wounded pride;
En garde! the superficial scratch
The honor satisfied.

See where Colombo is favorite for the English Derby. How about a little match race between Colombo and Discovery?

On the windy course at St. Andrews, the British Walker Cup team thought they would breeze in. Instead of that it was a walkover for America.

If there are any two games that are strictly British in their origin, they are boxing and golf. And if there are any sports at which Uncle Sam has it on John Bull like the hammer has it on the nail, those are the ones.

But when it comes to cricket and rugby, we are simply outclassed by the English. And who cares?

Japan, which withdrew from the League of Nations, now threatens to withdraw from the Far East games. Must be going to start another outlaw league.

Col. Matt Winn says the sixtieth Derby was the greatest in the history of the classic. Okay, Colonel, it is customary to save the best till the last.

It is thought that the Pirates are no stronger than Pie Traynor's right arm, which right now is pretty weak.

Foiled Again!

The man on the sandbox says fencing is a nice little sport but he never was stuck on it himself.

Even in those French duels with the buttons off, it usually turns out that the only wound inflicted is on somebody's honor.

Bill Klem recently called a balk on Pitcher Leonard of the Dodgers and then took it back, admitting it was his first error in 30 years of umpiring. We'll overlook it this time, Bill, but don't let it occur again.

Like the customer, the ump is always right, but try to make a ballplayer believe it.

Big Ed Coleman of the Athletics may not be the mustard king but he is a pretty hot proposition.

Roosevelt Leads Midget Qualifiers

Roosevelt qualified 14 entrants in the midget classification in the preliminaries to the twenty-fourth annual interscholastic field day yesterday at the Public Schools Stadium to lead its nearest competitor, Central, by seven. Soldan was third with six, Blewett and McKinley had five each and Cleveland placed two.

One record was broken as Russell Schoenbeck skipped over the 75-yard low hurdles in 10.9 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than the mark established by Leva of Cleveland in 1928, and equaled by Knock, also of Cleveland, last year. Counting the individuals in the relay team, Roosevelt puts 17 boys into the finals.

Junior and senior qualifying trials will be run tomorrow and Tuesday afternoons, starting at 4 o'clock, with the finals scheduled for Friday afternoon.

The qualifiers:

LINCOLN U. GIRLS DEFEAT STOWE TEAM IN ANNUAL PLAY-DAY

City-Wide Industrial Athletic Association, at which awards will be made for last winter's competition, will be held Tuesday at 6:30 o'clock with Bert Fenenga, coach of Cleveland High School, and Buck Newsom, Brownie pitcher, on the program as speakers. ## YALE CAPTURES ANOTHER CREW CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

DERBY, Conn., May 19.—Another great "Eight-in-the-Line" Ed Leader builds at Yale drove down the wind-ruffled Housatonic this evening to a thunderous triumph over Princeton and Cornell and the undisputed spring championship of the East.

Almost disdainful of the rival eights, the only two undefeated Varsity crews in the East up to today, the Bull Dog boat load, stroked by the veteran Johnny Jackson, swept to its third consecutive Carnegie Cup victory by a full length over the desperate Tigers, with Cornell's heavyweights two lengths farther back at the finish of the two-mile sprint.

It was a brilliant spectacle for the crowd of 35,000 that jammed the 20-car observation train and trickled along the sun-drenched banks of the river and the rock studded hills beyond for the full length of the course.

In the preliminary events on the cup program, the Elis had won only the first event. A mile and five-sixteenths brush with the 150-pound lightweights of Harvard and Princeton while Cornell, threatening a sweep like that of Jimmy Burke's big red eight of 1931, won both the Freshman and Junior Varsity two-mile dashes.

The big Princeton Tigers, who have beaten Pennsylvania, Columbia, Harvard and Navy, made a magnificent effort. Seven pounds lighter than Yale's average of 187, the Princeton boat load, through a full mile and a half, stuck doggedly to the side of the Eli shell, though it took a stroke anywhere from two to five beats a minute higher to do it.

Harvard Crews Win Three Races

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 19.—Harvard won all three races in a triangular regatta on the Charles River today. The Harvard varsity, in the final event of the day, swept to victory, leading Massachusetts Tech by 2½ lengths. Columbia, placing third, trailed a length behind Tech. Harvard's winning time was 9:03, Tech 9.13 3-5 and Columbia 9.17 1-5.

INCREASE IN SALE OF TENNIS PERMITS FOR PUBLIC PARKS

The sale of public park tennis permits has shown a decided increase this year over the same period last year, according to Alfred Fleishman, superintendent of recreation. Permits costing $1 each may be obtained at 330 Municipal Court Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

The increased sale of permits at this time is attributed by tennis officials to the increased popularity of the game, both locally and nationally, as well as to the recent improvements of park tennis facilities made under the direction of Eugene Skillern, Superintendent of Parks.

The Municipal Tennis Association has announced that it will conduct a city-wide course of tennis instruction at all parks in July.

LEADS AT STAKE IN SIX GRADE SCHOOL GAMES

Eight games are scheduled tomorrow in the Grammar School Baseball League and in six of the eight contests the lead in the respective divisions will be at stake in deciding which teams are to win the right to compete in the eliminations for the Post-Dispatch trophy and medals.

In Group A, the two important games are Blow vs. Mt. Pleasant at Carondelet Park and Scruggs vs. Monroe at Marquette Park. Blow has scored four straight victories without a defeat and a win tomorrow would clinch the division honors for it, but Scruggs has lost only one game in four and if it should win tomorrow and Blow be defeated, there would be a tie for the group lead. In the other game in this division Lyon plays Woodward at Carondelet Park. are scheduled at Tower Grove

In Group B, Adams plays Mason, Oak Hill opposes Mullanphy and Shaw meets Shenandoah. All games Park.

Adams has won four games without a loss, and Mason and Mullanphy have each turned in three victories with one defeat.

In Group D, Ames and Clay play off their tie as both teams have four victories and one defeat. This game will be played at Fairgrounds Park.

In the eighth game of the day in Group E, Cupples plays Laclede at Sherman Park. A victory for Laclede would give it the group lead and a setback would throw the division into a tie between Emerson and Walbridge.

Rock Springs won the title in Group C with five straight victories.

JENNINGS NINE WINS FROM FERGUSON, 3-2

Jennings High School scored a 3 to 2 victory over Ferguson in a County League game yesterday. Jennings outhit the losers, 6 to 5. Four Ferguson errors hurt their chances for a victory.

GOODMAN ONE OF FAVORITES FOR BRITISH AMATEUR ON TOURNEY EVE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PRESTWICK, Ayrshire, Scotland, May 19.—All was in readiness tonight for the great battle of the bunkers, starting next Monday, with the British amateur golf championship as the objective and the goal.

A field of 225, as international in character as a street scene in Bagdad, had assembled here long before nightfall, the most conspicuous being the 13 Americans, nine of them members of the successful Walker Cup squad.

It was the consensus around the clubhouse that, if the championship was to leave England this time, it would go with an American—maybe Johnny Goodman, American open champion; Lawson Little, the long hitter, or George Dunlap, who came so close to the title last year.

Two 18-Hole Rounds Daily.

However, no major event can produce quite the mad scramble this affair is capable of. It goes right into match play on opening day, two rounds a day of 18 holes each until the 36-hole final round on Saturday, and almost invariably the favorites are pinched off. The outstanding exception of the last decade was furnished by the Jones years. He was picked to win—and win he did.

Dunlap, practically making a one-man fight of it, went through to the semifinals in 1933, the title ultimately going to Hon. Michael Scott, who is here to defend in the impending event. However, after what happened in the Walker Cup series at St. Andrews, few expect a great deal of this 56-year-old veteran or, in fact, of any other homebred.

The exception here seems to be Young Jack McLean, who did so well in the Walker Cup play that he has been installed as one of the pre-tournament favorites. Johnny Goodman is another; Little a third. However, this pair is bound to meet en route to the finals, so while one of them may survive until Saturday, it can't be both.

Goodman Rules Favorite.

They met in the 1929 American amateur event, Little winning in the afternoon after Goodman had stunned the gallery by beating Jones in the morning. In spite of this, Johnny is generally favored over his friend here, largely through his acquired mastery of the pitch and run shot.

The other Americans are not happily placed, being grouped in the other half of the draw. The result will be many American eliminations in the early rounds, starting with the first round on Monday morning.

Here Francis Ouimet, former American champion, will meet Gus Moreland, the young Texan who has been playing excellently throughout his visit here. Ouimet, a fast starter in all tournaments—he tires in the later rounds—may get the jump on Moreland and, in a "sprint" match of this kind, Gus would then have his work cut out for him. However, the fear here is that Ouimet will be the victim, a sentimental fear. He is probably the most popular American ever to swing a club on a British course.

Too Many in Same Half.

Five other Walker cuppers are in this top half of the draw, making matters very complicated, indeed. Johnny Fischer will play a Scottish golfer, Graham Patrick, and, if successful, must meet the Ouimet-Moreland survivor in the afternoon, meaning another American casualty. Chandler Egan, in the same part of the draw, is surrounded by class, some of his prospective opponents being Scott, the champion; Cyril Tolley, Eric Fiddian and Jesse Guilford, former American champion.

Egan plays James Wallace of Troon in the first round and should survive. After that, however, will be a rocky one. Even more so will be that of Jack Westland, who not only is in this section, but will draw the dour and hard-bitten old champion, Robert Harris, in the first round.

George Dunlap apparently has the easiest of all first rounds, a match with a Calcutta player, C. B. Pakenham Walsh. Max Marston, too, should dispose of D. H. R. Martin, a man with only a local reputation in the south of England. Little's first-round opponent, R. W. Ripley, of London, hardly measures up to the American's play, but the latter probably will meet Eric McRuvie in the second round.

Goodman also faces no more than tentative opposition in the first round. He will meet a little known player, W. M. Robb of Lancashire.

ASKS TO HAVE DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD REINSTATED

Arthur Trader of Yarrow, Mo., Charges Fraud by Attorney in C., B. & Q. Case.

A motion to set aside a stipulation dismissing the $65,000 damage suit of Arthur Trader of Yarrow, Mo., against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Co. was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Landwehr. The stipulation was signed by Trader, with Douglas W. Robert, attorney for the company, concurring.

Trader, in his motion, charges fraud on the part of an attorney who said he had been sent to him by his attorneys of record, Charles L. Moore and H. Clair McGinnis, for the purpose of getting him to agree to accept $3000. He said the attorney, who was identified in the testimony yesterday as Wilson Noell, told him the suit was without merit, but nevertheless the company was willing to make an adjustment.

Accordingly, Trader accompanied the attorney to Chicago last April 19, his motion recites, and settled the case. It was stated he received $2200, the remainder being indorsed to Noell.

Moore and McGinniss said the first knowledge they had of the settlement was on May 10, when they met their client at Kirksville, Mo. They charged that the settlement was effected through a conspiracy with the defendant. The claim agent who negotiated the settlement said he supposed that Noell was authorized to handle the matter and that the plaintiff had changed lawyers.

Wilson Noell, it was stated, had no authority from the plaintiff's law firm and has no connection with it. His brother, Charles P. Noell, is Moore's law partner. The Court held there was no evidence of conspiracy on the part of the railroad. Trader, former section hand of the railroad, was injured Feb. 4, 1933, while at work at South Gifford, Mo. It is alleged his injuries are of a permanent nature.

One of the last pre-season camps at the Irondale Reservation is being held this week-end for scouters, their wives and children. About 250 left yesterday afternoon and spent the night at the camp. They will return late today.

GERMANY AND ITALY AGREE ON NEED FOR ARMS TREATY

Accord by Hitler Envoy and Mussolini Reached at Unexpected Conference in Rome.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, May 19.—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler are in "agreement on the necessity of arriving at a disarmament treaty," an official communique announced today after Mussolini had conferred with Gen. Joachim von Ribbentrop, German disarmament envoy.

The visit here of Gen. von Ribbentrop was regarded in diplomatic circles as an indication that Germany and Italy may join in a strong effort to prevent breakdown of the disarmament conference. Gen. von Ribbentrop and Mussolini "went thoroughly into the situation," the communique said.

Premier Mussolini for some time has been an advocate of some rearmament for Germany, to be coupled in a treaty with a provision that France retain her present strength. Germany has held a similar view. The German envoy's visit to Rome had not been announced in advance.

Before coming to Rome, Gen. von Ribbentrop spent several days in London, where he conferred with British cabinet members. Officials in London indicated that the German representative was not encouraged there to expect support from Britain for Germany's armament policies.

y the Associated Press.

ROME, May 19.—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler are in "agreement on the necessity of arriving at a disarmament treaty," an official communique announced today after Mussolini had conferred with Gen. Joachim von Ribbentrop, erman disarmament envoy.

The visit here of Gen. von Ribbentrop was regarded in diplomatic circles as an indication that Germany and Italy may join in strong effort to prevent breakdown f the disarmament conference. en. von Ribbentrop and Mussolini "went thoroughly into the situa- ion," the communique said.

Premier Mussolini for some time has been an advocate of some re- rmament for Germany, to be coupled in a treaty with a provision that France retain her present strength. Germany has held a sim- ilar view. The German envoy's visit to Rome had not been announced in advance.

Before coming to Rome, Gen. von Ribbentrop spent several days in London, where he conferred with British cabinet members. Officials in London indicated that the German representative was not encouraged there to expect support from Britain for Germany's arma- ment policies.

An exhibition of fencing will be given by four of the St. Louis Fencers' Club, and members of the Little Theater will burlesque a bull fight and the tango. Debutantes in costume will be cigarette and flower vendors, and will lead burros, their saddlebags laden with Mexican products—peon pottery, cartwheel sombreros, colored glass and bright-colored serapes.

SORORITIES and FRATERNITIES

UNDER the leadership of Mrs. Arthur K. Anderson, national president, and Mrs. Leland F. Leland, editor, Alpha Omicron Pi has been one of the few sororities which has encouraged its chapters, particularly its alumnae groups, to plan study programs of timely subjects related to Government. During the last year, the sorority magazine, "To Dragma," has contained several splendid articles on economic and social problems of the day. Certainly this organization has had brought home to it a realization of crime conditions because Edward Bremer of St. Paul, who was kidnaped and returned after payment of a ransom of $200,000, is the brother of Catherine Bremer Matson, retiring national president of Alpha Omicron Pi. The year's study program of the St. Louis chapter will be presented for discussion tomorrow afternoon when the alumnae will meet for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Donald D. Grover, 1604 Washington avenue, Alton. Miss Eleanor Rench has resigned as Panhellenic delegate of the sorority and her place on the Panhellenic Alumnae Board will be filled by the president, Mrs. Evelyn W. Gauger.

Miss Doris Rea was elected president of the alumnae chapter of Alpha Xi Delta sorority at a meeting held last week. The other officers elected are: Mrs. Charles Schraubenbach, first vice-president; Miss Marjorie Gardner, second vice-president; Miss Lucille Patterson, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Carriere, corresponding secretary; Miss Arline Steinmeyer, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Ryan, chaplain; Miss Audrey Lucas, historian, and Miss Rosella Dodt, journal correspondent.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, May 19.

THAT the town is to be plunged once again, as it was last fall, into an uproar and controversy over sidewalk cafes now seems indicated. Patterned on the terrace refreshment oases of the Continent, long familiar to tourists abroad, there came into being with beer a few shy tables surrounded with the traditional green box hedge and shaded with gay awnings last year.

Nothing could have been more innocent, no friendly divertisement better calculated to gladden the eye of parching pedestrians, but immediately there were screams and outraged roars from neighboring restaurateurs. Their trade was being ruined by unfair competition; fire menaces were being created and traffic impeded. The circumstance that none of these things was true was, however, quite relegated to obscurity by the revelation that the Borough President of Manhattan, who ruled against the terrace cafes along public streets and avenue, was himself owner and proprietor of one which flourished in a private mall.

This year the fight for sidewalk sitting and sipping will be more fierce. There are more sorts of refreshment that can be served there now and, anyway, the citizens of the town liked the white-topped tables and green painted chairs and enjoyed patronizing them, albeit a little self-consciously at first. They are going to put up a howl that will resound with dismal fury through the corridors of City Hall if the jealous proprietors of a few failing catsmeat shops try to prevent them from having their beer and highballs where it is cool and there is something to see. No municipal administration in New York history has ever been so subservient to the clamor of the mob and in this case it will be crying not for bread and circuses so much as beer and awnings.

ONE of the last great razzle-dazzles of the spring season, coming after every one had gotten over their hangovers from Cobina Wright's Circus Ball, was the benefit performance of "The Drunkard" up at the American Music Hall for the fund of The Seeing Eye, an organization which trains police dogs as aids to the blind. The atmosphere at the Music Hall being reminiscent of the '50s when P. T. Barnum first produced this celebrated tear-jerker, every one was required to come in period costume.

There were cowboys and Mississippi River gamblers, slave traders, Army officers, New York belles and town dudes of the period when Gramercy Park was the northern boundary of civilization. There were policemen in flat watchman's caps and side whiskers, hearts of oaks in shamrocks and clay pipes from Paddy Land, clipper ship captains and plug-hatted bankers of the era, and gala-gala wasn't the word for it. It was a photographer's field day except for the circumstances that there were so many false whiskers and poke bonnets it was hard to tell who was news and who wasn't.

Gifford Cochran, who with Mrs. Harrison Eustis, is one of the moving spirits of the Seeing Eye, gave a monster dinner party beforehand for George Palmer Putnam, Johnny and Mr. Krimsky, Rosamund Pinchot, Elsa Maxwell and lots of other headliners, and the Music Hall itself was robust and screaming when we arrived. Jack and Charlie from "21" had the bar concession and Johnny Krimsky ran an extensive gambling hell in the cellarage.

We lost everything but our rented fireman's shirt and presented, understandably enough, a pretty picture walking home in the 8 o'clock dawn with the chief's bugle in our hand and 1840 helmet for lack of hack fare.

ONE more anecdote about the fabulous Jerry Zerbe, the boy society photographer, and this department will call the Zerbe season closed. The omnipresent Jerry was a guest at a dinner party the other evening in honor of a charming California debutante, Peggy Pillsbury, daughter of Mrs. Horace D. Pillsbury. The table was laid with a costly lace and damask cloth and, in a moment of abstraction between the filet and the salad, the irrepressible Jerry, with a soft lead copy pencil, engrossed upon it an agreeable sketch of his hostess.

Fascinated by the likeness of her daughter, Mrs. Pillsbury summoned the major domo, called for scissors and now the sketch, neatly clipped from the tablecloth, is signed, framed, and on the way home to California.

Roller skating and bicycling, but more especially cycling, among adults are enjoying their spring renaissance in and about Central Park. The Mall is, of course, reserved for skaters, most of whom are of the juvenile order, although, as a matter of record, Charles Graydon Poore, dignified book editor of "The Times" did fall and break an arm there a short time since. But cyclists run hog wild all over the place. They pace along beside the town cars of the elect, hail each other with whoops and wavings and fall, occasionally, in apparently lethal convulsions of legs, spokes and spinning wheels, from which they emerge, sheepish but practically intact.

Last Sunday there was a tandem out for the edification and enjoyment of everybody. A boy and girl in bicycling costume were astride it, she completely in arterial red tights, jersey and tasseled cap, he in yellow ditto. They got cheers at every corner.

LONDON, May 19.

AFTER the week's royal court King George and Queen Mary are spending a short Whitsun holiday at Sandringham, but a crowded engagement list will necessitate their early return to town.

The dance was attended by many of Miss Smith's co-debutantes and members of the American colony in London. Miss Smith's mother, Mrs. Richard Temple, was hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Temple entertained at a dinner party before the dance. Miss Smith is the granddaughter of the late Col. Milton McRae, Detroit newspaper publisher.

At two notable parties this week debutantes appeared in their court gowns after leaving Buckingham Palace. More than 600 attended the old Gaiety Days ball at the Savoy Hotel Tuesday night, when two private debutante dances were also given. On Wednesday there was a ball, which Prince George attended, at which 12 of this year's debutantes took part in a ballet.

We did this for the simple reason that we wanted to get you to more quickly try these marvelous Educator Toasted Cheese Thins. And—because we know once you do, you will never be without them.

They are as different from anything you have ever known as champagne is from beer. As gay and sophisticated and delicious as hors d'oeuvres from the Ritz in Paris.

They're thin. They're crisp. And as "tangy" as ripe Cheddar Cheese and Welsh Rarebit seasoning can make them.

All in all, they come as something novel. Something unique. And—something supremely delicious.

Women's Clubs' Council Meeting in Hot Springs

WASHINGTON, May 179.

THE raising of a $2,000,000 Foundation Fund by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, to be divided equally between the states and the national organization, will be given further impetus at the Federation's council meeting in Hot Springs, Ark., May 21-26, when the Grace Morrison Poole Birthday Fund, which has been accumulated during the past several months by clubs and club women, will be turned in to swell the Foundation Fund. The Birthday party will be held the morning of May 24, Mrs. Poole's birthday.

The General Foundation's share in this sinking fund now totals $121,563. Massachusetts, Mrs. Poole's home state, heads the list with a contribution of $35,950.

Other features at Hot Springs will include an address by Joseph B. Keenan, United States Assistant Attorney-General, who will speak on crime control and prevention. Dr. Theodore H. Aschman of Kansas City has consented to uphold the negative side of the discussion on birth control legislation which will be presented in the affirmative by Mrs. Margaret Sanger. Other speakers recently announced are: Mrs. Virgil Loeb of St. Louis, representing the National League of Women Voters, in opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment, with Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, Washington, D. C., attorney, representing the proponents; Mrs. Irene Sylvester Chubb of Webster Groves, Mo., upholding the affirmaftive of both the Old Age Pension and Compulsory Unemployment Insurance Questions, and Noel Sargent, secretary of the National Association of Manufacturers, presenting the opposition on these subjects.

The National Broadcasting Co. will broadcast the final hour of the Tuesday morning program from coast to coast. During this time Mrs. Poole will deliver her annual address, the nine department chairmen will speak briefly, and there will be a musical number. In addition, Mrs. W. F. Lake, chairman of the local council board, has arranged through the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce a series of five broadcasts to be given each evening independent of the program over KTHS. These periods have been assigned to the officers.

Social events will begin with a tea on Sunday preceding the council, given at council headquarters at the Arlington Hotel, by Mrs. Lake, Mrs. Edwin Bevens of Helena, Ark., and Mrs. Vaughan W. Root of Little Rock, assisted by the local council board, honoring the General Federation Board, members and guests, to which all federated club women will be welcome.

"Play Day" on Saturday, May 26, will mark the finale. A lakeside breakfast on the waters of the Hamilton will be followed by a drive to Bauxite to see the only mine in the United States containing ore for making aluminum, and then the journey back to Little Rock where the Little Rock City Federation, assisted by the junior section, has arranged a drive over the city followed by a lawn party on the State House grounds.

THOUSANDS OF GIFTS FOR JAPANESE HEIR

Many Effigies of Carp, Symbol Son Has Been Born in Family, Among Them.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 18.—For the first time in a generation, the huge paper and silken carp with which a Japanese family shows the world that it has rejoiced in the birth of a son in the past year, floats over the imperial palace.

These brilliant-hued effigies of the fish which to the Japanese symbolizes the strength and vigor with which a manchild should be endowed—because the carp, they say, is the one fish that swims up rapids—are as much a feature of the springtime landscape as the cherry blossoms.

They make their appearance late in April, and although they are flown chiefly to celebrate the annual "Tango-no-Sekku," or "Boy Festival," on May 5, they continue to flap in the sunshine until late in the month.

Million Boys Born in Year.

This year the palace is one of more than a million homes into which a son has been born since last May. Little Akihito Tsugu-no-Miya, the long awaited Crown Prince of the empire, was born Dec. 23.

It was natural therefore that among the thousands of gifts which deluged the palace there there should be hundreds of magnificent carp. As many as possible were raised on poles above that section of the palace on which the imperial infant's apartment are situated.

In the place of honor were two black and gold fish, each more than 20 feet long, donated by the National League of Young Men's Associations. They were hoisted on a pair of cedar poles, more than 75 feet high.

Other festival gifts for the future sovereign included countless dolls, samurai helmets, lions' heads carved in wood, miniature shrines and other toys of the kind that delight Japanese childhood.

From time to time the court physicians report to a deeply interested nation that little Prince Akihito is a thriving, lusty infant. His baby life is proceeding along the course ordained by ages of custom.

Ceremony of the Chopsticks.

Late in April Prince Akihito experienced the "ceremony of the chopsticks," which is celebrated in every Japanese family on the 121st day after the baby's birth to mark the commencement of the weaning process and the first taking of semisolid food.

About the same time the infant Prince made his first appearance outside the palace walls, when he was taken to visit his grandmother, the Empress Dowager, in her Omiya Palace, half a mile away. For the Japanese papers there is a formal etiquette in reporting matters involving the imperial family, so this is the way the story ran:

"Clad in white silk kimono bearing the imperial crest, the Crown Prince left the Imperial Palace today for the first time since his birth and called on her majesty, the Empress Dowager, at the Omiya Palace. The Empress Dowager was greatly pleased by the visit and held the lovely Crown Prince in her arms and gave him many tender words and toys. After about an hour's interview, his imperial highness returned to the imperial palace.

Social Life in the National Capital

WASHINGTON, May 19.

MRS. ROOSEVELT gave a garden party, a dinner and a musical at the White House all on the same day—Thursday. That same afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt took her two grandchildren, Sistie and Buzzie Dall to the circus. But she did not stay through the performance because she had to dash back to her other activities.

The White House garden party Thursday was the first of the season. It was given indoors, with lightning flashing outside and rain beating against the windows.

Virginia Mayo, daughter of Mrs. Pendleton Mayo, will be married June 2 to William Preston Smith III. The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock at the 1925 F Street club and will be followed by a reception.

Mary Preston Gibson will be married to Gale McLean, son of Mrs. Ridley McLean, wife of Admiral McLean, on June 9. The ceremony will take place in St. Thomas' Church and will be followed by a reception at Grass Lands. Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Henry L. Roosevelt will be among the bridesmaids.

A summer debutante unusual for Washington, but the garden tea which Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn gave Thursday afternoon for their daughter Miss Marianna Dunn was a debut party. Originally Miss Dunn's name was on the debutante list for next season, but when she came home from school so early in the spring Mr. and Mrs. Dunn decided she might as well come out now. In addition to the tea they are planning a dinner dance for her this evening, a young peoples part at the Sulgrave Club.

BOARD IS AGAINST CHANGE IN SCHOOL PLAYGROUND PLAN

Expected to Approve Operation This Summer When Question Comes Up Again June 12.

Members of the Board of Education anticipate that the board will approve operation of its summer playground system when the question is brought up for a second time at the next regular meeting June 12. However, some of the members believe a change in the system may be made after this year.

As a result of a proposal made May 8 by one member, Dr. Francis C. Sullivan, to abolish the school playgrounds, approval of this year's plans was deferred. Dr. Sullivan's unsuccessful motion was made after the board's attorney reported that the board had the right to conduct playgrounds if they did not detract from the primary obligation of furnishing general education,

Dr Sullivan later asserted economy was the object of his proposal. He called attention to the fact that the schools and the city operate separate playground systems, involving "costly duplication."

Budget Comes Up in July.

Another member of the board, who would not be quoted, said yesterday it was likely the board would consider co-ordination of the two systems or some other change in its own system, after this year. This question may come up at the July meeting, when the budget for 1934-35 is to be adopted.

President Todd predicted the board would vote 11 to 1, with only Dr. Sullivan in the negative, to renew the playground system this year. Preparations for the season are under way, he added, to avoid delay if the board approves.

Rodowe H. Abeken, a practicing lawyer, who has had the part-time job of supervisor of recreation for the board for a number of years, is a factor in discussion of the playground situation.

The Board of Education will have a special meeting Tuesday night to consider questions raised by success of the $2,000,000 school building bond issue in last week's election. The board applied to the PWA for a $2,000,000 loan and a $600,000 grant, anticipating that it would pledge the bonds for the loan. However, indications now are that a premium of several dollars on the $100 may be realized by selling the bonds on the commercial market. Accordingly the board will consider withdrawal of the loan application. Another question concerns issuance of the bonds in serial form to simplify their retirement, by staggering maturities.

Various communities have withdrawn PWA loan applications on finding bonds could be sold to advantage commercially. The board believes it will have a better chance of obtaining the $600,000 grant if it drops the request for the loan. It has proposed to apply the grant to payment of principal and interest of the bonds for the first several years. Whether this can be done if the bonds are not pledged with the PWA remains to be determined. In case the grant cannot be used for principal and interest, it would be available for additional construction, but the board would have to make new sinking fund arrangements.

H. S. Julian, state attorney for the PWA, said yesterday it was a question of policy to be decided at Washington as to whether a grant could be used for principal and interest when the PWA did not make a loan. A delegation representing the board probably will go to Washington this week to press for allotment of PWA funds.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES REPORT FOR 1933

$1,544,680 Spent Where 1932 Costs Were $1,292,652—New Orphanage Planned.

The twenty-third annual report of th Catholic Charities of St. Louis was made public yesterday by Archbishop Glennon, showing an expenditure of $1,544,680 during 1933, compared with $1,292,652 the previous year.

Most of the institutions included are members of United Relief, Inc., and derived considerable support from that organization during the year, the Archbishop states in a foreword.

Plans for a new building for St. Joseph's Orphanage, 4701 South Grand boulevard, were announced. This is to be constructed this year, but detailed plans are not ready for announcement, it was said at the orphanage.

Work in Four Groups.

The report divides the work of the Catholic Charities in four groups: Institutions which furnish a permanent home for the aged poor and children; hospitals, agencies which aid the poor at their headquarters, and those which do relief work in the field.

In the first of these classifications, the work carried on during the past year by 13 different institutions was reported, showing a total of 2225 individuals under permanent care at a total cost of $378,659. Institutions making up this total include the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home, the German St. Vincent's Orphan Association, Hessoun Bohemian Catholic Orphanage, the Home of the Aged (Little Sisters of the Poor), St. Ann's Foundling Asylum, St. Dominico Italian Orphan Home, St. Frances' Orphan Home, St. Joseph's Convent of Mercy, St. Joseph's Institute, St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum, St. Mary's Female Orphan Asylum and St. Philomena's Technical School.

Eleven hospitals included in the Catholic Charities organization, furnished, during 1933, a total of 141,581 days of free care, while the cots of charity work done at these institutions aggregated $554,145. Hospitals included in this report were: Alexian Brothers, De Paul, Firmin Desloge. Mount St. Rose Sanatorium, Mother of Good Counsel Home for Incurables, St. Ann's Maternity Hospital, St. Anthony's St. John's, St. Mary's Hospital, St. Mary's Infirmary and St. Vincent's Sanitarium.

Report on Other Agencies.

Under the heading of institutions aiding poor at headquarters or in their own homes but furnishing no permanent home were included seven organizations. During the past year these gave needed assistance to a total of 2784 individuals at a cost of $94,332. Agencies included in this classification were the Catholic Outing Home, the Catholic Women's League Day Nursery, Guardian Angel Settlement, Ozanam Shelter for Men, St. Elizabeth's Settlement, St. Patrick's Day Nursery and the Sisters of Mercy Home for Girls.

Organizations engaged in the field of general outdoor relief work aided 26,842 individuals at a total cost of $523,789. These included the Catholic Women's Association, the Cheer Club, Daughters of Isabella, Ladies of Charity and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. The latter organization, by far the largest of the group, aided 16,842 individuals at a total cost during the year of $517,544.79.

TO DISCUSS METHODIST MERGER

Committees to Meet in Baltimore Oct. 10 to 14.

CLEVELAND, O., May 19.—Terms for uniting 8,000,000 Methodists in one church probably will be prepared at a meeting in Baltimore, Oct. 10 to 14, Bishop William F. McDowell told the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday.

He said the commissions on reunion appointed by Methodist churches north and south and by the Methodist Protestant Church would hold their first joint meeting in the Maryland city in connection with the sesqui-centennial observance of the coming of Methodism to this country. The Methodist denomination has been divided since 1928, when one group withdrew to form the Methodist Protestant Church. A split in 1844 over the slavery question resulted in organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

MICHIGAN U. RECEIVES GIFT OF 'HEAVY' WATER

2500 Gallons to Be Concentrated in Two Quarts for Research Work.

(Copyright, 1934.)

NEW YORK, May 19.—Two thousand, five hundred gallons of water has been given to the University of Michigan.

The water is prized by the physics and chemistry department as the mother fluid of the rare "heavy" water. Several months from now the 2500 gallons will be concentrated in about two quarts. It will then make possible two years of research.

The donor of the special water is the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co., located at Wyandotte, Mich. A side line of the company was the production of hydrogen and oxygen by the process of passing an electric current through common drinking water and separating the two atoms of hydrogen and one atom of oxygen present in every molecule.

Ultimately the separation of the hydrogen and oxygen reached a stage where the law of diminishing returns became operative and what water remained was drained off. The drainage was a waste product until "heavy" water was discovered.

It has been found that the waste contains the heavy, overweight form of hydrogen, called deuterium.

CONGRESS ACCEPTS STATUE OF LEE AFTER 25 YEARS

Civil War Passions Are Dead, Says Senator Walsh in Accepting Virginia Gift.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Congress formally accepted yesterday bronze statues of George Washington and Robert E. Lee, which were turned down 25 years ago when first offered by Virginia for the Hall of Fame.

Contrasted with House floor debate on whether General Lee, the Confederate, should be given national recognition—the stumbling block to official acknowledgment—were the words of Senator Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, who received the statues as "the delegate of Congress."

Acceptance of the Lee statue, he said, "is in the nature of a final attestation of the entire extinguishment of the passions which once divided our country and set brother against brother, and which lingered long after all arms had been laid down."

Gov. George C. Peery of Virginia, in offering the statues, said a review of the roster of Virginia's illustrious sons "brings us unerringly back to two."

PERFORMANCE TO AID JOBLESS MUSICIANS

2000 Auditorium Seats for Kenyon-Salvi Show Donated to Union.

The entire proceeds of the sale of about 2000 seats for the performance by Doris Kenyon and Alberto Salvi in the Condon Concert Course, at the Municipal Auditorium Thursday night, will be donated by Oscar Condon, manager of the course, to the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association for the aid of unemployed musicians.

Condon announced yesterday that all seats for this performance not held by season subscribers were subject to the donation. About 1500 seats, he said, are held by season ticket purchasers. Some other season holders have returned tickets for sale in the benefit.

Tickets are on sale at 1004 Olive street and members of the Musicians' Union also are obtaining subscriptions. Prices are $2 for orchestra seats, $1.50 in the dress circle and $1 in the balcony.

Miss Kenyon, who calls her entertainment "lyric silhouettes," is a noted diseuse and Salvi is a widely harpist.

Samuel P. Meyers, president of the Musicians' Union, accepted Condon's offer and the union has issued a general invitation to St. Louisans to buy tickets. The union has about 1200 members, of whom only about 200 are employed. Many of the unemployed and their families are destitute, leaders say. About 400 of the musicians have asked the Citizens' Committee for Relief and Employment for help. Those who are employed have been assessed 1½ per cent of their earnings for the union's relief fund, but this has been exhausted.

The city has been unable to provide funds for park concerts since 1929. Recently the Federal Emergency Relief Administration gave $6000 for a series of band concerts and orchestra concerts in parks and other public places here this month, but this gave part-time work to only 150 musicians.

Missing Officer Legally Dead.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 19.—After a seven-year absence and an extensive search, Fidelio S. Carter, a retired Lieutenant Commander in the United States Navy, was declared legally dead today by Surrogate James A. Foley. His $200,000 estate will be apportioned among several heirs, among them a sister, Mrs. Dora C. Hogan, of Danville, Ill., who inherits one-sixth.

SUIT TO OUST TRUSTEE OF FORSHAW ESTATE

Five Sisters Charge Their Brother, Joseph Jr. With Irregularities.

Five daughters of the late Joseph Forshaw, founder of a large stove business, filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday to remove their brother, Joseph Jr., as trustee of their father's $300,000 estate.

They seek the appointment of a receiver for the estate, and an accounting of amounts which "the Court may find to have been improperly expended" by the trustee.

The petition was filed by Attorneys Max W. Kramer and Stephen S. Rogers, who represent the dissatisfied heirs, Miss Lucille Forshaw, Mrs. June Marsh, Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenthal, Mrs. Adelaid McMullen and Mrs. Anne Bucklew.

Delay in Payments Charged.

The plaintiffs alleged their brother has assumed arbitrary control of the property of their father, although, by the terms of the will, the estate should have been distributed immediately among the heirs.

Only a part of the money received from the city as damages in condemnation proceedings for the Memorial Plaza, it is charged, has been distributed by the trustee, who now holds $30,000 which he declines to apportion among the heirs. Records show the city allowed $208,867 damages to the Forshaw firm at 109-11 North Twelfth boulevard.

The daughters say Forshaw spent, improperly, about $26,000 to improve the Twelfth boulevard property "when condemnation was imminent, and he should have known that the expenditure would be a total loss to the estate."

Also it is alleged Forshaw moved the business to the present location, 112 South Twelfth boulevard, executing a lease for seven years more than the term of his 10-year trusteeship, and has used a good part of the funds of the estate to guarantee the lease; that he has "improperly" expended $10,200 to improve the premises, and that he has caused other heirs to pay income taxes which should have been borne by him.

Exorbitant Salaries Alleged.

He has "conducted the business in a manner not to be conducive of profit," the petition continues, by drawing exorbitant salaries, and has taken frequent vacations, neglecting the business. He has made bank loans for the firm without consulting other heirs, it is charged, and "has sustained numerous other losses by his neglectful conduct."

Forshaw, who lives at 1234 Bellevue avenue, Richmond Heights, could not be reached. He is a widely known athlete and former member of three United States Olympic marathon teams. He was active in the revival and participated as a player in St. Louis ice hockey contests.

A brother, John, did not join in the suit for his removal.

FOR BETTER WEATHER REPORTS TO AVIATORS

Federal Bureau Issues Orders to Provide Up-to-the-Minute Service.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 19.—Complaints by flyers concerning the occasional unreliability of weather reports broadcast to airplanes in flight by airways radio stations of the Department of Commerce have resulted in the issuance of a special circular by W. R. Gregg, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, setting forth detailed new procedure to be followed in order to render this service more reliable and as nearly up to the minute as possible. Even in cases where there has been no slackness on the part of observers, the new regulations are expected to result in the broadcast of information not more than five minutes old, whereas observations heretofore frequently were taken half an hour or more in advance and might be perilously out of date.

For Closer Checking of Weather.

"Advice received indicates that at some stations checks of the weather during the intervals between regular hourly reports are not made consistently," Dr. Gregg's memorandum says, "and that the same observations too many times are used for broadcasts of local weather on the half hour as were taken 40 or more minutes previously, even though the weather is decidedly unsettled. An important part of the Weather Bureau service to aviation is the furnishing of accurate and up-to-the-minute information as to weather conditions at any reporting point on an airway and laxity in this respect will inevitably lead to placing the service in disrepute and possibly to very severe and just criticism in case of accidents occurring during adverse weather conditions."

Orders to Observers.

The order then describes the methods to be followed in taking observations including the filing for broadcast of special reports on unexpected developments in the weather. It calls for "a complete check of the weather" at all airport and first-order stations just prior to the local weather broadcast at 30 minutes after the hour and specifies that a frequent check is to be made on "ceiling, visibility and weather."

"The checking will be made," says the circular, "from the regular observation point, i. e., it will not consist of a casual glance out the windows of the office, but will consist of an entirely new observation of the visual elements of a report.

"The personnel at either airport stations or airways stations manned by airways observers shall be awake and alert at all times, particularly at night."

Comparison With Private Service.

The aeronautics branch, Department of Commerce, with which Dr. Gregg has co-operated in this matter, meanwhile has been engaged on a quiet comparison of its weather broadcasting service, as compared with services maintained by the commercial air lines. This survey is not yet finished.

The following instruction was recently sent out by Eugene Sibley, communications chief in the air navigation division of the Department of Commerce:

"Marker beacon stations designated by the Superintendent of Airways shall enter the time of transmission and a verbatim record on Form AB-406 of weather information transmitted by the aeronautical ground stations to aircraft concerning weather conditions at Newark, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Oakland, Portland, Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Kansas City, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Atlanta and Fort Worth."

MAY GIVE TROTZKY TO RUSSIA IF HE MAKES UP WITH STALIN

French Officials Think He Has Changed Mind in Quarrel With Soviet Chief.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 19.—France would gladly give Leon Trotzky back to Russia, officials indicated last night, if, through the intercession of Foreign Commissar Litvinoff, he patches up his quarrel with Dictator Stalin.

Trotzky was last reported to be somewhere near Annecy, Upper Savoy, and was said to have despaired of finding a refuge outside of France.

French officials have given numerous indications they feared to have Trotzky on their hands for an extended time. Nationalists and Communists alike have been clamoring for his expulsion. In political circles it was said Trotzky probably had changed his ideas about the Fourth Internationale, which rivals Stalin's Third Internationale.

CALLS PWA PLAN 'FAILURE'

Architect in Address Lays the Blame on Secretary Ickes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Referring to the public works program as a "failure," Ralph T. Walker of New York told the American Institute of Architects yesterday that responsibility was attributable to Secretary of the Interior Ickes, the administrator.

Walker asserted Ickes knew "practically nothing" of the construction industry, and had "taken the position that the entire industry is crooked." Walker called for the divorce of PWA from the Interior Department.

ST. LOUIS LEADS BIG CITIES IN MURDER RATE FOR 1934

Also Heads List for Number of Assaults on Women, Study Shows.

Statistics of crime conditions of 13 of the largest cities in the country, during the first quarter of the year, recently compiled by Irving Weissman, research director of the St. Louis Community Council, put St. Louis in first place in two major offenses against persons, those of murder and criminal assault. Cities included in the study were Boston, Baltimore, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and San Francisco.

Murders committed in St. Louis during the first quarter of the year averaged 2.6 per 100,000 population, a rate which was approached only by Chicago, second with 2.2. Buffalo reported no murders at all during that period, while San Francisco and Detroit reported a murder rate of .9 per 100,000 population. In the second major offense, that of criminal assault on women, St. Louis held first place during the first quarter of the year with 4.7 offenses of this kind per 100,000 population, while Los Angeles came second in number with 4.4 offenses per 100,000 population.

The rest of the criminal category gives precedence to other cities, Weissman's study shows. Chicago, for instance, leads by a surprisingly wide margin in such offenses against property as robbery and burglary, with 123.1 and 183.5 crimes, respectively, per 100,000 population, as compared with 30.8 and 57.3, respectively, for St. Louis.

16 PCT. OF PEOPLE IN COUNTY GET RELIEF

Trend Steadily Upward, Director Says—34,200 Now on the Rolls.

The number of families and individuals receiving relief in St. Louis County still shows a constant trend upward, with the result that new peaks on the number of families who must receive aid are established almost daily, according to Miss Lois Phillips, personnel director of the St. Louis County Welfare Association, which handles about 90 per cent of the relief cases in the county.

Miss Phillips said yesterday that the association was now caring for 6840 families, or about 34,200 individuals. This is about 16 per cent of the county's population.

Costs $112,000 a Month.

Monthly expenditures for relief work are now about $112,000, of which $104,000 is supplied from Federal funds and the rest from private funds. About $100,000 of the total expenditures goes for direct relief; the rest is devoted to various forms of work relief. During the last month 640 men have been employed from 18 to 24 hours a week in the work relief program in the county.

Of 1423 cases listed since April 1, when a total of 5407 families were receiving relief, 796 families had never received relief before, but the others had been helped intermittently. Of the families now receiving relief in the county, 6587 are classed as public cases. Their distress is due chiefly to unemployment. It is for their care that the Government funds are contributed and used. Private cases—those families that are likely to need relief regardless of employment conditions—total 253 and are cared for from private funds of the association.

Home Gardens Started.

Home gardens have been started at the residences of 3500 of the charges in an effort to reduce the demand for food. A community garden, operated by the association at Goodfellow and Natural Bridge avenues, is being worked by families receiving relief who have no ground available near their homes. Seed and garden implements are furnished by the relief agency, as well as transportation for workers in the gardens.

The number of families receiving relief in the county rose from 600 in June, 1932, to 4700 last November. Due to employment provided by the CWA, the number dropped to 3200 by January of this year. Since the cessation of CWA work there has been a steady increase in the number of families asking for relief. In addition to the welfare organization, Webster Groves chapter of the Red Cross and the St. Vincent de Paul Society are giving relief. These organizations handle about 10 per cent of the county cases.

REPLEVIN SUIT AGAINST FORMER MRS. THOMASSON

Baldwin Co. Seeks to Recover Piano and Radio From Her.

A replevin suit to recover a piano and radio was filed yesterday against Mrs. Grace Mahood Thomasson Diefenbach by the Baldwin Piano Co., 1111 Olive street.

The piano, valued at $1000, was rented to her in 1931, according to the petition, while she was married to her fifth husband, the late Hugh W. Thomasson, capitalist, 44 years her senior. She agreed, it is claimed, to pay $25 a month, but has failed to pay anything. The $250 radio was delivered a year later, the petition states, but has not been paid for. Both are in storage.

Mrs. Diefenbach, whose affairs as the wife of Thomasson were aired in various courts during the last few years, has separated from her sixth husband, Oscar Diefenbach, night club entertainer, since he was arrested recently for cashing a worthless check he said she gave him. Charges against him were dropped.

GOING TO TRIAL TOMORROW FOR SHOWING NUDIST MOVIE

The case against Glenn Condon, manager of the New Grand Central Theater, charged with "publication of an indecent picture," will be called for trial tomorrow before Judge Dickmann in Court of Criminal Correction.

The charge, a misdemeanor, results from a police raid May 9 on the theater where the film, "Elysia," dealing with life in a nudist colony, was being shown. Police arrested Condon and stopped the show after two reels had been presented.

Mrs. Arretus Burt, president of the Better Films Council, said it would leave the presentation of evidence against Condon to police. The council, Mrs. Burt said, had persuaded operators of other theaters in St. Louis not to show the film.

WHEN the INDIAN GIRL THREW a ROSE to the FRENCH GALLANT

Thomas Barada and his wife. Thomas is the present head of the Barada family and the grandson of Michael Barada and Laughing Buffalo.

He Followed Her Into the American Wilds—and Now the Romance Between Michael Barada and Laughing Buffalo Has Come to Light Again in a Bill Before Congress Introduced in Behalf of Their Descendants.

Elwood Harlan, president of the Omaha Indian Tribal Council, who is using his influence to have the Baradas admitted to the tribe.

By KEITH KERMAN

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT was a spring day in Paris and Michael Barada was 20. As he sauntered along a fashionable street, very gay in the silk, ribbons and ruffles of a young French gallant of the court of Louis XVI, he surveyed the world with a roving, adventurous eye and felt within him that vague, exciting expectancy which spring brings to youth. He strutted a little, his sword in its jeweled scabbard swinging jauntily.

In front of the house of a nobleman, Michael halted abruptly. Something had dropped at his feet from one of the windows. It was a rose, romantically red. The youth glanced swiftly and saw, framed in the window, the piquant face of a girl. He had time for just a glimpse of white teeth and smiling lips and a moment's look into dark, seductive eyes. Then the casement closed, cutting off a murmur of soft laughter.

Michael picked up the rose and went on his way. His heart was singing, but he walked more slowly, more thoughtfully. Something had happened to him in that brief meeting of eyes. Romance had lost its vagueness, romance had centered in the girl at the window.

So young Michael Barada fell in love on a spring day in Paris.

So began the romance that was to send this youth of gentle birth from the gay luxury of the French court to a life of hardship in the New World and keep him roaming for ten years through the wilderness in search of a girl seen but for a moment. It was a romance that is now engaging, a hundred and fifty years later, the attention of the Congress of the United States. A bill relating to the descendants of Michael Barada is now pending in the House of Representatives. The bill was introduced by Congressman Edgar Howard of Nebraska and the romance is officially told in the report made by the Committee on Indian Affairs which accompanied the bill.

The day after young Michael acquired a rose and lost his heart, he returned to the scene of his adventure. But there was no rose for him this time, no face at the window. The following day, when he had again failed to see the girl, he made inquiry of the owner of the house and learned her identity. She was an Indian who, with others of her race, had been brought to Paris by the French Government in order that the people of the capital might see the aborigines of America, and that these visiting Indians, in turn, might, when they got home, spread word of the wonder and might of France among the tribes.

The girl was Tae-Gle-Ha, or Laughing Buffalo. She was 17 years old, and had spent a year in the capital.

All this information Michael gathered eagerly. Then came an additional fact which dealt his hopes a heavy blow. Tae-Gle-Ha had left Paris for America the day after he had seen her, just some 24 hours before he learned who she was.

But the high-spirited Michael, after a short period of despondency, refused to accept defeat from an outrageous fortune. A few days later he, too, took ship for America to find Tae-Gle-Ha.

In his impetuous ardor and ignorance of things American, young Barada had neglected to supply himself with certain data without which his quest would seem hopeless to any practical person. He didn't know that the girl he sought was a member of the Oo-maha (now called Omaha) tribe, which was living in territory embraced by the present states of Wisconsin and Iowa. He didn't know anything about the division of Indians in tribes or their respective territories. He didn't know anything about the geography of the country to which he was going. He didn't even know the port to which the Indian girl's ship had sailed. The port was New Orleans, from where Tae-Gle-Ha went up the river, through St. Louis, to her people in the North. Barada's boat landed him in Montreal one day in the late 1780's. And it was only after many inquiries there proved fruitless that he realized how stupendous was the task he had undertaken: the finding of an Indian girl, tribe and habitat unknown, somewhere in the vast reaches of American forests and plains.

But Michael was not deterred. He joined a band of trappers and went with them into Indian country, far from civilization. He set himself to learn as much as possible about Indians. In time he became a skilled hunter and trapper and often ranged the wilds alone. Always he inquired of Indians he met about Tae-Gle-Ha, Laughing Buffalo.

He early discovered that in the Sioux tongue, the base of most of the northern and western Indian languages, "tae" meant buffalo. This enabled him to narrow his search a bit, for when he came upon a tribe which had a different word for buffalo he knew it was useless to seek among them.

Year after year the search went on. The callow, romantic youth became a lean, bronzed, self-reliant man, an expert, hardened woodsman. France and his easy, frivolous existence there became a dim memory. But he held tenaciously to his purpose.

On the shores of Lake Superior Barada met one day a band of wandering Indians who told him of a tribe far to the south, some of whose members spoke French. Ready to investigate everything that even remotely suggested a clew, the trapper turned southward.

In the Wisconsin country he found small bands of a tribe whose main body had moved westward. With the main body, he was told, were Indians who could speak French; some had even been to France. Also, in the language of this tribe, tae was the word for buffalo. Barada, despite many disappointments, grew hopeful again and hastened on. He crossed the Mississippi and traveled down into what now is Iowa.

Barada reached at last a village of the tribe of which he had been told, the Oo-mahas. As he passed before a skin tepee before which sat an old squaw, he heard her call to someone inside. The name she called was Tae-Gle-Ha. Barada stopped, waited. A young woman came to the door of the tepee and looked out.

It was Laughing Buffalo, his lady of the rose. His search was over. It had lasted 10 years.

Antoine Barada.

Tae-Gle-Ha at 27 was still unmarried. It was not for lack of suitors. At the time of her visit to France she was considered the prettiest maiden of her tribe. And her family was influential; her brother, Wa-nu-ke-ga, was a chief of the Omahas. But her year's contact with white civilization made her unwilling to become the wife of an Indian brave. Perhaps, too, the look she had exchanged through a window with young Michael Barada one spring day in Paris had something to do with it.

Two weeks after their second meeting she and Barada were married by an Indian ceremony. Later the service was performed for them by a Jesuit priest. Barada became a member of the tribe.

The Omahas moved, some time afterward, across the Missouri River into territory which is now Nebraska. And in 1807, a few miles from where the city of Omaha now stands, a son was born to Michael Barada and Laughing Buffalo in the first house built by a white man in Nebraska. The boy was named Antoine. Within the next few years two girls were born to the couple.

When Antoine was a small boy the family moved to St. Louis, journeying down the Missouri River on a flatboat. Antoine grew to manhood and returned to the Indian country as a trapper, maintaining headquarters, however, in St. Louis, the chief center of the fur trade in the United States. In 1836 Antoine married in Carondelet—then an independent community on the outskirts of St. Louis—Marcellite Vient, daughter of Jean Baptiste Vient. The ceremony was performed by Father Saulnier. The record of the marriage, written in French, appears in one of the old parish registers preserved at the Church of SS. Mary and Joseph in Carondelet.

Some time afterward Antoine and his family moved to Nebraska, settling in Richardson County, where the town of Barada was named for him. He died in 1886 and is buried in the Barada cemetery.

Antoine's son, Thomas Barada, is now the patriarch of the family. He and his wife live on a farm on the Omaha Reservation, near Rosalie, Nebraska. A few years ago they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Thomas Barada never saw his grandfather, Michael, or his Indian grandmother, as they died before he was born. But he says he has heard his father tell the story of their romance. He remembers his father, Antoine, as a mighty man. "They used to say," he relates, "that he was the strongest man west of the Mississippi. I have heard that

THE ROW OVER the TWO CHINESE MOVIE QUEENS

Miss Cheng Yu-mei Won the Crown in a Big Popularity Contest but the Supporters of Miss Butterfly Wu Refused to Accept the Verdict — and the Battle Was On.

Miss Cheng Yu-mei, who was crowned the "Movie Queen of 1934."

SHANGHAI.

WAR lords and bandits may ravage the back country, and the Japanese may be consolidating their conquest of the border provinces—but amid all of these distractions, China has found the time and energy to get all wrought up about a row between two movie actresses. Strictly speaking, the row isn't between the actresses at all, but between their admirers.

Both the actresses are Chinese. They appear in Chinese films, and the Occidental world has hardly so much as heard of them. But they are big names in China, especially around Shanghai, and the row between their cohorts has grown intense.

One of the ladies is the radiant and celebrated Miss Butterfly Wu. The other is the equally radiant and celebrated Miss Cheng Yu-mei. The trouble started when one of the newspapers in Shanghai conducted a straw ballot for the title of "Movie Queen of 1934"—thus proving that the ways of the press agent are not entirely unknown in the ancient land of the dragon.

At the conclusion of this campaign the title was awarded to Miss Cheng, who in private life is Mrs. Shao Tsui-ong, wife of the managing director of the Unique Film Company.

Immediately the storm arose. Most of the other newspapers in Shanghai jumped into the argument with both feet, denouncing the vote as a fraud and asserting stoutly that the title ought to have gone to Miss Wu. They pointed out that a picture, "Two Sisters," starring Miss Wu, played to full houses at the Strand Theater for two months, every seat being sold at every performance — an all-time high record for movie attendance in China.

As a matter of fact, Miss Wu's popularity is so great, and her Oriental beauty is so entrancing, that she is actually blamed in certain fanatical patriotic quarters for the loss of the northeastern provinces of Manchuria to Japan.

Although it seems a bit odd, by Western standards, to blame a mere movie actress, no matter how lovely, for a great military reverse, the Chinese patriots explain it in this way, in all seriousness.

AT the crucial moment in 1931, they say, Miss Wu was playing in Peiping. Many high military officials, who ought to have been bending every effort to preparations for war, became enamored of her and stayed in Peiping in order to be near her. They became so involved in love affairs that they failed to hear the rumble of drums and the crackle of rifle fire to the north.

Whether these love affairs were with Miss Wu herself or were love affairs with other maidens, inspired by the delectable presence and personality of the actress, is not made clear. But the patriots take the charges seriously, and zealots have several times gone so far as to threaten her life.

While playing in Nanking recently, Miss Wu received a letter written in human blood and accompanied by a lead bullet. The letter warned her to leave China instantly, under penalty of death.

"Your songs and dances while appearing in Peiping during the start of the Manchurian war caused the downfall of the northern government and the alienation of the border provinces," the letter asserted. "Residents of the capital city, however, will not listen any more to the voice that caused the subjugation of the nation, nor look at your beautiful complexion that caused the fall of a government."

When news of this letter was first made public, there were those cynical enough to suggest that it was all the work of a press agent—proving once more that ancient China has not been slow to catch on to the Western device of the public relations counsel.

However, sober observers doubt very much that any press agent, however energetic, would take such chances with the easily-aroused passions of the fanatical Chinese patriots. Furthermore, while Miss Wu herself disregarded the whole affair, officials of the movie studios went nearly frantic over it, and did their best to hush up the news of the threats.

A little while later, while appearing in Hangchow, Miss Wu was made the target for another attack by the patriots. This attack came from an organization rejoicing in the gory title of "The Bloody Group for the Extermination of Traitors."

It stirred up a mob to gather outside the theater in which she was appearing, demanding that the beautiful movie queen stop singing her alluring songs and dancing her alluring dances during a time of national crisis.

This was followed by a threat from the self-styled "Anti-Communist Society" of Hangchow, which delivered a warning to the city government that the theater would be bombed if Miss Wu were permitted to continue her engagement there.

AS it happened, both of these disturbances passed by and no especial damage was done. The mob was dispersed, and the theater went unbombed; but the whole business showed how closely the figure of the lovely, slant-eyed movie actress is involved in the most burning issue of the day.

Meanwhile, the rivalry between adherents of Miss Wu and adherents of Miss Cheng continues unabated, and gathers much space in the newspapers of Shanghai. And it all demonstrates a thing which may be surprising to Americans—the fact that there actually is a flourishing Chinese movie industry, making films for Chinese audiences with Chinese casts and Chinese directors, and enjoying in China the same sort of prestige that Hollywood enjoys in the United States.

To be sure, the business is by no means as far-flung as the American movie industry. Every small town in the United States has its movie theater, and the stars of the film world are as famous in remote country hamlets as they are in New York and Los Angeles. In China it is different;

George F. Baker.

The ROMANCE that MERGED TWO GREAT AMERICAN FORTUNES

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

Mrs. John Mortimer Schiff, formerly Miss Edith Brevoort Baker.

THE romantic merger of two of the most important families in the world of high finance took place this month when Miss Edith Baker and John Mortimer Schiff were married.

Not only were two great fortunes united, but what is perhaps more interesting was the fact that the marriage also represented the meeting, at last, of two family trails that have run parallel for three generations in the realm of American finance. Miss Edith Baker is the daughter of George F. Baker Jr., president of New York's First National Bank, which his father, the late "Sage of Wall Street," built into one of the world's most powerful financial institutions.

On the other hand, young John Schiff, who is only 29, is himself a partner in the great banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, which his grandfather, the late Jacob Schiff, raised to a position of power and prestige second only to that of the House of Morgan. It was one of the favorite sayings of this same philosophical Jacob Schiff that "On the mountain top all paths unite!" The wisdom of his observation is now being borne out by the meeting in marriage of his own grandson and the granddaughter of the man who was his contemporary among the financial Titans who dominated the closing decades of the last century.

Although the origins of these two converging family trails were far apart, they began to run more closely parallel in the careers of the grandfathers of the newly betrothed couple. Both George Baker and Jacob Schiff played vital roles simultaneously in the creation and development of the industrial-financial structure of present-day America.

George F. Baker was born in Troy, New York, in 1840, descended from a line of shrewd, blue-eyed Yankees that went back to Boston and 1635. His parents, however, were poor, and while still a young boy he was sent for a time to live with his grandparents at Dedham, Massachusetts. Among the relatives there was an Uncle John who seemed to spend most of his time comfortably rocking on the front porch, while everyone else was engaged in working for a living. George was puzzled at this phenomenon, and on making inquiry learned that Uncle John didn't have to work because he lived on "interest money." This seemed to be a highly desirable condition of existence to young George and he promptly resolved to follow Uncle John's example.

He set about fulfilling his new resolve in direct, characteristic fashion. Going into nearby cranberry fields, he gleaned the berries which the pickers had left lying on the ground under the bushes, hauled them into town and sold them for $7.

HIS father, after failing in the shoe business and trying his hand more successfully at journalism, became secretary in Washington to Senator Seward, and through this connection obtained for his son, George, now a young man of 16, the appointment of clerk in the New York State Banking Department at Albany. He worked hard and saved out of his $500-a-year salary, and even found time for strenuous diversion, winning the first single sculling championship of the Upper Hudson.

Advancing from clerkship to the position of bank examiner, he had increased contact with New York bankers and decided to try his luck in the big city. He was 23 years old at the time, and his decision was made at an opportune time. John Thompson took out the first national bank charter in New York that same year, 1863, and the first man he hired was Baker, who became clerk, then assistant teller and finally cashier of the First National at the start of the '70s. This bank, of which Thompson's son, Samuel, was president, played a large part in selling Government bonds that financed the Civil War, and after the war became the Treasury's agent in New York for buying and handling foreign exchange.

Just before the panic of 1873 the bank, apparently on Baker's advice, had turned over much of its London business to Jay Cooke, McCullough & Company, London partner of Jay Cooke of Philadelphia. When the panic came, Jay Cooke failed, as did its London partner, with considerable loss in money and prestige to the First National.

This incident provoked internal dissension among the officers of the First National. A rift developed between Baker and Samuel Thompson, and the latter finally declared that Baker would either have to get out or buy him out. With money that he had saved and the assistance of friends, Baker chose the latter course and at the age of 37 found himself president of the bank. Under his di-

HOLLYWOOD, California.

FOR upwards of 400 years Paris has held uncontested sway over the fashions of the Western world. Since France eclipsed the luxuriousness of the little Italian city states—Venice, Genoa, Florence—her couturiers have designed the garments of every civilized city, from Stockholm to Madrid, sometimes for men, always for women. In the last century or so, the French designer has been more monopolistic, if possible, than before, the sacrosanct arbiter of the wardrobe.

But now there is a revolution, and it seems the cards are stacked against future domination of the Parisian dictators. Hollywood is the rebel, and Hollywood wields an instrument more powerful than the pencil which won the couturier, Gabrielle Chanel, her $15,000,000 fortune. The movies are the most universal style missionaries that ever existed, and Hollywood stylists are the lieutenants of the movies.

Of course, the French couturier is well entrenched. He (or she) is in possession of a tradition in artistic designing that no mere show of force can obliterate. But the couturier is dependent on a clientele which lives in magnificence and is trained to excellent taste. The movie designer is not so limited. Whenever a striking dress is created for a popular star in a successful picture, hundreds of women all over the world can copy it or demand that their "ladies' ready-to-wear" establishment keep it in stock. The success of the couturier is predicated on the appreciation of princesses and millionaire first-nighters—whose leadership is seriously threatened by the omnipresent film star.

Look at the world of the "haute couture"—the ring of dictators which has dominated the style world so long. Its predominance came about when Charles Frederick Worth set up his shop in Paris and became the court designer for Empress Eugenie. (Before that there were fine dressmakers, but the court ladies themselves were the designers). Worth started the custom of having "collections" twice a year, and showings to which fashionable ladies made pilgrimages. These customs are still prevalent today, but a showing where small groups of social and theatrical leaders lounge in chairs and sip champagne while the models file by cannot compete with a showing for millions of housewives and shopgirls and stenographers all over the world, even if the designer be a great artist like Jean Patou, who recently brought back long skirts in one single, daring gesture by having every one of his 350 designs a revolt against the prevailing mode.

The attack against the couturiers began about 12 years ago, when the falling franc made it necessary for Paris to export large quantities of designs to America. The Parisians not only had to export designs which the American women wanted to buy, they had to sell them to Parisians, so that America was really dictating the fashions to Paris. Vionnet, Lanvin, Mainboucher and Schiaparelli had to modify their patterns to suit the taste of the great public in Chicago and Des Moines and Dubuque—the same public which daily files into innumerable movie palaces throughout America.

But that was only a prelude to the latest attack on French supremacy. Now there is a regular race for new and effective ideas, between the shrewd couturiers and their movie rivals 6000 miles away. The movie costumers have developed a certain facility by this time. Their designs are not so consistently "stagy" as they were a few years ago when Gabrielle Chanel made her futile visit to the West coast in the optimistic belief that

WHY the JAPANESE TENNIS STAR DROWNED HIMSELF

TOKIO.

"THIS is the last of my farewell messages. Within the next few minutes I shall have committed my unworthy body to the seas, for the gods thereof to do with what they will. Death may seize my bones and flesh in its embrace, but my inner-being—my spirit—shall glow forever like the sun.

"And, until pebbles into huge rocks grow, moss-covered by unceasing time, my spirit shall continue to cry 'Tennoh-Heika Banzai!' "

"Long live our Emperor"—"Tennoh-Heika Banzai"—the cry of all loyal sons of the Mikado.

As the writer finished scribbling the foregoing, he donned the robes of an ancient Samurai, and then solemnly made his obeisance before his own death shrine, which he had prepared in Japanese fashion, in his cabin on the liner Hakone Maru.

With all the stoicism and mysticism that characterizes the Nipponese mentality, he chants his own requiem. A last salute to a photographic likeness of his Emperor, and he is ready for the supreme experience—Death!

Quietly he leaves his cabin, and calmly ascends to the after lounge deck of the giant passenger craft, where he unexpectedly encounters two chair stewards, both of whom he hails with the cry, "Tennoh-Heika Banzai!"

There is the quick pitter-patter of hurrying, running feet, and over the rail vaults the weirdly costumed figure—like the ghost of a warrior of old Japan—into the swirling waters of the Malacca Straits, off Singapore.

In such a dramatic fashion did Jiroh Satoh, world-famous tennis player and captain of Japan's Davis Cup team, recently end his life.

As suicide is regarded as an act of heroism in Dai Nippon, the acclaimed successor to the tennis crown of the American Tilden sought in this fantastic form of "seppuki" the honor he feared he would be unable to secure again on the courts.

Satoh's suicide was the climax of a tragedy of despair. That his ruler, Emperor Hirohito, the "Son of Heaven," might be honored in alien lands, he had no alternative save to obey the demands of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association that he go to England to take part in the match against Australia in the second round of the Davis trophy contests.

Vigorously did Satoh protest that his leaving Japan for a long stay in England would mean the wrecking of his happiness. He had made all his plans for marriage. In fact, the wedding ceremony was to be held within the next few days. He had already sent his bride-to-be a long piece of gold embroidery for her "marriage girdle" and a bolt of white silk for her wedding dress.

The great tennis star tearfully explained that the soothsayers had already chosen the wedding day, and that marriage upon his return from England, late in the summer, would be attended with ill-luck, for so it was written in the stars.

As one on the eve of marriage, Satoh had already sent his future parents-in-law valuable works of art, and his prospective wife had already made her arrangements for the bucket of nuptial clams, and the clam bearer had been chosen.

Sorely disappointed and humiliated would be his fiancee, Miss Sanae Okado, also a noted tennis star, if their marriage was delayed beyond the day originally chosen by the soothsayers, cried Satoh.

He also reminded the officials of the association that he was not in prime physical condition. He was still weak from a recent attack of lobar pneumonia, and was fearful that taking part in such a strenuous game as tennis might impair his health permanently.

His pleas that he had served his country "well and honorably on the tennis court," and was now entitled to his discharge, fell on deaf ears. When he sought to explain how anxious he was to resume his studies at Waseda University and settle down to a peaceful career of scholarship and domesticity, he was rebuked for his lack of patriotism.

Bluntly was he told by the heads of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association that his personal wishes and health were of no moment, and that the honor of Dai Nippon was all that mattered.

Amid the cheering "Banzais" of Government dignitaries, army and naval leaders, officials of the tennis association, and thousands of athletic enthusiasts, all assembled on the docks at Kobe, the great tennis star bade a tearful farewell to his land and his distressed sweetheart. He expressed the fear that he would never see either again. It was not long after the Hakone Maru had left that the other members of the Japanese cup team—Nishimura, Yamagashi and Fujikura—realized that their captain was on the verge of a complete breakdown. He was hysterical with grief at the idea of being parted so long from the girl he loved.

During the voyage from Kobe to Singapore his depression grew and grew; he could not shake it off; and wireless message after wireless message he sent to the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association asking to be allowed to return home when the ship reached Singapore.

His many requests were refused.

However, on arriving at Singapore, Satoh packed his luggage and announced to his teammates that he was returning to Japan. While ashore he, with his companions, played a tennis match and then attended a party, where the Japanese Consul and prominent Japanese residents talked to him pretty strongly about his duty to the Emperor, warning him that he would be unutterably disgraced if he abandoned the trip to England. Meantime, he received a long cable from the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association commanding him in most emphatic language to continue the journey. He replied that he would follow instructions, and was aboard ship with his luggage at sailing time.

Throughout the day he "mooned" about the ship. He had his dinner in his cabin, while his fellow players ate in the ship's dining saloon, after which they repaired to the lounge bar, where they spent the evening until time for retirement.

When Jiro Yamagashi entered the cabin, which he shared with Captain Satoh, he immediately sensed that something was wrong, for in the center of the room an impromptu shrine had been arranged. A small table was covered with a spotless white cloth, upon which rested two burning candles, two vases, one containing fresh orchids, the other wilted cherry blossoms, a memory of his leave-taking of his fiancee.

Also resting on the table was a sword, the relic of some Samurain ancestor, and a plate of sweetmeats. A book of Japanese poems—tributes to the Emperor—served as a prop for a photograph of Emperor Hirohito in ceremonial dress. Against the vase of cherry blossoms rested a likeness of Miss Okado, while the orchid vase supported a picture of Satoh himself.

The background of the shrine was a silken Japanese flag, its folds draped over the photograph of the Emperor, which was set in the center of the table.

At one end of the table were four letters, addressed respectively to the master of the ship, the other members of the Japanese cup team, Miss Okado and the lawn tennis association's head in Tokio. All were sealed. On the other end of the table, where reposed Satoh's own likeness, lay a bulky, legal-sized envelope—it held the last will and testament of the famous tennis star.

The shrine, with its flaming candles, the picture of the Emperor, and the Japanese flag, told Yamagashi all too plainly the story of Satoh's tragic fate. Immediately he sped to the bridge to report the news, only to discover that the two deck stewards were then closeted with the master of the Hakone Maru relating the story of how the captain of the Japanese Davis Cup team had dramatically taken his plunge into the seas.

EVEN then the ship was turning in its course, and flashlights played on the water in the hope of locating the great tennis star, but he had sunk. After a vain search of many hours the ship continued on its way.

In his letter to the ship's commander Satoh apologized for the trouble his leap into the ocean was likely to cause.

But the tone of his farewell to his friends struck a more poignant note. He declared that he did not feel well enough to do honor to his country in the forthcoming matches, and had therefore decided to say good-by forever.

He trusted they would fight hard for the Davis Cup, and said he would be with them in spirit on the courts, wishing them every success.

Through Miss Okado, the Japanese were to learn of the events preceding the tragic end of her affianced, as a result of which there has been a sweeping denunciation by press and people of the cruel and heartless rulings of the tennis association's heads in the case of Satoh. Some of the most influential newspapers of Dai Nippon are calling for the summary ouster of every official of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association, while two refer to the suicide of Satoh as "Murder by the Chauvinists of Sport."

And some of the most bitter criticism directed against the officials of the association is not that they drove a famous athlete to suicide, but that they sent a physically unfit man to uphold the honor of Japan in a contest, which would undoubtedly have resulted in his collapse on the courts at Wimbledon, England, thereby reflecting on the stamina and hardiness of all the sons of the Emperor.

The point is raised that had Satoh entered the contest with the Austra-

A New York Doctor's Amazing Guerilla Warfare Against the Telephone Company Started Because He Thought He Was Being "Gypped."

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

SEVERAL years ago a resident of Hoboken, who worked in New York, thought he had found a way to get even with the telephone company for what he considered rotten service. When he got the wrong number, or failed to get his nickel back, or had to confide his pedigree to the operator so the nickel could be repaid by mail, he succumbed to a wild impulse and yanked the receiver off the instrument. The plague of receiver-less public telephones puzzled police for months. Then one evening someone saw an elderly gentleman on the Hoboken ferry emptying his overcoat pocket and dropping receivers into the Hudson river. The observer thought that was no way for a citizen to act and told the police and the vengeful 'phone user did a stretch on the island for malicious mischief.

Until recently he held the undisputed title of America's Irate Subscriber No. 1, but the laurel now graces the brow of Dr. Alton A. Smahl, well-to-do Manhattan ear, nose and throat specialist. Dr. Smahl spent $3000 and much valuable time to win a $5.40 verdict from the New York Telephone Company. The amount involved is tiny but the principle is large and the end is not yet. It means that a jury of six men in Municipal Court decided that Dr. Smahl had been unjustly overcharged $5.40, and it took the word of the specialist and his secretary against fifteen company experts, who said such an overcharge was impossible.

Not content with the striking vindication of his claim, Dr. Smahl has begun an offensive on a broader front. His chief means of torture and harassment is his Subscribers' Protective League Against the New York Telephone Company's Abuses, whose membership has boomed since the court victory. The League has begun a campaign to put through the Legislature a bill requiring the utility to install a meter on each telephone, so that calls may be measured as are electricity, water and gas. It has Assemblyman Meyer Alterman, of the 17th District, working on the framework of the proposed statute. No one dares estimate the millions such an installation would take.

Lastly, Dr. Smahl is conferring with Meyer H. Goldenkoff, the lawyer who won his telephone case, to determine if he has any chance of winning about $10,000 of what the headline writers call heart balm for the inconvenience the firm has put him to. And occasionally he issues a statement scoring what he terms the "overcharge racket," whose toll he estimates at from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually.

The specialist's battle with the 'phone company has raged for eight years. It was in 1926 that he first felt he was being gypped.

HE began keeping a record of his calls from his office in the Hotel Croydon, 12 East 86th street. His first month's record, he said, showed he had made 45 calls. The company held he had made 57. He stormed into the telephone firm's office and put up such a protest that officials gave him half rate on calls above 56, he claims. This represented two and a half cents rebate on the first month's bill, more on later bills.

Not at all mollified, the physician sought the aid of the Public Service Commission in getting what he considered justice. He appeared before this body at so many hearings that he knew its routine as well as his own procedure for removing tonsils. And he got nowhere. He returned to his guerilla warfare with the utility and the utility fired back shot for shot. It kept specially photographed records of its doings with the specialist and rated him its most persistent pest. Officials wearied of seeing his beady black eyes and sharp nose come through the revolving doors.

Last June Dr. Smahl decided to have a genuine showdown. He put a padlock on the dial of his office telephone and gave the only other key to Miss Helen Stoken, his secretary. Carefully the pair kept an itemized account of every outgoing call. The doctor claims he was overcharged as follows: June $1.10; July 35 cents; September $1.40; October $1.50 and November $1.05.

He refused to pay the $5.40 total and the company replied by interrupting his telephone service on January 27, 28 and 29, last, limiting service to incoming calls. After consulting with Goldenkoff, Dr. Smahl sent the company a check for the amount, writing on the back: "Paid under protest as overcharges." Then he filed suit to get the $5.40 back.

While waiting for the issue to come to trial, Dr. Smahl organized his protective league, drawing members from among his patients and his colleagues at Post-Graduate Hospital Dispensary and Harlem Eye and Ear Hospital, where he is a member of visiting staffs.

THE league had a membership of more than fifty when the trial began before Justice George L. Genung in Central Municipal Court, Manhattan. Dr. Smahl sat on one side of the courtroom with Miss Stoken. On the other side the telephone company had drawn up an impressive array of witnesses — engineers, accountants, operators and inspectors.

The plaintiff's case was brief, Dr. Smahl and Miss Stoken told their story simply and offered their memoranda in evidence. The rest of two days was consumed by the defense.

Fred L. Arland, engineer, testified that for two years he had made a survey of the dial message registers and had put through more than 100,000 test calls with an accuracy record of 99.77 per cent, with the mistakes all in favor of the subscriber.

Here J. R. Basset, company lawyer, took a pot shot at the doctor's dial padlock by asking: "Can a call be placed through a telephone on which the dial is locked?"

The witness said it could if the user simply jiggled the hook ten times and waited 45 seconds. The operator would cut in then and put through a call, he said.

Lawyer Goldenkoff made a fiery plea to the jury to bring in a verdict against the utility Goliath in behalf of his David-like client. He held that the case should be immortalized as the telephone subscribers' Dred Scott decision.

Basset was scornful. He pointed to the stacks of photographed records he had filed as evidence. He reviewed the answers his experts had given.

"The company would be lacking in that valuable ingredient, guts, if it did not fight this suit," he said in closing.

Within an hour the plaintiff had tasted triumph.

Dr. Smahl held jubilant court next day for interviewers, photographers and newsreel cameramen. Stacks of telegrams littered his desk, all reading something like this: "Congratulations on your victory. May we join your club?" Dr. Smahl made a speech for the newsreel men. Then he chatted with reporters. He gave permission for a radio dramatization of the trial. Every few minutes he answered the telephone. More congratulations.

"The telephone company should be pleased, because of all this extra business the case has brought them," he said, smiling as he replaced the handset. "Literally hundreds of subscribers have called today and asked to join the league."

Meanwhile, Victor Cooley, vice-president of the company which is a $4,900,000,000 corporation, issued the following statement: "In the case under question, because of repeated disputes extending over a period of years, the company felt it necessary to make a supplemental record of several days' duration, in addition to the normal billing record, for the purpose of identifying each individual call placed by the subscriber, so that a comparison could be made of calls actually completed with those listed on the record maintained by the subscriber.

"THIS special record agreed with the billing record, but a comparison of the special record with the record maintained by the subscriber demonstrated that the subscriber had failed to list all calls made during the period of observation. The jury, in returning its verdict, apparently disregarded the evidence which showed that the subscriber's record was incomplete.

"Dial message registers are so designed that they cannot operate unless the distant telephone answers. The answer of the distant station is just as necessary to operate the register as is the turning of a switch to light an electric lamp. Inspection of the operation of message registers is constantly carried on to insure their accuracy, and the most recent 100,000 inspections made showed accurate operation in 998 cases out of each 1000. The net result was an under-registration, thus making the inaccuracy in subscribers' favor."

Dr. Smahl was born in New York in 1898 without any middle name. The extra A." was added for the sake of dignity after he had become a doctor. He did pre-medical work at New York University and took his M.D. degree at Fordham. He spent the next year in Vienna in post-graduate work and returned to become an interne at Englewood, N. J. After a year in the U. S. Public Health Service, he set up as an otolaryngologist (ear, nose and throat specialist) in Manhattan. He is married and the father of a daughter.

Dr. Smahl estimates that if the so-called abuses of the company could be eliminated he would save about $1 a month on his bill. He figures that if he enjoys the Biblical life span of three-score-and-ten, he will get back $408 of the $3000 he spent to win the fight against the alleged overcharge. But he is satisfied.

"There's such a thing as the pioneer spirit," he said. "If a man's worth being called an American citizen, it's up to him to fight every injustice he sees, to fight it for the sake of others who may not have the time, the strength or the means. It's the American spirit, the pioneer spirit.

"And I won't be called a martyr. If I die, I'll die fighting."

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in her proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is Dolores Del Rio. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by her in these roles in the following movies:

Hollywood's Battle With Paris

she could reform the erring designers. Today such stylists as Adrian of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Plunkett of Radio-Keith-Orpheum and the free lance, "Madame" Ethel Wolfe, have been so successful in predicting style trends that in several cases the Parisians have had to follow their lead.

This is a serious situation for France, where 300,000 cutters and seamsters, 150,000 embroiderers and glove makers and bag makers live by the reproduction of the couturiers' models—models which used to be sold to buyers for as much as $500, to shoppers for $400 and to regular customers (the couturiers' greatest advertisement) for $350. The Americans have been so successful, in fact, that shrewd Japanese students of design are watching everything that goes on in Hollywood, hoping some day to constitute a third party in the fashion race. Only a lack of trained designers has hitherto kept Japan from being a dangerous competitor in the American dress market.

One instance where the Hollywood people have been notably successful is in the recent revivals of so-called "Moyen Age" designs. There is nothing new in the practice of reviving antique modes. Jean Phillipe Worth, a pupil of the painter, Corot, and Eleanora Duse's designer, used to create modified Elizabethan styles, while Paul Poiret, a follower of Bakst, the famous scene designer of the Russian Imperial Ballet, derived modern dresses from ancient Persian miniatures. But the present revivals, several of which are shown on page 3, are important because the practice of historical designing lapsed in recent years. So Paris has had to follow Plunkett and Adrian in their departure, and the Hollywood customers have a certain advantage, since they have great catalogues of historical styles and are frequently called upon to revive them for historical movies.

Some of the more popular innovations which have been introduced through Hollywood are fashions which Plunkett has derived from historical costumes. Padded tubing, originally a fourteenth century vogue and later used in the early nineteenth century, was first revived in a dress he designed for Lupe Valez. He has tried to introduce a modified bustle and has made revolutionary changes in the creation of negligees.

Of course, Hollywood has one handicap in the race for initiating good dress ideas. Its designers are working, after all, for the movies, not for themselves. And therefore, although they can exploit their designs in clothing factories when they are completed, they are often forced to hold up on a style for months, while the movie for which it is intended is in production. Unless the two appear simultaneously, the designers miss out on their chief advantage. This handicap is not, however, as serious as it might seem, since styles do not move more rapidly than they can be absorbed by the public. The couturiers in Paris have only two "openings" a year, so the loss of time incidental to movie production does not make competition impossible.

That is the nature of the contest between Paris and Hollywood. On the one side are arrayed prestige, a tradition of genuine art and the trained taste of a sophisticated clientele. Although very few women actually buy gowns from Paris, and even fewer buy them from the great couturiers, formerly (at least) Paris designs found their way through copies and derivations into dress shops and department stores all over the world. On the other side are the wealth of the movies, an unrivaled advertising medium and the natural aggressiveness of the American producer. Hollywood's chief advantage is that it does not have to be "good" in the eyes of the fastidious to succeed. It can win by sheer weight of mass tastes and mass pocketbooks.

The Tennis Star Drowned Himself

lians, the Japanese team would have been soundly trounced, which would have been humiliating to the prestige of Dai Nippon at a time when it must show the world its strength in every phase of human activity.

Some of the reactionaries of Japan see in Satoh's suicide a meritorious act, one atoning for all his mistakes and failures, while an ultra-conservative newspaper of Nagasaki gives prominence to a letter, wherein the writer seriously suggests that only through "seppuki" on the part of every official of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association can the death of the tennis star be expiated.

As Satoh was one of the popular idols of the youthful femininity of Japan, especially amongst the high school girls of Tokio and Kobe, the fear is now expressed that his suicide will be followed by an extraordinary wave of self-destruction by young women, such as swept the country a year ago at this time.

Since the death of Satoh, two young men and a girl have ended their lives, as a result of which a vigilant watch is being kept on Miss Okado, who, it is feared, may emulate the act of her fiance. It is for this reason, though denied by the newspapers, that the girl who was to have become the wife of Satoh was denied permission the other day to visit the region of the Mihara volcano.

It IS in the seething crater of Mihara volcano, on the small, isolated island of Oshima, 60 miles off the beautiful bay of Tokio, that the young women of Japan seek death as a surcease of their love woes.

Despite her grief Miss Okado has aired her views in language unmistakable as to the officials of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association, whom she charges with having not only deprived the country of a great athlete and gentleman, but a profound student of economics, whose worth to Dai Nippon was just beginning to be realized.

Amongst tennis devotees the untimely death of Satoh is regarded as a stunning blow not only to Japan's chances for the Davis Cup, but one of the greatest losses the game has sustained in many years. His prowess as a player was world-wide. He was almost as well known in the United States as in his own land.

He began his career by beating Cochet in Tokio during the visit of the French team to Japan in 1930. This was regarded as a magnificent performance, for Cochet was then at his best.

The following year Satoh went to Europe and won the singles championship of Czecho-Slovakia at Prague, general events in the Riviera, and was not beaten in England until after Wimbledon.

In 1932 he lost to H. W. Austin in the semi-final round at Wimbledon, but in the United States he twice beat Ellsworth Vines.

Last year he had the unique record of beating F. J. Perry in the French championships in Paris, J. Crawford in the Davis Cup match against Australia, also in Paris, and H. W. Austin in the quarter-finals at Wimbledon, England.

He succeeded to a permanent niche in the athletic hall of fame by beating almost every first-class amateur in four continents over a period of only three years.

He was a player whose game could not be gauged very easily, and on occasions he could rise to magnificent heights. From his attitude and expression one could never tell just what position he was in—whether within one point of victory or defeat, he was always the same. A great sportsman in victory, but even a greater sportsman in defeat.

The Romance That Merged Two Great American Fortunes

rection the bank prospered and flourished. Tremendous profits were made when Secretary of the Treasury Sherman made the bank virtually the Government's fiscal agent when specie payments were resumed, and in the next two decades the "First National crowd" made great profits through stock market operations and in railroads. There were only 18 stockholders, and in 1901 they received a 2000 per cent dividend. Baker himself became the richest, most powerful and taciturn commercial banker in the history of the country. And no other large financial institution in the United States could show a record for consistent money making to match that of the astonishing Baker bank.

When George Baker died, at the age of 91, three years ago, he was estimated to be the third or fourth richest man in the country. Estimates of the wealth piled up by the simple process of buying good stocks and holding on to them ran from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000. His 22,000 shares of First National Bank even now have a market value of $36,000,000, and the annual dividend of $100 a share provides an income of $2,200,000. No one knows the full extent of the other Baker holdings; but at various times the Bakers have been listed as holders of 74,000 shares of American Telephone, 204,000 New York Central, 87,000 U. S. Steel and 713,000 Delaware, Lackawana & Western, besides large interests in National Biscuit and American Can.

Baker was succeeded as president of the First National by his only son, George F. Baker Jr. He also left two daughters. One of the only son's four children, Granddaughter Edith, will fare as well at least as any of the other 11 grandchildren, which means that her share of her grandfather's, and eventually her father's estate, will amount to many millions.

When the founder of the Baker fortune was 7 years old, a clerk in Frankfort-on-Main, in Germany, entered on the birth register of the city the fact that a son, Jacob Henry, had been born to Mr. and Mrs. Moses Schiff on the morning of January 10, 1842.

The Schiffs were merchants in a city of great Jewish banking houses. Under the same roof, but just a few doors down the street from the Schiffs was the ancestral home of the Rothschilds.

After receiving a good education abroad, Jacob Schiff, at the age of 23, came to the United States the year the Civil War ended. His purpose was to study American banking methods, and the next 10 years he spent with various banking and brokerage houses, finally joining Kuhn, Loeb & Company in 1875.

This world-famous banking firm may be said to have come into being almost accidentally. Two Cincinnati commission merchants, Abraham Kuhn and Solomon Loeb, had been in the general merchandising business, often extending mercantile credits and thus becoming familiar with a phase of banking. They sold out their Cincinnati business in 1865 and retired, coming to New York with the expectation of living comfortably on "interest money," just as Baker's Uncle John had done.

But they were too energetic to enjoy any equivalent of rocking on the front porch, so in 1867 they founded their private banking firm, which was joined by Jacob Schiff in 1875, at the very time that George Baker had begun to flourish as president of the First National. It is admitted by all that it was Jacob Schiff who almost single-handed built up the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb from a small concern to a point where its only rival today in power and prestige was the House of Morgan.

Always maintaining strong European connections, Schiff was able to bring much European money into investments in United States railroads at a time when the carriers were enjoying their period of greatest development and growth. Hill and Harriman were the rail kings, but it was Schiff, and the firm in which he had become senior partner, that provided most of the revenue which enabled these railroad monarchs to rule their domains. It is estimated that Kuhn, Loeb, singly or in syndicate, has offered more than $12,000,000,000 worth of securities, mostly railroad.

In contrast to the taciturn Baker, Schiff was urbane and philosophical. Although contemporaries, the two men never locked horns in financial combat, and though occasionally they backed opposing forces there was never any conflict between them, and more often than not they acted in harmony in the interests of peace.

When Jacob Schiff died in 1920, he left a fortune estimated at approximately $34,000,000. His son, Mortimer Schiff, also a partner in Kuhn, Loeb, died in 1931, leaving a fortune estimated at $100,000,000. The greater part of this was left to his only son, John Schiff, who also has inherited other large sums from other members of the family.

The 29-year-old head of the house of Schiff is now also a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Company. He is quiet, affable and able, is dignified and conscientious and serves on the boards of many philanthropic and public institutions, in addition to working hard at his banking business. He was graduated from Yale in 1925, studied at Oxford for a year and later served apprenticeships with the Bankers Trust Company and the Missouri Pacific Railroad prior to joining Kuhn, Loeb.

His fiancee, Miss Baker, is 20 years old, a blonde, trim and popular young lady, known for her good taste rather than extravagance in dress. She is interested in music and has composed some pieces for the piano. After their marriage they will make their home at Northwood, the beautiful Schiff estate at Oyster Bay, Long Island. Thus, the two long paths that ran parallel for three-quarters of a century meet in the third generation on a mountain top of wealth and social prestige.

Row Over Chinese Movie Queens

the little rural towns are still pretty primitive, and movie theaters are unknown in most of them.

A good many of the films shown in China, naturally, are of American manufacture. Some of them, especially those shown in the seaports, where Western influences are strongest, are the same films that American audiences see. Others are made exclusively for the Chinese trade, with Chinese actors and actresses. Two or three years ago a company was formed in San Francisco for this work; others are said to be in existence elsewhere.

One odd quirk of the film situation is the fact that films of foreign manufacture are likely to be subject to a much stiffer censorship than are those of Chinese origin. And one of the big reasons for this is—the kiss.

An American film man who traveled clear across China making movies, explains as follows:

"You have no doubt heard that heroes and heroines in Chinese pictures do not kiss, as there is no such thing as a kiss in Chinese behavior."

As a result of this, the censors are apt to cut most of the kisses out of a foreign film. They don't have that problem with films of native make, because the films contain no kisses.

Incidentally, the film man quoted above casts an interesting sidelight on the general subject of the custom of kissing in China.

"Although they don't kiss in pictures," he says, "I must admit that these Chinese girls have taken the importation rather seriously. In fact, many of them have made a study of it, and might give Hollywood girls a lesson in this particular diversion."

As a matter of fact, love-making in China does not suffer from the lack of kisses. The Chinese, proverbially clever, have a substitute for it which may seem extremely mild to Westerners, but which seems to have satisfied the Chinese for many centuries.

"Chinese girls," says the movie man, "make love with their hands. They kiss with their fingertips instead of the lips. In view of the fact that their hands are so graceful and velvety, this isn't such a bad break as you think."

But to get away from this interesting topic and back to the general subject of movies in the Orient:

Japan, like China, has been developing a strong moving picture industry of its own. Due to the fact that Japan's general economic level is substantially higher than that of China, the Japanese industry is considerably more widespread than the Chinese.

The largest movie concern in Japan is the Koichi-ku Kinema, which has its studios in the city of Kamata, employs 12 directors and turns out 24 films a year.

there used to be a big stone in St. Louis with his name or initials carved on it because of his feat in lifting it. It weighed hundreds of pounds."

The story of the eighteenth century romance of Michael Barada and Laughing Buffalo has been brought to light by a bill which Congressman Edgar Howard of Nebraska recently introduced. The bill provides for placing certain members of the Barada family, descendants of Michael and Laughing Buffalo, on the official rolls of the Omaha tribe, in order that they may receive land allotments. The genealogical chart prepared to accompany the bill lists 263 of these descendants. Many of them live on the Omaha reservation and some are already members of the Omaha tribe. Others live on the Nemaha reservation in Southern Nebraska, and the rest are scattered over the West. While most of them are farmers, there are also business men, lawyers and doctors in the number.

Elwood Harlan, president of the Tribal Council of the Omaha Indians, has gone to Washington and placed before Congress his tribe's indorsement of the bill. The Omahas are willing, he has reported, for the Baradas who have not been taken into the tribe to be enrolled as members under the pending measure.

Harlan has told the Indian Affairs Committee of the romance of Michael Barada and the Indian girl whom he married; he has known the tale since childhood. And the committee, in its report on the bill, has enlivened the official document with a recital of this dramatic, old-fashioned love story.

"She often had indigestion, was frequently constipated. An X-ray of her intestines showed 'self-poisoning.'

"I had her eat yeast. At the end of four weeks, her skin was completely clear, her digestion greatly improved, and her intestines worked perfectly . . ."

Fleischmann's Yeast makes your stomach juices flow faster, and thus aids your digestion. It strengthens your bowels, softens waste, and so helps clear your blood of poisons which cause eruptions in your skin, make you feel tired.

As Dr. Pulay explains, it is "so much better than cathartics which are weakening, and harmful to the delicate tissues of your bowels."

Won't you take advantage of this great doctor's experience? Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast (rich in vitamins B, D, G) every day, for 30 days at least. Directions are on the label. You can get it at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains. Get some today. . . and feel better!

For your Outer Skin—Pond's Vanishing Cream, greaseless, fluffy. For overnight or daytime softening and smoothing. Holds powder for hours.

Miss Whitney Bourne

of New York, accorded the most beautiful girl of this winter's brilliant season, says: "Pond's Vanishing Cream keeps my skin cool and smooth. The Cold Cream keeps it clean! Two creams are absolutely necessary."

IF MORE WOMEN understood the real cause of lines and dryness, there would be fewer young faces with lines and fewer young women complaining "My skin is so dry."

The truth is—lines and dryness have nothing to do with each other. Each has an entirely different cause. And each starts in an entirely different layer of your skin.

Do you know that your skin consists of two distinct layers?

THE APPLE TELLS HOW WRINKLES COME

SMOOTH—GLOSSY
1 At its peak, the inner and outer skins of the apple are both firm and smooth—perfect!

SOFT—SPONGY
2 Past its prime, the inner tissue of the apple has shrunken away from the outer skin.

WRINKLED—DISCOLORED
3 Later, the outer skin has wrinkled to fit the shrunken under skin. This causes wrinkles in human skin, too!

The outer layer—the one you see—is very thin. Naturally, it is exposed to everything drying. Heat, cold, wind, even make-up dry the moisture out of this skin.

And that is where Dryness comes. You can avoid it with a cream made just for the outer skin. Pond's Vanishing Cream actually guards the surface of your skin—and puts lost moisture back into it.

It's a greaseless cream. You can use it by day as a foundation and at night for softening without fear of oiliness. Yet you know it is keeping your thin outer skin moist and supple. Smooth as a twenty-year-old's.

But Lines have their cause deep down in under skin, when the oil glands there fail to pour out beauty oils. (The apples in the illustration at the left show you how.)

To keep this under skin full and firm, you must use a deep penetrating oil cream—Pond's Cold Cream. This soft melting cream is a wonderful cleanser. And it supplies the under skin with just the oils it needs.

THE WAY TO USE these Two wonderful Creams is called the Pond's Two-Skin Beauty Treatment. Here it is, as Miss Whitney Bourne describes it . . .

"Last thing at night I cover my face with this luscious Pond's Cold Cream. It picks up every particle of dirt and make-up. I use Pond's Tissues to take this first coat of cream off. Then I do the same thing all over. Sometimes I change off and use Pond's Liquefying Cream . . . it's new. But the Cold Cream is my steady diet.

"After that, I smooth on Pond's Vanishing Cream, and leave it on overnight to soften my skin.

"Next morning, and during the day, I cleanse my face well with my Pond's Cold Cream and then put on Pond's Vanishing Cream. I put it on my neck, arms and hands, too. And it's an excellent foundation. Powder stays for hours."

Isn't it simple? And logical? One cream to guard the surface of your skin. Another cream to go deep and help the under skin. If you have been trying to get along with one cream only, just fill out the coupon and try this famous Two-Skin Method for a few days. See your skin grow soft and fine—smooth!
